HOUSE VOTES TO BLOCK PENN GRAFT INQUIRY

Earle Hopes to Curb Grand Jury.

Harrisburg, Pa., July 28.—(AP)—The top-heavy Democratic majority in Pennsylvania's house of representatives tonight shouted down Republican opposition and passed finally an administration bill to suspend a grand jury investigation against Gov. George H. Earle and thirteen associates.

The bill now goes to the senate where the party division is more nearly equal. The Democrats also have a majority there, however.

Final senate action is scheduled this week so the governor can sign the bill by Saturday morning. The grand jury inquiry is scheduled to open Aug. 8.

Here Are Some Charges.

The charges against Earle and his associates were made during the recent Democratic primary campaign. They include extortion of campaign funds from political employés, graft on public buildings, on state purchases of trucks, and on state purchases of liquor for its alcohol monopoly, as well as corruption in the "sale" of such legislation as the Sunday motion picture law.

The Supreme court approved an investigation by a grand jury and rejected a motion that Earle's attorney general be in charge instead of the county prosecutor.

The Democratic representatives today shunted aside Republican pleas for public hearings on the bill that would give the legislature the sole right to investigate charges of official misconduct against the governor or any other impeachable officer.

Plan to Recess Legislature.

Democratic leaders planned to recess the legislature soon after the bills are enacted and let the house committee proceed with the inquiry. Impeachment charges must originate in the house and are tried in the senate.

The first bill says in its preamble that it is based on the state power of constitutional provisions that the house of representatives shall have "the sole power of impeachment" for the sole purpose of "removal from office." These constitutional provisions, as quoted, also provide that the impeached officer "whether convicted or acquitted by the house, nevertheless shall be liable to indictment and punishment by grand jury action."

Has Exclusive Jurisdiction.

In this bill, the house is given "exclusive jurisdiction" for 90 days over charges against any public official liable to impeachment and removal. This would prevent any grand jury or other agency from investigating the charges until after the November election. It declares it "unlawful" for any court to order a grand jury investigation of such public officer until after investigation by the house is ended. It is to become effective immediately upon signature by the governor.

The second bill provides for a procedure. The investigation of any charges against a public official is to be conducted publicly by a special committee of seven members appointed by the speaker of the house. The attorney general and the district attorney may appear before the committee and present evidence.

Given Power to Subpena.

The committee is given power to subpena. Any witness refusing to appear to produce documents, or to answer questions shall be committed to the penitentiary directly on order of the speaker of the house by direction of the house itself. Further, he may be kept in the penitentiary from session to session of the legislature, which meets every two years.

The third bill provides that in any investigation or court proceeding in any county of Pennsylvania, the attorney general "may at any stage of the investigation or proceeding, in his absolute discretion, supersede and set aside the district attorney of the county."

The court before which such proceeding is pending, however, may question the attorney general's impartiality and, in turn, set him aside by calling in "an attorney at law resident in another county. Thereupon, the attorney general may appeal to the Supreme court and the proceedings must suspend until his appeal finally is decided.

The fourth bill, in its official title, says that it "suspends retroactively as well as prospectively" any other investigation of public officers if the house of representatives decides to undertake the investigation.

HEARING ENDS BEFORE ICKES; FEW OBJECTORS

Decision Waits on Engineers' Report.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 28.—[Special.]—Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes today indicated that only a minor engineering problem stood in the way of a PWA grant of $14,238,000 for a Chicago subway. This expression featured an open hearing at which objectors gave their opinions.

Objections to the subway were voiced by only three Chicagoans who attended the hearing. Arguments against certain phases were presented in letters from half a dozen organizations. All the protests were answered, to what appeared to be Ickes' satisfaction, by Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Special Traction Counsel William H. Sexton, and Philip J. Harrington, traction engineer.

At the end of the hearing Ickes announced that the PWA engineers have not yet made their report on the project and he reserved a decision. It is known that President Roosevelt's attention has been engaged by some of the engineering problems involved and this has caused a delay.

Consider Long Range Angle.

A question whether a two track or four track subway would be most advisable has been in Ickes' mind, he said. He wanted to know if a two track subway, such as is planned at present, was desirable "from a long range viewpoint."

"I know a speedy determination is wanted," he remarked. "We'll proceed with our studies and handle it just as efficaciously as we can."

Engineer Harrington assured the secretary of the interior that a two track subway would be more than sufficient to handle the heaviest trafic to be anticipated.

The subway plan, he explained, provides for a subway under State street, from Roosevelt road to Chicago avenue where it would turn west to Franklin street, another tube under Jackson boulevard from a point west of the river to Grant park, and one under Washington street from Halsted street to Grant park.

Holds Two Tracks Sufficient.

"The heaviest trafic would be from the north," he said, in answer to Ickes' question about two track and four track subways. "Our survey shows that the two tracks can handle 70 per cent above the peak. I can't conceive of that track ever being loaded to capacity.

"If two more tracks are needed subsequently, it would be much more advantageous to build them in an adjacent street such as Dearborn street. It would also be cheaper, costing only $38,000,000 compared to the $44,000,000 cost of a four track subway."

The total cost of the proposed subway system is estimated in the PWA application at $31,840,000. If the PWA authorizes a grant of $14,328,000, the city proposes to raise the remainder out of its own funds and resources.

Estimates Under Two Years.

Ickes also questioned Harrington closely concerning the possibility of completing the subway within two

HAY FEEDS $75,000 FARM FIRE; THREE HORSES BURNED

Fire, which fed on tons of tinder-like hay, destroyed a large barn and did damage estimated at $75,000 early today on the Westwood Farms, in Milwaukee avenue, about three miles south of Libertyville, owned by Mrs. Alice H. Patterson and her daughter, Mrs. J. Fred Reeve. A crowd of several hundred was attracted by the flames.

Firemen from Libertyville, Mundelein, and Wheeling pumped water from the Des Plaines river a quarter mile away and saved a number of other buildings from destruction, although several were damaged.

The fire started supposedly from spontaneous combustion, in the barn where the hay was stored and in which five horses were stabled. Julius Hoenes, farm manager, rescued two of the horses, but the three others, including a prize winning sorrel, were lost.

Mrs. Patterson, who is the former wife of J. M. Patterson, publisher of the New York Daily News, and her daughter are in the east.

Father Divine to Be Neighbor of Roosevelt

Kingston, N. Y., July 28.—[Special.]—Howland Spencer, who four years ago disputed President Roosevelt's right to say his estate was located at Crum Elbow, today presented a large part of his 500 acres of land directly across the Hudson river from the President's Hyde Park home to the followers of Harlem's Father Divine, colored cult leader.

Twenty-three disciples of the man who is known as "God" to his followers signed legal papers filed with the Ulster county clerk this afternoon, giving them ownership of almost three miles of Hudson river waterfront property. Included are fifteen buildings, three of which are spacious residences, and numerous boathouses and docks.

Summer Camp Planned.

The land will become a summer camp for Father Divine's followers, 3,000 or 4,000 of whom will come here on specially chartered excursion boats Aug. 8 and 9.

Since the days of Henry Hudson the promontory on which Spencer's estate is located had been shown on the maps as Krum Elbow, later changed to Crum Elbow.

Shortly after the President expressed his interest in the name the department of the interior's committee on geographical names transferred the name to the Roosevelt side of the river. The commerce department's geodetic survey installed brass disks on the rocks on Spencer's side designating it as Spencer. Spencer once offered to share the Crum Elbow name, but this offer was not accepted.

Open in Bitterness.

Spencer, a gentleman farmer, made no secret of the bitterness which inspired his action today.

"Father Divine's ideas will triumph over Roosevelt's," he said in a statement tonight. "Last week I was offered $50,000 for this estate, but because of the work Father Divine is doing, I have given him my share, which is the largest portion of the land involved."

The remainder, Spencer indicated, was sold by other property owners for a nominal sum, with a down payment of several thousand dollars sealing the transaction.

On the property, which lies on both sides of route 9W, the Albany road, are a vineyard, an orchard, a gasoline filling station, and livestock. Among the twenty-three signing purchasers were several identified by their "heavenly" names. They were:

Peace Harmony, Rebecca Good, Ruth Victory, Miss St. Luke Faith, Miss Faithful Love, Miss Redeemed Love, Mary Magdalene Faith, and Miss John Jacob. Beside a large colored following Divine has attracted many disciples from Nordic races.

Chicago Is Host to Hughes and His Men Today

Chicago will be host today to Howard Hughes and his crew of four who circled the top of the world in less than four days. They will arrive at 1 p. m. at Chicago airport in the sturdy Lockheed plane with which they girdled the globe. The flyers are on their return trip to California.

Mayor Kelly, other city officials, and representatives of the mayor's New Century committee will form a welcoming group at the airport. As soon as Hughes and his companions alight they will be whisked behind a police motorcycle escort to the Congress street plaza. There a parade through the downtown section will start.

Will Get to See Plane.

Meanwhile Chicagoans will be given an opportunity to examine the Hughes plane. It will be wheeled into an American Airlines hangar and placed under a police guard. Then visitors will be permitted inside the hangar, a few at a time, it was announced, to look at it. Air lines pilots will be on hand to answer questions and explain the purpose of the many instruments.

The parade will go north in Michigan avenue from Congress street to Randolph street, then west to State street, south to Jackson boulevard, west to La Salle street, and north to the city hall. At the request of the mayor's committee, stores and buildings along the line of march will be decorated with flags and bunting.

Department Teams, Too.

Behind mounted and motorcycle police will be the police and fire department drill teams and the police department drum and bugle corps. Then will follow the guests riding in open automobiles. In the first car will be Mayor Kelly, Hughes, and Albert R. Lodwick, Hughes' business adviser, who is accompanying the flyers.

At the city hall the mayor will present the flyers with certificates making them representatives of his New Century committee in behalf of Chicago. In the evening there will be a banquet in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house, to which 2,000 guests have been invited.

Court to Punish North Chicago Strike Rioters

Contempt sentences against ten North Chicago strike rioters will stand unchanged and charges against thirty-seven others will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

This answer was given yesterday by Judge Ralph J. Dady of the Lake County Circuit court and First Assistant State's Attorney George W. Field to pleas by attorneys representing the Committee for Industrial Organization and the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee.

The forty-seven men involved took part in the seven weeks of lawlessness that marked the strike at the Chicago Hardware Foundry company at North Chicago. The strike was settled July 23 after several outbreaks of violence. The cost to the company exceeded $20,000 in actual plant damage. It cost Lake county more than $10,000 for special protection. It cost company employés $75,000 in lost pay.

Company's Part of Agreement.

In the agreement between the company and the union at the close of the strike, the company promised to recommend that all charges against strikers be dropped. It made it clear, however, that it could only recommend, not guarantee.

Accordingly, Judge Dady and Prosecutor Field were waited on yesterday afternoon by a delegation including Harry E. Scheck, conciliator for the United States department of labor; John J. Brownlee, personal representative of Van A. Bittner, midwest director of the SWOC; John Riffe, sub-regional director of the SWOC; Lester F. Collins, attorney for the C. I. O.; Edward B. Sherwin, president of the foundry company; J. A. De Celle, plant superintendent, and Sidney H. Block, company attorney.

Scheck, the federal conciliator, requested that they retire to Judge Dady's chamber. This done, he opened the conference with a general plea for mercy, based upon the proposition of peace and harmony in the community.

Ignorance of Law Is Plea.

He was followed by Brownlee, who said:

"The men did not understand the injunction; their only crime was ignorance of the law. [The injunction ordered the strikers to cease blockading the gates of the plant. When deputies tried to read the order, the strikers raised an uproar that drowned their voices.] Let us forgive and forget and live in peace."

"I have given this matter full consideration," replied Judge Dady. "I have gone over it for several days. But contempt of court is a serious matter not to be dealt with lightly.

"I am not interested in this case beyond my duty as a judge. I am not angry with any one, either as a judge or as an individual. I am not a tool of any corporation or any interest. I simply performed by duty under the law.

Stands By His Judgment.

"There is a clear violation of the injunction here. The contempt order I signed reflects my judgment at that time. That is still my judgment.

"There are pleas here that I temper justice with mercy. I have done that. I could have given those two men two years in jail and it would have been upheld. As it is I gave their leader 120 days and the other nine only twenty and thirty days. The sentences were indeed tempered with mercy."

Scheck replied quickly:

"What the judge says is true. But let us consider that the strike is

SEIZE UNIONIST, THEN FREE HIM; HUNT 3 OTHERS

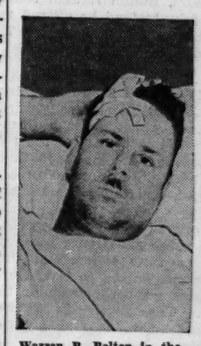
Du Page county authorities made one arrest last night in their ineffective efforts against the reign of terror which has strangled building operations in the village of Lombard.



Warren B. Bolton in the Elmhurst hospital.

The arrest came only after a warant had been sworn out by Warren Bolton, who the day before had been brutally beaten by a gang of labor sluggers.

Bolton signed the warant in his hospital bed, where he lies swathed in bandages from the assault he sustained.

The warant was served on Roy Leverenz, secretary and treasurer of the teamsters and chauffeurs' union of Wheaton, and business agent of the Du Page County Building Trades council.

Arrest a Jovial Thing.

The arrest of Leverenz was carried out in a jovial manner.

Deputy sheriffs exchanged jokes with Leverenz and almost apologetically took him into custody. A half hour later Leverenz was released on bond by the same magistrate who issued the warant.

Leverenz was the object of one of four warants issued by Justice Alfred E. Watts of Elmhurst.

Bolton, father of five children, was the latest victim of the labor sluggers. He was ambushed as he tried to deliver a load of machinery to a picketed Lombard home building project. He was stoned, beaten with crowbars and a blackjack and left for dead.

Recognized Four of Them.

In periods of semi-consciousness after police found him, Bolton said he could recognize at least four of his assailants. He said he had seen them loitering around Ash and Martha streets in the suburb, the location of the building project.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon there was a conference at Bolton's bedside. In addition to the magistrate, there were Bolton's lawyer, David J. Campbell; W. E. Hooper, an assistant state's attorney; and William Wallace of La Grange, the building contractor.

Bolton declared that Leverenz was one of the terrorists in three automobiles who threw brick through the windshield of his truck, cutting his face. Another brick tosser Bolton said he recognized, but knew only as Shannon.

Charges Deadly Assault.

These two were charged with assault with a deadly weapon. Two others whom Bolton said he knew by sight but not by name were charged with assault and battery. Bolton said they were members of the gang who set upon him with blackjacks and a crowbar when he sought refuge in a barbecue stand.

At 6:30 o'clock the warants were handed to Sherif Arthur Bennett to serve. The sherif said he would serve only the one naming Leverenz, preferring to wait until Bolton was able to accompany his men and identify the others more clearly.

"You fellows know Roy," said the sherif, turning to two deputies, James Venner and Cecil Pigg. "Go out and get him."

He's Waiting for Them.

Followed by newspaper reporters the deputies drove to Leverenz's home at 716 Washington street, Naperville. He was sitting outside in his automobile when the deputies approached.

Both shook hands with Leverenz, who grinned. For a few minutes the three chatted briefly. Then Venner said:

"Well, Roy, here's a warant for you. I guess you'll have to come along."

"Why, sure, fellows," grinned Leverenz. "I know how it is. But do you mind if I change my clothes first?"

Venner and Pigg said that was quite all right. After making a complete but leisurely change Leverenz reappeared.

"Say, it's all right if I drive my own car, isn't it?" he asked. "I don't want to be marooned, you know."

The two deputies acquiesced. Venner drove the police car and Pigg got in beside Leverenz and they all went on to Magistrate Watt's office in the Elmhurst police station.

There Leverenz was arraigned and the case was continued to Aug. 6 at 11 a. m. pending the arrest of the others. Hilarity accompanied the brief hearing, as the deputies laughingly referred to Leverenz as a criminal.

Realty Bond Quickly Made.

He was told he could have his freedom for a $2,000 cash bond or a $4,000 real estate bond. A telephone call quickly brought Emil Reinke, 270 Indiana avenue, Elmhurst, a trucking contractor, who scheduled a realty bond.

"What's the matter?" remarked Reinke in a joking manner. Leverenz pointed to the complaint which stated he had assaulted Bolton with a brick.

"Why, Roy, did you do that?" Reinke spoke in mock seriousness. In the same vein Leverenz solemnly replied, "O, no; I don't know a thing about it."

Bolton to Go Along Today.

More laughter followed as Leverenz and Reinke walked out with Deputies Venner and Pigg, who bade them an exaggerated farewell. This morning the deputies were told by Sherif Bennett to appear at the hospital. If Bolton has recovered sufficiently from his injuries they will accompany him in a search for the other suspects.

"No one has a right to stop me from trying to make a living for my family," declared the injured man yesterday. "As soon as I am able I will work for Wallace again."

Bolton has an aged mother, a sister, and a younger brother to support, beside his own family. Although his business suffered heavily in the last two years, Bolton refused relief or a WPA job. Instead he offered to deliver material for Wallace for 75 cents an hour.

Works Under Landis Award.

Wallace is an open shop contractor under the Landis Employers' Award association, of which he is a member. During the early part of the six weeks' picketing he complained that several of his employés were threatened, slugged, and otherwise terrorized.

Wallace offered substantiating affidavits, but police authorities insisted there had been no violence at the project. He complained to Gov. Horner, who sent a labor conciliator to investigate. The governor's agent said he found no evidence of any serious trouble.

Wallace and Charles P. Peirce, vice president of the Landis Award association, yesterday sent another telegram to the governor. They cited the attack on Bolton as further evidence that law and order have collapsed in Lombard.

Four Man Force on Job.

For protection of the workmen at the building project, J. C. Alderman, president of the village board, has furnished his police chief, Richard Groote, and the village three man force. At night four police reserves patrol the project.

Chief Groote is a pious Hollander whose family still lives in The Netherlands. Business men of Lombard complain that he is too weak kneed in handling the pickets.

As an example they cite the instance Wednesday when Bolton delivered a load of gravel an hour before the bloody attack. One of the pickets swore at Bolton and tried to unfasten the hood of his truck. Bolton insisted that the man be arrested.

"You go Away, Charley."

"Now, Charley, now," Chief Groote remarked in a calming voice as he turned toward the picket. "Charley, you go away." Charley did.

Chief Groote, the appointee of the present Republican administration, is known as a strong labor sympathizer. Several of his policemen, who are supposed to be guarding the project, are said to carry union cards.

Sherif Bennett and State's Attorney Russell W. Keeney are also known as strong friends of labor. Residents of the county point out that it is almost impossible for a man to be elected without the support of the powerful building trades.

Sherif Bennett has stated repeatedly that he would supply deputies or special deputies to protect workmen on the project if Chief Groote made the request or if Wallace made the request through Groote.

Lombard Officials

State's Attorney Russell W. Keeney of Du Page county who advised sherif that he cannot send deputies to scene of building strike in Lombard unless help is requested by Lombard officials.

Sherif Arthur Bennett of Du Page county last night arrested one of four men for whom warants had been signed by Warren Bolton, slugging victim. He said he would wait until Bolton recovered to seize the three others.

Chief of Police Richard Groote of Lombard has a three man force. Yesterday they drove around the area in a squad car and reported everything peaceful.

"We are doing all we can to preserve law and order," said J. C. Alderman, president of the village board. Others have requested help from Gov. Horner.

U. S. INJUNCTION URGED TO OPEN MAYTAG PLANT

Writ Against Kraschel Is Proposed in Strike.

BY CHARLES PURVIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Newton, Ia., July 28.—[Special.]—A federal court injunction against Gov. Nels G. Kraschel was proposed here tonight to permit reopening of the Maytag Washing Machine company factory, which is closed because of a C. I. O. strike.

The Iowa National Guard, under orders of Gov. Kraschel, is keeping the plant closed and preventing the reëmployment of hundreds of men who want to go back to work.

Two other important developments occurred today in the strike. A guard of militia officers was posted at the National Labor Relations board hearing because of threats of disorder, and Gov. Kraschel was challenged publicly to explain his labor policy.

Labor Dictatorship Feared.

Fear was expressed that Iowa may suffer a labor dictatorship comparable to that in Russia, Germany, Italy, and Mexico.

A representative of the Maytag company said a study was being made of a Minnesota labor case in which an injunction forced the governor to withdraw National Guard troops.

The situation here has been compared by several persons, and particularly by the Cedar Rapids Gazette, with that of a strike at the Strutwear Knitting company of Minneapolis in 1936. The late Gov. Floyd Olson proclaimed martial law and, at his direction, the plant was closed.

Use of Property Cited.

The company obtained an injunction against Olson's use of the troops in depriving it of its lawful use of its property. A special court of three judges which granted the injunction held that Olson had no power to use the troops to deprive the company of its right to possess its own property or to prevent it from using its property in the conduct of its lawful business.

The court also held that the state was duty bound to protect property from destruction by mob violence and to preserve the liberty of a citizen to use his property lawfully.

There is much talk in Newton about the possibility that the quest for a federal court injunction against the governor will be the next important move in the case. It has been suggested, however, that Kraschel might welcome the proceedings, because it would give him opportunity to retire more or less gracefully from the warm position in which his action placed him.

Rule Proves to Be Boomerang.

The governor's martial law proved to be a boomerang as the result of a military ruling which banned political rallies or speeches in the vicinity. Kraschel had been invited to speak at the Jasper county fair, which opens Aug. 23 in nearby Colfax.

Because of the ruling, however, the fair committee withdrew its invitation to the governor.

"While we regret this and hope the martial law will not be in existence on our fair dates, it is necessary that we be assured of a program which can be carried out," the fair directors said in a letter to Kraschel.

The governor tonight authorized Maj. Gen. M. A. Tinley, commander of the district which is under martial law, to permit fifty Maytag employés to return to the plant for factory maintenance and to study operations costs.

Tenseness Grows at Inquiry.

Growing tenseness at the labor board inquiry, which has been dragging along for nearly two weeks, resulted in the military guard being posted in the hearing room. Judge Advocate Frank B. Hallagan, Col. George F. Everest, and Lieut. Lloyd H. Rockwell were in the crowded hearing room during the day, two of the officers being present at all times. The guard was ordered by Trial Examiner Madison Hill after Attorney E. W. Ford for the Maytag company protested against the unruliness of the crowd, which is composed mostly of C. I. O. strikers.

During the testimony of Joseph Griffin, a high school teacher, who was being questioned about radio addresses he gave in behalf of a back-to-work movement, the crowd laughed uproariously when he commented that the Newton Chamber of Commerce represented the town's citizens.

Objects to Demonstration.

Attorney Ford objected to the demonstration and declared that such incidents, if allowed to continue, might affect witnesses. The hearing has about reached the point where back-to-work men will be called to the stand. When the guard arrived at the inquiry room, Examiner Hill made it plain that he had not wanted it.

"I anticipate no disorders," he said, "but because of protests made by company counsel to an alleged demonstration, I think it is best that the military be present."

The labor board hearing was adjourned at noon today until tomorrow morning after the investigation had reached an impasse when A. M. Miller, back-to-work attorney, refused to bring before the inquiry the cards signed by 611 Maytag employés who expressed a desire to return to work.

Miller said he would consent only to accompanying Thurlow Smoot, board attorney, and Examiner Hill to the Jasper county savings bank for an inspection of the cards, in safe keeping there. Miller declared he would not bring the cards to the hearing room unless a federal court ordered him to do so.

Afraid to Reveal Names.

The attorney explained that he believed the peace and quiet of this community would be threatened if the names of signers were revealed.

He said he wanted no record made of the back-to-workers' names because the list is a confidential matter. Examiner Hill was prepared to issue a subpena for Miller if an agreement on the matter was not reached.

Miller testified that he had no objection to negotiations between the C. I. O. and the plant, which has been closed since May 9. He explained, however, that the men did not want to remain idle while negotiations are going on. That is the meat of the whole controversy, as far as Newton folk are concerned.

The challenge to Gov. Kraschel to explain his labor policy, which has inflamed this community more than anything else in its history, was made in an open letter by J. R. Rhodes, publisher Newton Daily News. He asked the governor if he now proposes to employ his executive power to force labor contracts on employers. He also wanted to know if the governor can continue to refuse to protect the rights of citizens to work and to deny legal protection to property rights.

"Governor, let's have your bill of particulars," Rhodes said. "This is an altogether new prerogative for a chief executive of Iowa. If the governor of our state is henceforth to dictate labor contracts, Iowa may suffer a labor dictatorship comparable to that which now exists in Russia, Germany, Italy, and Mexico."

Several Firms Ruined.

The publisher said that as a result of the Maytag labor fight several firms in Newton have been forced into insolvency and others will follow shortly.

"Men and women are losing their homes, and financial tragedies without end are upon us in the wake of the governor's mandate," he said.

"And above all, such human suffering as Newton and Jasper county have never witnessed will be upon the head of Gov. Kraschel."

Rhodes pointed to the statement of the governor, who said in refusing the Maytag company's formal request to open the plant: "I know of no other taxpayer who is complaining about relief." The reference obviously was to E. H. Maytag, president of the company, the publisher said.

"The citizens of Newton and Jasper county, including members of our board of supervisors," Rhodes said, "are amazed at this statement. Every taxpayer in Newton and the county is in rebellion against the unnecessary relief that has been foisted upon them because of the strike. Surely your statement must have been the result of passion and not based upon facts as you must know them.

"Your public reference to the Maytag statement as being 'amusingly inconsistent' should shame you to the very marrow. Why any citizen of Iowa, much less our chief executive, should dare refer to the tragedy here in Newton in such language is beyond human understanding.

"Apparently, Gov. Kraschel, you think the Newton strike is nothing more than a little altercation between the Maytag company and the C. I. O. As a matter of fact, the conflict in Newton is a war against communism, disregard of law and order, and disrespect for our courts. And while you find the situation amusing, thousands of our people are suffering."

Gov. Kraschel's Aid to C. I. O. Offends Iowa Farm Voters

Des Moines, Ia., July 28.—[Special.]—Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel's efforts in behalf of the C. I. O. in the strike at the Maytag plant in Newton have been made a major issue in his campaign for reëlection. Many observers believe that his use of troops to further the cause of the strikers has alienated thousands of farm votes. Farmers always have supplied the bulk of his voting strength in the past.

George Wilson.

George Wilson of Des Moines is the Republican candidate against the governor, who won the Democratic nomination without opposition in June. Two years ago Wilson lost the governorship by only 2,440 votes. His failure to pile up a large majority in his home county of Polk gave Kraschel victory. It was reported then that John Connolly, Des Moines' labor boss, unexpectedly deserted Wilson and was powerful enough to swing the election.

C. I. O. Pressure Reported.

Connolly is the attorney for the Committee for Industrial Organization men at Newton. He is believed to have used his supposed vote getting ability to persuade the worried governor to declare martial law in Newton and, with no apparent legal authority, forcibly to keep the Maytag plant closed.

"Kraschel is tying himself up in a knot," one observer declared today. "He is losing the farmers. They're unable to understand why they have to pay taxes to feed men who won't work. They don't see why soldiers should be used to keep men from working.

"Of course, Kraschel has the New Deal farm program to help him. The farmers like that well enough. But they're canny and they don't like the C. I. O. His dickering with the strikers in an endeavor to get their votes probably will lose him more than it will gain. The Republicans seem to have a better chance now than they had in 1936."

Kraschel Former Auctioneer.

Gov. Kraschel is 49 years old. He was born on a farm near Macon, Ill., the son of German immigrants. He came to Iowa when he was 21. He settled at Harlan, where he now has one of the town's most pretentious homes, because it was the center of a section raising purebred cattle.

He became an auctioneer of registered farm animals and his neighbors called him "colonel." He conducted sales in twenty-six states and two Canadian provinces. He has boasted of selling $50,000,000 worth of live stock in twenty-four years. Acquaintances say that as a politician he tries to appear favorable to both capital and labor, but that many on both sides find his dictatorial manner and blunt speech repelling.

The governor is married and has three sons, Frederick, 23 years old; Dick, 18, and James, 13. He dresses immaculately and is an effective orator. He once took a course in elocution.

In his first race, for the United States senate, he was beaten by the late Louis Murphy. He also lost when he tried to be elected state senator. His first success came when he was elected lieutenant governor in 1932. He was reëlected in 1934.

In his race for governor he ran well behind the rest of the Democratic ticket.

For a time Kraschel was executive secretary of the state PWA advisory committee. He was removed by Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes on Nov. 13, 1933. Ickes at the time warned against "officials who played fast and loose" with the government's money.

Indicted on U. S. Charges.

Two months later Kraschel and Carleton D. Beh, a Des Moines broker, were indicted in the federal court at Ottumwa on charges of conspiracy to defraud the United States. It was alleged they conspired to induce cities and counties to finance PWA projects through Beh's investment house rather than borrow from the government.

Beh was acquitted and the case against Kraschel was dismissed, with the consent of the federal department of justice. When he was elected governor later, Kraschel criticized Ickes for "the attempt to convict me in the press and on the radio." Kraschel, however, has been a persistent backer of the Roosevelt administration and boasts that he has made more speeches for Roosevelt than any man in Iowa.

EFFICIENT RULE PLEDGED BY NEW HOSPITAL CHIEF

Gen. McCloskey Named to Succeed Zimmer.

Cook County hospital will be managed during the next year by an army man. He is Brig. Gen. Manus McCloskey, U. S. A., retired. His appointment as warden of the hospital was announced yesterday by Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, and confirmed at a special meeting of the board.

Immediately after his appointment Gen. McCloskey made it plain that he did not intend to be a desk executive.

"This hospital belongs to the people and will oe run for the people," he said. "The efficient and economical operation of the institution will mean that we can take care of more patients. It is my intention to run it in a businesslike manner."

Recommended by Committee.

In appointing Gen. McCloskey the county board acted on the recommendation of the hospital advisory committee headed by the late D. F. Kelly. The committee previously had recommended the appointment of Dr. Benjamin W. Black of Oakland, Cal.

A. A. Sprague, a member of the advisory committee, said last night that Gen. McCloskey had been recommended because of his record as an administrator. The general was indorsed, Sprague said, by Brig. Gen. Robert E. Wood, a member of the committee, and by Maj. Hugh Drum, commander of the 6th corps area with headquarters in Chicago.

"I have never believed," Mr. Sprague said, "that the best man for business manager of our hospital necessarily would be a doctor. The name warden is a poor one for the job, and it should be changed. We need a good administrator, and I think Gen. McCloskey will be a splendid administrator.

"His record shows it. He has commanded several large army posts, including Fort Bragg, N. C., the largest artillery post in the world. He has directed hospitals, CCC camps, and has met practically all kinds of administrative problems."

Kelly Asked to Take Job.

Mr. Sprague disclosed that prior to the recommendation of Gen. McCloskey, the committee sent a cablegram to D. F. Kelly in Bergen, Norway, asking him if he would consider taking the hospital post. Mr. Kelly was ill when the message arrived, and he died last Saturday in Bergen, without sending a reply.

Gen. McCloskey's reputation as a fighting man is one of the legends of the A. E. F. He was a colonel commanding the 12th artillery of the 2d division at Château Thierry when he shouted a remark that became famous.

His guns were supporting a marine brigade when a French general, seeing the onrush of German troops, asked him: "Aren't you going to retreat?"

"Retreat, hell!" answered McCloskey, "we just got here."

Gen. McCloskey was wounded at Soissons. He was cited for gallantry, and received the Distinguished Service medal, the Croix de Guerre, and the Legion of Honor. After the war he served as commander of Fort Knox, Ky., and for several years was on general staf duty. In 1930 he became commandant at Fort Sheridan, being transferred to Fort Bragg a year later. Last April he retired from the army after forty years' service. He is 60 years old.

Salary $12,000 a Year.

Gen. McCloskey will take over the hospital post held since 1917 by Michael Zimmer. Mr. Zimmer has been acting warden since he turned in his resignation eight months ago. The general's salary will be $12,000 a year, the same as that paid to Zimmer. He will take charge of the hospital on Monday.

After being notified of his appointment Gen. McCloskey visited the hospital with several members of the county board. He was escorted by Anton Negri, efficiency expert at the hospital, and Zimmer, who will remain on the hospital staf as budget and food accountant.

The Cook County hospital is the largest institution of its kind in the world. Recently the hospital advisory committee in a report to the county board recommended several reforms in medical administration.

War Song Composer

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Jack Judge, who composed the war song, "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary." He died in Birmingham, England, yesterday.

Because of the popularity of the wartime song, Tipperary became a familiar word to almost every British and American soldier.

ACTOR WHO WON A BET BY WRITING "TIPPERARY" DIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 28.—Jack Judge, who composed the famous war song, "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary," in one day on a bet, died at Birmingham today. He was 60 years old and had been ih ill health for some time.

A former fish salesman in Staffordshire, Judge became a vaudeville headliner almost overnight as a result of his song hit. He sang it for the first time in the Stalybridge Grand theater on New Year's night, 1912. He had worked all day on the words and music after betting that he could write a song and produce it on the same day.

"It was a grand success," he later related. "I had to sing it time and again."

Although the song was written two years before the world war began, his publishers later said Judge had written "a soldiers' anthem which actually helped win the war" and awarded him a life pension. Judge also amassed a fortune from royalties.

The chorus of "Tipperary" is familiar:

It's a long way to Tipperary,
It's a long way to go,
It's a long way to Tipperary
To the sweetest girl I know.
Good-bye, Piccadilly,
Farewell Leicester square!
It's a long, long way to Tipperary,
But my heart's right there!

Hamilton Cites Failure of Roosevelt Purges.

A definite trend away from the Roosevelt administration is apparent among the nation's voters, John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, asserted here yesterday. If the trend continues to grow, he predicted, the Republican party will elect 75 to 100 more members to congress in the fall.

Hamilton spoke before the Illinois Republican congressional candidates in the Chicago Athletic association. The meeting was called to coördinate a program for the preëlection campaign.

Points to Texas Primary.

"A lot is happening to give Republicans hope," Hamilton said. "Mr. Roosevelt's purge apparently has failed and it looks like the President is 4 down and 3 to go on his preferences in the Democratic primaries.

"We were particularly interested in the recent Texas primary. The defeat of Maury Maverick and W. D. McFarlane is no inducement to Democrats in that part of the country to seek any further presidential pats on the back." [Maverick and McFarlane were beaten in the face of Roosevelt indorsement.]

Twenty-three of the twenty-seven Republican candidates for congress attended the conference. Congressman Everett M. Dirksen of Pekin presided.

George F. Harding, Illinois national committeeman, told the group that the party would at least double its present state membership of six in congress at the November election.

Harding Tells Importance.

This is the most important election in my lifetime," Harding said. "We are going to decide whether we are to mark time for the next six years or whether we are going to elect congressmen who will carry us to progress and prosperity."

Miss Jessie Sumner of Milford, candidate from the 18th district, said that Roosevelt beat big business to its knees until it crumpled little business. Miss Sumner is county judge of Iroquois county.

DIES AFTER FALL IN HOME.

Mrs. Pruda Mannering, 86 years old, of 1970 Winnemac street, died yesterday in the Ravenswood hospital of injuries incurred in a fall at her home on June 20.

ROOSEVELT CATCHES BIG AND LITTLE TUNA FISH AT HOOD ISLAND

ABOARD CRUISER HOUSTON, in Galapagos Archipelago, July 28.—(AP)—The waters about Hood Island, present anchorage of the cruiser Houston, today yielded President Roosevelt and his party bigger fish than they had found elsewhere during the last several days

Tuna, averaging from 30 to 45 pounds, were hooked and brought to boat by the President. Several large golden groupers and other fish—some of unknown species——also were taken and turned over to Prof. Waldo L. Schmitt, who ordered that they be preserved for addition to the Smithonian institution's collection of marine life specimens. After lunch the President resumed his fishing, going after smaller ones.

SUBWAY GRANT TO CITY BY PWA BELIEVED NEAR

years, as PWA regulations specify. The engineer said that present plans called for completion of the project within twenty-one or twenty-two months if unforseen difficulties, such as strikes or delay in delivery of construction materials, do not arise.

"I can't help but question that two track subway plan," Ickes remarked. "In the past, all our transportation projects have been built to too narrow a scale. That has been true of roads and bridges and other transportation routes."

Ickes inquired if arrangements had been made for the relocation of sewers, gas, and electric lines to make way for the subway tunnel. Harrington said plans had virtually been completed in this direction.

Object to Street Portal.

The most important objection against part of the subway proposal was raised in a letter from the Greater Central District association, written by Philip Peck, president. He wrote that the association was in favor of the subway, but protested the erection of a south side portal to the subway in the middle of State street just south of Roosevelt road. This portal would choke State street trafic, Peck declared, and proposed that the portal be built on private property just south of Roosevelt road at an extra cost of about $1,000,000.

"The portal will leave two 29 foot roadways, one on either side," Harrington replied in answer to this objection. "There is not the slightest danger of throttling trafic. It would be a waste of money to spend a million dollars for a temporary portal on private property."

Ex-Banker Protests.

At least half the time of the hour and a half hearing was occupied by a speech from John A. Carroll, former south side banker, who said he had come to Washington at his own expense to protest building of the subway.

Carroll argued that people ought not to go underground for their transportation but should stay up in the sunshine. He hung a map on the wall and delivered a long oration. He pointed out Secretary Ickes' home in Winnetka on the map and also pointed out the spot where President Roosevelt made a Chicago speech last fall.

He was followed by J. Norman Pierce, who also described himself as a private individual representing no person but himself. Pierce asserted that a subway should be cut at a deep level, out of solid rock. This would require digging down 70 to 100 feet in the loop district. He would not estimate the cost but said that portions of the subway in London were 180 feet beneath the surface. Such a subway would also be useful in case of air raids in time of war, he said.

Woman Among Objectors.

The third objector to appear in person was Miss Dora Peters who said a subway was not necessary; that improvement of the present transportation system was sufficient.

Ickes read into the record a number of telegrams and letters. One was from the Chicago Subway, Arcade and Traction company, which protested against the building of a "dinky" subway. Mayor Kelly explained that the firm wanted "some fabulous sum" to build a city-wide system of subways.

The mayor said, at the end of the hearing, that he was satisfied that all objections had been disposed of and that the city would be given the PWA grant. In order to facilitate the studies of the PWA engineers, Harrington arranged to remain in Washington and work with them for a period.

Bride Wins Divorce from Young Statler, Hotel Heir

Los Angeles, Cal., July 28.—(AP)—Barbara M. Statler, 21 years old, former dentist's assistant, won a divorce today from Ellsworth M. Statler, 25, of the hotel family. Statler did not contest the case, having reached a settlement with his bride after she dropped her separate maintenance suit recently. They were married last Oct. 1, shortly after they met at a California dude ranch.

GERMAN JEWS UNITE TO DEAL WITH NAZI RULE

Ask Other Nations to Open Frontiers.

BERLIN, July 28.—(AP)—German Jews today formed a united front in an effort to deal more effectively with the problem of emigration from Nazi Germany.

Formation of a federation of Jews to constitute their official representation in dealings with the government was announced in the weekly central Verein Zeitung, organ of German Jewry.

Rabbi Leo Baeck, chief rabbi of Berlin, was named president of the organization, which united all Jewish societies at a time when international effort is being made to assist emigration from Germany.

There are some 300,000 Jews in Germany, including those of absorbed Austria. George Brandt, official United States refugee observer, is here surveying possibilities for transplanting some of them to other countries.

Brief Appeal Issued.

In a brief appeal published by the Jewish weekly, the new federation said:

"Tasks of the most serious nature lie before us. Against all adversity we posed our trust in God and our self-confidence. There can be no doubt, however, that the continued extraordinary call upon our resources has limits. The basis of our existence has been narrowing constantly.

"Elimination from callings and business subjects the greatest part of Jews in Germany to enduring unemployment. We therefore are entitled to look for assistance. We are not unmindful that the brethren in other countries, too, have serious difficulties. But we may, after all, expect one thing that can be given us: The opening of frontiers for regulated immigration."

Complain of Passport Red Tape.

Jewish circles frequently have complained that difficulties were put in the way of emigration by passport offices. In this connection Austrian Jewish sources have stated that 2,980 Austrian Jews have emigrated with the aid of other Jews since the March 13 Anschluss.

They added that emigration would be faster if conditions for leaving Germany were lighter and simpler.

AGREE TO HALT QUIZ IN HORLICK HEIRESS DEATH

Inquest to Wait Ruling on Injunction Petition.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., July 28.—[Special.]—Crown attorneys agreed today to an indefinite postponement of the inquest into the death here last July 6 of Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, heiress to a malted milk fortune. The inquest will not be resumed until the right of the coroner to make such an inquiry has been tested in the provincial courts.

At the same time, Justice Ainslee W. Green continued for one week the hearing on the challenge directed at the coroner's authority in the case by four of the five executors named under Mrs. Sidley's will. The executors protested the opening of the inquest last Tuesday and afterward filed a petition for a permanent injunction to prevent the coroner from resuming it.

Delay May Be Brief.

The already tangled case may not be delayed for long, however, for Justice Green directed D. L. McCarthy, counsel for the four executors, and Crown Counsel C. A. Magone, to agree if possible upon an earlier date to argue the injunction petition. They will then take the case before Justice W. D. Roach, who tomorrow takes over the summer emergency court presided over today by Justice Green.

Later McCarthy and Magone met briefly and afterward said they may possibly ask Justice Roach to hear the injunction petition Saturday morning.

McCarthy's clients are William Horlick, one of Mrs. Sidley's two brothers; Col. B. F. Ferrand, head of St. John's Military academy at Delafield, Wis., and himself a beneficiary under Mrs. Sidley's will; Andrea Pultz, and Bernard F. Magruder, an officer of the Horlick Malted Milk company.

Magruder also is a beneficiary of the will and is sole executor of the will of Mrs. William Horlick Sr., mother of Mrs. Sidley, who died at Racine, Wis., four days after her daughter's death.

William Sidley Arrives.

William Sidley, son of Mrs. Sidley and the only executor who is not opposing the resumption of the inquest, arrived in Toronto today for the court hearings. He conferred with his attorneys and refused to see newspaper men or make a statement.

William Perkins Bull, Toronto lawyer and financier, at whose home here Mrs. Sidley died, left Toronto last evening with his son, Thomas Henry Bull, and drove to Montreal. Thomas Bull is to sail tomorrow for England.

Bull, who is one of the chief beneficiaries under Mrs. Sidley's will, is to return here Monday. At that time he will be questioned again by Canadian inheritance tax agents, who have been investigating Mrs. Sidley's financial affairs.

Bailey Island, Me., July 28.—[Special.]—Fishing off the rocks of this small island, two tourists from Newark, N. J., posed happily yesterday for another tourist, G. A. Sutherland of Baltimore, to whom they had handed a camera. One of the pair, Alexander Newman, proudly displayed a fish about four inches long and suggested that Sutherland try to make it look like a whale. Just after the photograph was taken a huge wave rolled over the rocks. Newman and his companion, Dennis Hirtwistle, were drowned. Sutherland obtained a picture of Hirtwistle making a vain fight for life in the raging waters.

18 ARE INJURED IN NEW HOLY LAND DISORDERS

JERUSALEM, July 28.—(AP)—Eighteen persons were injured today in sporadic explosions and clashes between the Holy Land's feuding Jews and Arabs.

Ambushers wounded a Jewish woman and six Arab policemen near Bethlehem. In Haifa a bomb set off in a courtyard injured two Arabs. Incendiary fires destroyed a few Jewish shops and police discovered an unexploded bomb in a street.

A military court sentenced an Arab to death when he was found with a bomb in his possession. Two Jews were wounded by snipers at Acre and another was stabbed near Tel Aviv. Two children were injured by a crude bomb in a street forming a boundary between Tel Aviv and Jaffa.

Sisters See Each Other After Lapse of 48 Years

settled. The men are back at work. Let us have peace."

When Judge Dady indicated he had nothing further to say, Prosecutor Field spoke.

"For the state's attorney's office," he said, "I will say that there will be no nolle pros in any of the thirty-seven cases pending. Barring of people from their own property will not be tolerated in this county. All these cases will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. Furthermore, I am asking the sherif to arrest six of the accused who have not reported and bring them in under criminal capiases."

All the ten sentenced for contempt have appealed. The leader, who got 120 days, is Robert Wirtz, Northwestern university student and former school teacher. In handbills he issued during the strike, he accused Judge Dady of recruiting thugs and arming them for a war on Lake county.

Trial Set for Aug. 3.

The thirty-seven others who face trial include twenty under indictment for conspiracy and intimidation by combination and seventeen named in less serious charges. Heading the latter list is the name of Oakley Mills, C. I. O. organizer from West Virginia, charged with unlawful assembly. Trial of the seventeen will start next Wednesday.

Two of them are accused of inciting to riot, one with assaut and battery and thirteen with disorderly conduct. Of the twenty under indictment for conspiracy, thirteen have posted $2,500 bail, one is in jail and six are missing. Among these is Mills. Sherif Lawrence A. Doolittle of Lake county was seeking them yesterday. Mills was freed on bond on the unlawful assembly charge and has not been found since the conspiracy indictment was voted.

The C. I. O. delegation won one victory at yesterday's conference. Judge Dady said he would permit the company to withdraw charges of contempt filed against fifteen additional strikers. The petition was filed while the first ten contempt trials were in progress, but has never been brought before the court.

VIOLENCE FLARES IN SEAMEN UNION BALLOT COUNTING

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—Violence flared twice today as the counting of the ballots in the election of the National Maritime union neared completion. The election has been hotly contested by communist and anti-communist factions.

Ten or twelve members of the union invaded a meeting of 100 members of the water front section of the communist party. In the fracas that followed one man was shot.

The invaders first went into an office of the communist party where fifteen women were meeting. They smashed typewriters, shattered glass partitions, and broke office windows.

The affair appeared to be an aftermath of a demonstration in midafternoon by a group of forty so-called rank and file members of the National Maritime union, who have been carrying on a bitter struggle against communists and their sympathizers.

Headed by a dozen or fifteen men armed with baseball bats, the rank and file group chased Jack Lawrenson, whom they described as the communist candidate for national secretary treasurer, down a fire escape from the executive offices of the union.

LOYALIST DRIVE ROLLS ON AFTER ROUT OF REBELS

2 Killed on British Vessel in Valencia Raid.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], July 28.—(AP)—The Spanish government's south Catalonia army, led by a former stonemason, was reported tonight to have pushed around and beyond Gandesa and well along the road to Alcaniz.

The day of war also brought a rebel aerial bombardment of Valencia in which eighteen persons, including a Danish nonintervention observer and a Chinese cook, aboard the British freight Kellwyn, were killed.

The Kellwyn, of 1,464 tons, just arrived from Marseilles, France, to discharge a cargo of sugar and coffee, was only slightly damaged. One hundred and fifteen bombs were said to have been unloaded over the populous Mediterranean port city. A similar attack on Tarragona caused widespread damage, but the number of casualties was not reported.

Gain About 200 Square Miles.

The government did not claim actual occupation of Gandesa, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's former regional headquarters and a link between the rebel Catalonian and Valencian fronts, but it lay within about 200 square miles of territory regained from the rebels by the four day Ebro river offensive. Estimates of the number of prisoners taken ranged between 5,000 and 6,000.

So much war material was said to have been abandcned by the surprised rebels that the rout was compared with the defeat of Franco's Italian forces on the Madrid-Guadalajara front in March, 1937.

The government in its nightly communique tacitly admitted its troops lost a foothold in Gandesa itself, although it reported its main army advanced to Bot, twelve miles to the southwest.

Barcelona reported that the "people's army"—60,000 strong and led by Col. Enrique Lister, a Galician stonemason when the war broke out two years ago—had encircled Gandesa and pushed ahead on the road west to Alcaniz, thirty miles away by air, fifty-four by road.

Storm Town of Villalba.

On the right of the Gandesa column another force stormed a subordinate communications center at Villalba de Los Arcos, five miles north of Gandesa.

The area wrested back from the rebels was a sizable slice of Catalona inside a 65 mile curve of the Ebro from Ribarroja to Cherta. The government also reported a 29 mile advance to the south in the Amposta sector, near the mouth of the Ebro.

Franco was reported withdrawing planes from the Valencia front on the south to reinforce the 150 heavy bombers which had tried for four days to blast the Catalonian forces back across the Ebro.

Government reports said their anti-aircraft guns had forced attacking planes to fly so high today that they did not impede seriously the most important government offensive since the Teruel drive of last December. The government later lost Teruel.

GERMANS CHARGE ROW WITH CZECHS CAN'T BE SOLVED

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 28.—(AP)—The Sudeten German party asserted tonight in an official press letter that the "cleavage between Czechs and Germans appears no longer bridgeable." The statement hinted ominously that Viscount Runciman, Britain's unofficial mediator in the Czechoslovak government's dispute with 3,250,000 Germans and other minorities in this country, faced tremendous odds.

It would be unfair, the letter said, to hamper Runciman in his first effort to solve the minorities problems. There is a widening breach however, between the government and the Germans whom Reichsfuehrer Hitler has declared he would protect, the statement assertec.

The government today transmitted to the Sudeten Germans the draft of a law laying down the bases for territorial self-administration. Details of the measure were kept secret.

Recover Lost Ground

(Story in adjoining column.)

Black areas (located by arrow No. 1) indicate an estimated 200 square miles of territory Spanish loyalists recovered from rebels in four day drive. Rebels continued to hold out in Gandesa (arrow No. 2). Tarragona and Valencia were air bombed.

VIENNA IGNORES WAR'S BIRTHDAY 24 YEARS LATER

VIENNA, July 28.—(AP)—The twenty-fourth anniversary of the Austro-Hungarian declaration of war against Serbia, the act which divided Europe in war in 1914, was ignored today in Vienna.

The mighty Hapsburgs have toppled from their imperial throne since 1914, and, after a period of democracy, little Austria, all that was left of the Austro-Hungarian empire after the Versailles treaty, has been absorbed in greater Germany.

The tables seem irrevocably turned against the house of Hapsburg. All the wealth that Emperor Otto I. began to accumulate 1,000 years ago when he confiscated the property of German Count Guntram now has been confiscated again from Otto, pretender to the same throne, by Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

A thousand years ago Emperor Otto sent Count Guntram to prison for high treason. Today Otto von Hapsburg is wanted by German police. He is charged with high treason.

RUSSIA WARNED BY MANCHUKUO IT WILL FIGHT

HSINKING, Manchukuo, July 28.—(AP)—Manchukuo has no desire to fight soviet Russia, but is fully prepared to resist invasion, Naoki Hoshino, chief of the Manchukuo general affairs administration, said today.

Recent troop clashes along the roughly defined Siberian Russia-Manchukuan border created a brief period of diplomatic tension between Russia and Japan, Manchukuo's protector.

"I do not believe these recent outbreaks can lead to serious consequences now," Hoshino said. "A negotiated settlement seems assured. Nor will war arise from incidents likely in the future, due to our 3,300 miles of poorly defined frontier, unless Russia disregards the rules of international conduct too much.

"Relations theoretically are friendly, but they are unsatisfactory due to the extreme isolationist policy regarding Manchukuo."

He predicted relations would not be improved in the near future for the same reason.

40 KILLED, 250 HURT IN BURMA RELIGIOUS RIOTS

RANGOON, Burma, July 28.—(AP)—Three days of street fighting between Burmese Buddhists and Indian Moslems reached new severity today when forty persons, including five Indian women, were killed.

Armored cars have patrolled the streets since Tuesday when disorders broke out following publication of a book by a Mohammedan allegedly offensive to Buddhism. More than 250 persons have been wounded.

Late tonight fierce fighting flared again in several Indian and Burmese parts of this city of almost 500,000 population. All British shops were closed. Strategic streets were barricaded by British troops which have mounted machine guns.

STALIN'S PURGE REACHES BORDER OF MANCHUKUO

Japs Blamed for Terror and Espionage.

MOSCOW, July 28.—(AP)—The Siberian newspaper, Pacific Ocean Star, tells of a "great purge" in the soviet Russian far east to frustrate what the newspaper terms Japan's efforts "to destroy our strength from the inside."

"In the last few months a great purge was carried on and it still continues," the newspaper said. "The bolshevists of Primorsk province will smoke from their holes all spies, wreckers, and terrorists to the last man."

Stalin Starts Purge.

The newspaper, published at Khabarovsk, near the scene of recent border incidents between Red soldiers and detachments of the Japanese army of occupation in Manchukuo, said the purge was started "on the initiative" of Dictator Josef Stalin.

[Diplomatic exchanges between Moscow and Tokio in a renewed dispute over the Siberian-Manchukuan border were marked by Russian rejection of a Japanese protest that soviet soldiers had occupied Manchukuan soil near Changkufeng on July 11. Japan since has taken a conciliatory attitude.]

The Pacific Ocean Star said that "under the direct leadership of Comrade Stalin the militant capacity of our party organization is increasing daily; also the strength of our Red bannered far eastern front and our Pacific fleet.

Places Blame on Japs.

"If Japanese rabble poke their noses into Primorsk province they have only themselves to blame for the consequences. They will be scattered by a hurricane of fire from the air, sea, and land."

The newspaper declared the purge was necessary because "Japanese imperialists resorted to their favorite methods of espionage and terrorism—first sending to Primorsk province Fascist agents and Trotskyist and Bucharinist spies and terrorists.

"They tried to break the iron unity of our party, shake its discipline, and ruin the military effectiveness of our army and navy. They wanted to destroy our strength from the inside.

Detects Enemy Plots.

"But they have not succeeded and never will succeed. The great Stalin saw through the enemy plots in the far soviet Primorsk province. On the initiative of Comrade Stalin began the merciless uprooting of enemies wherever concealed and however masked."

Izvestia, the Moscow government organ, today disclosed a shakeup in the soviet health resort department and confirmed removal of Grigory Petrovsky from the presidency of the Ukraine republic by announcing election of Leonid Kornitz as Petrovsky's successor.

Petrovsky, an old bolshevist, had held office nearly twenty years. The shakeup followed an investigation of twenty-two sanatoriums in South Crimea. They were found to have been mismanaged. M. Vikhrev, acting director of the department, and three other officials were removed.

JAPANESE BOMB WIDE AREA AHEAD OF DRIVE TO CAPTURE HANKOW

SHANGHAI, July 29.—[Friday.]—(AP)—Japanese planes today continued terrific bombardments of the new Chinese line of defense for Hankow, particularly on the submerged Yangtze barricade upriver from fallen Kiukiang and about 110 miles from Hankow. The river barrier is at Wusueh.

The big bombers attacked a railroad running 90 miles southward from Kiukiang to Nanchang, formerly the principal Chinese air base. Part of the railway parallels the Chinese defense line. The airmen also attacked the Canton-Hankow railway.

The American consulate general at Hankow was informed that mission property of the Reformed Church in the United States was slightly damaged on Wednesday in an aerial bombardment of Yochow, Hunan province. The Hankow report said American missionaries at Yochow escaped injury but many Chinese were killed when a railway station and many houses were struck.

TRIM LUXURIES, CHINA'S DICTATOR WARNS HIS AIDS

SHANGHAI, July 28.—(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek has warned officials of the Chinese Nationalist government that they face severe punishment for extravagance.

The warning emphasized the unfavorable impression created by some officials "still indulging in former luxurious habits, staying at the best hotels, and paying too much attention to their personal comfort."

Two Americans Slapped by Japanese Navy Patrol

CHEFOO, China, July 29 [Friday].—(AP)—Harry Clark, United States navy reservist, and Albert Wilkins, employé of a Chefoo hotel, reported to the United States consulate today that they were halted and slapped by a Japanese navy patrol Tuesday. The two Americans said they had violated the curfew requiring all to be off the streets by 11 p. m., but explained they were new arrivals and unaware of the regulation.

BRITAIN SWEEPS CASTE CONTROL FROM ITS ARMY

Adopts Democratic Plan of Naming Officers.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 28.—Leslie Hore-Belisha, secretary of state for war, today announced revolutionary reorganization and democratization of the British army's entire system of commissioning and promoting officers.

As a result of the most sweeping change since purchase of promotions ended in 1871, 2,500 officers will be promoted Monday. If the British caste system, moreover, allows the new scheme to be carried out fully, it should destroy the grip of social cliques on the upper ranks of the army, and leave the highest posts open to any one with the ability to fill them.

The army revisions mark another step in the program of modernization which already has brought about the retirement of some older officers in the top brackets in order that younger men could take over key posts in the defense system.

Enlisted Men May Be Officers

The most important changes, and—to British minds—the most revolutionary under the long promised reform, are:

FIRST—Enlisted men may be commissioned directly from the ranks without passing through Sandhurst or Woolwich military colleges—British equivalent of West Point.

SECOND—An unlimited number of scholarships, covering all or part of the tuition, will be offered any properly qualified youths wishing to attend Sandhurst or Woolwich.

THIRD—Promotion will be speeded up and pay in the lower commissioned brackets raised so every officer can live on his pay.

FOURTH—Any efficient officer will be assured of reaching the rank of major, instead of only half of the commissioned list as heretofore.

FIFTH—No officer will be forced to quit the service before he is 47 years old through failure to achieve promotion.

Promotion to Be Automatic.

'Promotion by vacancy" was abolished in favor of promotion by time of service. The system since 1871 had been to establish a number of officers of each rank and to promote no one until an officer in the next higher rank died or retired. Now promotion will be automatic at stated intervals up to lieutenant colonel.

A lieutenant will become a captain automatically after eight years. Now the average time is eleven and one-half years. A captain will be promoted to major after seventeen years' service as a captain instead of the present average of twenty years.

More than one-fourth of the army's captains and lieutenants will be promoted Monday. The remaining lieutenants will receive pay increases of from $91 to $106 a year.

The scheme in the first year, it is estimated, will add $1,500,000 to the present annual outlay for the army and will rise to a maximum of $3,000,000 over present costs in twenty years.

Under the measure the retirement age of generals and lieutenant generals has been reduced from 67 to 60; major generals from 62 to 57; colonels from 57 to 55; lieutenant colonels, 55 to 50, and majors, 50 to 47. Staf and command of post tenure have been reduced from four years to three.

Praised by Paper.

Every officer who has not been charged with inefficiency will be able to retire when 46 years of age with an assured pension of $2,035 a year. Under the old system officers retiring at 46 years of age had to accept a captain's pension of $1,350 a year.

The Daily Telegraph commented that Hore-Belisha "has boldly laid the ax to the root of much discontent and many defects by a scheme which is designed to offer an efficient army officer an assured and attractive career in place of the hazards and disappointment with which he has now to reckon."

RING LARDNER'S SON SUFFERS BOMB WOUND IN SPANISH OFFENSIVE

BARCELONA, Spain, July 28.—(AP)—James P. Lardner, 24 year old son of Ring Lardner, who died in 1933, was reported today as among the wounded on the Ebro river front. A courier dispatch from the front said he was hit in the back by fragments of a bomb. His condition was described as "not serious." He was in the Gandesa area fighting for government forces. He gave up newspaper work in April to enlist.

DEEP DOWN UNDER

By CALEB

"I'D RATHER you didn't do that," says the parent, and the boy or girl pauses an instant to analyze the severity and conviction in the voice before deciding on a course of action. Parents soon learn how sharply their children watch and sense by facial expression or tone of voice the precise import of a parental order or observation.

Before long a child learns how far he dares to tempt and try each assertion of authority. He soon discovers the tone of voice or the situation that demands instant and unquestioning obedience. He is equally quick to sense a lack of decision and confidence. In the cumulative effect lies obedience—or the lack of it.

This habit of weighing a parent's words and action grows in scope with the years. From the original purpose of probing disciplinary measures it often expands to include the unspoken attitudes of the parent under a wide variety of circumstances. Frequently it becomes a reflection of the parent's whole philosophy of life and exerts an influence in proportion to the degree of the child's absorption with the home.

Bound up in this process is a deep responsibility on the part of the parent. Here he is dealing not with spoken words or specific rules of conduct laid down for his children. He has left the realm of precept for that of example—and all of his own personality and makeup are involved.

If his outlook on life is customarily bitter, if he is a defeatist, a pessimist, or a grumbler, he can rest assured that the same qualities are likely to be reflected in his children. If his mind is closed habitually against new ideas, if he lives in a mental rut, only an unusual child will fail to adopt the same attitudes.

Parenthood in the finest sense is leadership. It is leadership of a particular and special sort—a gift in some instances, in others a quality achieved by hard and unremitting effort.

Whatever else he may owe his children, a parent cannot escape the obligation of an example in courage and optimism. Such an example is doubly productive since it builds the desired qualities both for parents and children.

FARLEY LINKED TO DEAL TO PUT LOGAN ON BENCH

Gov. Chandler Absolved by His Lieutenant.

Louisville, Ky., July 28.—[Special.]—A lieutenant of Gov. Albert B. [Happy] Chandler asserted today that Postmaster General James A. Farley had tried to put Senator M. M. Logan on the federal bench and let Logan's seat in the senate go to the governor. Farley was quoted as saying that this proposed arrangement was approved by President Roosevelt.

Chandler now is opposing Alben W. Barkley, majority leader in the senate, for the Democratic nomination for the senate. Barkley has charged that Chandler himself sought to engineer a deal to get rid of Logan, so he could then appoint himself for the unexpired term. The senator has indicated that the President thought such a plan "immoral."

It is Chandler's contention that Logan begged for a judgeship. Logan's retort was that this was a "damnable lie." The matter was first broached by President Roosevelt in his recent political trip across the country.

Tells of Seeing Farley.

Farley's name was dragged into the controversy by Dan Talbott, state finance director and a manager of the Chandler campaign. He and Chandler, Talbott said, conferred with the postmaster general in Washington early this year.

"I asked Mr. Farley," he said, "if every proposition about the Logan judgeship had not come from him and the President; not from Gov. Chandler. He replied yes. Then I asked Mr. Farley if the shoe which Senator Barkley had attempted to place on Gov. Chandler's foot did not belong on his own foot and the President's. He said yes. I think James Farley was double-crossed."

Talbott told of reading a letter, written by Logan last fall, which stated that Logan would like to get out of the senate and would be satisfied with a judicial appointment. This letter was written, the finance director said, to a Frankfort attorney. When Logan was asked about this he replied: "The letter mentioned has nothing to do with the proposal Chandler made to the President."

Chandler Unfairly Treated.

Some of Chandler's friends believe he was unfairly treated when the President, who has given Barkley his blessing, sought to shift the onus of blame for the dickering over Logan. They believe it was originally an idea that cropped up in Washington and was designed to prevent a fight against an administration favorite.

Barkley is 100 per cent a Roosevelt follower. He said today in a speech at Covington: "I keynoted the President into the White House twice and I might possibly do it again in 1940."

Gov. Chandler has recovered from an illness that developed after he drank water tainted by some chemical last week. State Health Commissioner Arthur T. McCormack said today that the governor was poisoned, and that the chemical in the water "almost killed him." Talbott also was stricken.

Troops May Guard Polls.

Nashville, Tenn., July 28.—[Special.]—Rumors that Gov. Gordon Browning will send troops to Memphis for the state primary next week were current here today. Memphis is the headquarters of the governor's arch enemy, Ed Crump, Democratic national committeeman.

"I'll make my plans known next Tuesday," said Browning.

It was learned, however, that an order for Tennessee National Guardsmen to go to Mississippi for maneuvers had been canceled.

After Conviction

Daughter Peggy kissing Lieut. Col. Stewart S. Giffin after court martial found him guilty on charge of drunkenness in New York.

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—Lieut. Col. Stewart Giffin today was found guilty on two of the six specified counts of drunkenness by a court martial which for six days had heard charges made by Lieut. James O. Smith.

The court, however, was lenient, fixing Col. Giffin's penalty as a reprimand by the reveiwing authority [the commander of the corps area] and the reduction of 100 files in the promotion list. The latter means nothing to the colonel because he will be retired on a $3,000 pension next March after thirty years of service. Nothing in the court martial's findings will interfere with this.

Col. Giffin's accuser, Lieut. Smith, is a reserve officer who was Giffin's adjutant in CCC camps. Smith admitted he filed the charges to get even with Col. Giffin because the latter failed to go through with a business partnership deal which would have provided Smith with a job on the colonel's money.

Suspects Husband, Finds It's True; Gets Divorce

She suspected her husband of running around with other women, so she hid in the back seat of his automobile. When he stopped to pick up another woman and found his wife in the car he beat her. This all occurred on April Fool's day two years ago, Mrs. Dorothy A. Crane, of 959 East 61st street, told Judge Oscar Nelson yesterday. She was awarded a divorce from Patrick Crane, a roofing contractor, and custody of their two children.

ICKES SAYS PWA FOE ASKS VOTES AS ITS FRIEND

Steps Into Democratic Primary in Virginia.

Washington, D. C., July 28.—(AP)—Secretary Harold L. Ickes stepped into another Democratic primary contest today, accusing Representative Howard Smith [D., Va.] of trying to ride back into office "on the coat tails of PWA" after voting against every PWA bill except one.

Smith is opposed for renomination by William E. Dodd Jr., son of the former ambassador to Germany, who is campaigning on a New Deal platform.

Ickes took issue at his press conference with a letter written to the representative by President J. L. Newcomb of the University of Virginia. Newcomb had expressed appreciation for Smith's "effectiveness in certain of our requests for loans and grants from the Public Works administration."

Calls Influence Nil.

The secretary of the interior commented:

"Any influence that Congressman Smith had with respect to that project was nil. Apparently President Newcomb and Congressman Smith would like to play politics with PWA."

Ickes said Smith was "trying to muscle in on the popularity of an institution which, if he had had his way, he would have wrecked."

"Except for the original national industrial recovery act, Congressman Smith has opposed, fought, and voted against every PWA bill," Ickes continued. "And now he tries to ride in on the coat tails of PWA. I don't call that sporting.

"He ought to fish or cut bait, but he is like some other candidates that I know about."

Smith Declines to Comment.

Ickes said Newcomb's letter evidently indicated a desire on his part to help Smith "by giving him credit to which he wasn't entitled."

Representative Smith declined to comment to reporters.

Less than a week ago Ickes had made a verbal thrust at another Democratic candidate for renomination, Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, in a radio talk. He mentioned Tydings while discussing candidates "muscling in on President Roosevelt and the New Deal."

The senator is running against Representative David J. Lewis, who is campaigning as a 100 per cent supporter of the President.

SEIZED WHILE STEALING WINDOW.

Frank Popeck, 19 years old, 2128 Evergreen avenue, and Joseph Nazarowski, 17, of 2214 Division street, were seized by police early yesterday, while allegedly attempting to remove a large plate glass window in an apartment building door at 2201 Potomac avenue.

TURN OUT MORE BABY BUGGIES AND REDUCE PRICE, NAZIS DEMAND

BERLIN, July 28.—Wholesale production of baby buggies was demanded today by the Voelkischer Wille, organ of the Association for Big Families, in an effort to lend more attraction to the Nazi campaign for a higher birth rate. The newspaper demanded that the baby carriages be reduced in price. "They must also be fifty per cent lighter to enable mothers to get up and down stairs without assistance," the paper added. "The buggies should look nice, too, because every mother is entitled to a beautiful baby buggy."

TVA'S FERTILIZER POLICY RAISED AS ISSUE AT INQUIRY

Farm Protests on Ruined Lands Also Heard.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., July 28.—[Special.]—The question of why phosphates have supplanted nitrates in the fertilizer activities of the TVA and remarks that the du Ponts and Guggenheims control the world nitrate supply were among highlights at today's hearing of the congressional investigating committee.

A procession of farmers also came before the committee with protests against TVA's land purchasing policy. This, they contended, is forcing old families off fertile bottom lands to be inundated by TVA reservoirs and chasing them to the uplands where it is hard scratching for a living.

Another feature of today's hearing was the appearance of TVA Director Harcourt A. Morgan on the stand. He made a counterattack on the charges of Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, deposed TVA chairman, that as fertilizer man on the board Harcourt Morgan has worked up a political machine with TVA subsidies to seven land grant colleges in the valley.

Protest Letter Submitted.

As the session was closing, Senator Vic Donahey [D., O.], chairman, placed in the records an open letter of protest from the Sheffield Board of Trade. Sheffield, Tuscumbia, and Florence, Ala., are the tri-cities of Muscle Shoals, sitting at the feet of the huge Wilson dam.

The Sheffield protest charged that TVA is violating a provision in the act creating it by not having its headquarters at Muscle Shoals instead of at Knoxville. It dragged in the nitrate plants, built during the world war and declared TVA has not lived up to requirements of the law concerning the production and sale of fixed nitrogen, fertilizer, and fertilizer ingredients.

"Fertilizer has been made here," said the Sheffield letter, "and the plants could be in operation now but for the fact that the fertilizer octopus has it blocked, and how!"

Raises Political Question.

The Sheffield document, signed by Henry J. Frahn, secretary of the board of trade of that city, asked: "Is the TVA in politics?"

"Look at the pay rolls," it said. "They may pull the wool over Senator Norris' eyes, but they are not fooling us."

When Harcourt Morgan was on the stand Representative Charles Wolverton [R., N. J.], who has become chief cross-examiner of the committee, asked:

"This fertilizer program started as a nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals. Now it is a phosphorus plant. Why? I understand the Guggenheims control Chilean nitrates and the du Ponts fix the price of synthetic nitrates. Between them the Guggenheims and du Ponts control the price of nitrates. Why the change to phosphates at Muscle Shoals?"

Offers Three Reasons.

"Three reasons," replied Morgan. "Here was a plant for national defense to be used in peace times. The question was, what is the contribution of the plant to perpetuation of soil economics which make up our national economy."

"What are the reasons?" asked Wolverton.

"Twenty million tons of nitrogen are above every square mile," said Morgan, "the supply is inexhaustible. But this is not true of phosphate. Phosphate used in the soil, combined with legumes, pulls nitrogen out of the air. The other reason was that of financial expenditures."

Questioned by Wolverton as to amount of fertilizer produced and the number of farmers to whom it is sent Harcourt Morgan said the statistical material would be given from the records. He parried several questions with the remark: "I'm ten years the senior of Arthur Morgan and I'm not going to give evidence based on my memory."

Quizzed on Phosphate Deal.

Referring to the purchase of phosphate lands in Williamson county by TVA, Harcourt Morgan declared it was a purchase in tons of minerals, not acres of land. He said last year TVA bought 553 acres of phosphate land from the International Agricultural corporation for $680,000. He said the approval of this acquisition was acted on by the board.

"This occurred at the meeting of May 5, 1937," he said, "at which only Arthur Morgan and I were present. A resolution was adopted . . . for conclusion of the purchase."

On this land the International Agricultural corporation made a profit of $527,185. "Did you know the corporation had bought this land for about $140,000?" asked Wolverton. "If so, would it have made a difference?"

Harcourt Morgan said the phosphate deposits were worth it. Dr. Harry Curtis, chief chemist, is to go further into the details of the deal.

Protest Price for Land.

The delegation of protesting farmers came from the narrow valley above Chattanooga which the Chickamauga dam, when completed in 1940, will flood with its reservoirs. J. B. Swofford, a farmer-lawyer, who has lived 47 years in Rhea county and who led the delegation, said that land which produces 50 to 100 bushels of corn an acre is to be put under water.

Others testified that in some instances TVA's policy of land acquirement has been such that high prices have been paid for poor hillside land, while good bottom land has brought too low a price.

"One pitiful case," said Swofford in describing the plight of the valley residents, "is that of a widow. A creek splits her farm. On one side they've taken most of the land but the house. To get to the other part of the farm she'll have to cross a lake or go around. She doesn't know what to do."

Community Faces Isolation.

J. W. Davis, farmer of Birchwood, Tenn., said 300 or 400 persons in the community have grievances.

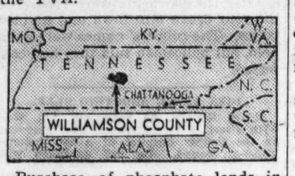
"Birchwood," he said, "has a creek on the south and one on the north, and Chickamauga will make almost an island of this community."

J. M. Gass of Birchwood testified TVA had paid him $53 an acre for good bottom land, while others had received $100 and some as high as $120 an acre.

TVA Developments

(Story in adjoining column.)

White area marks rich bottom land which will be flooded by water impounded by Chickamauga dam. Farmers yesterday protested this predicted flooding before the congressional committee investigating the TVA.



Purchase of phosphate lands in Williamson county came under fire before the committee also. Harcourt Morgan, TVA director, said it was a purchase of minerals rather than land.

BAR CONVENTION RAPS LOBBYING BY U. S. OFFICERS

Federal Boards Attacked by Delegates.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., July 28.—[Special.]—The American Bar association today approved recommendations in a report charging autocratic tendencies by government administrative boards. One of the recommendations is designed to prevent lobbying or any other activities by federal officials and employés and national political leaders in board hearings in which they are not directly involved.

No action was taken on the substance of the report itself. The report contained ten complaints against federal alphabetical agencies. Among the complaints were that these agencies made decisions after hearing only one side of a case, and that their actions were determined by preformed opinions and prejudices.

Hear Plea by Garfield.

The delegates, assembled at the 61st annual convention of the Bar association, heard a stirring plea by a son of a former President of the United States to curb government despotism. The speaker was James R. Garfield, son of the late President James A. Garfield. He served as secretary of the interior under President Theodore Roosevelt and is now a practicing attorney in Cleveland.

The delegates were not called on to vote specifically on their reactions toward the dictatorial tendencies. However, the acceptance of the recommendations in the report was regarded by many as an approval of the entire document.

Lobbying Assailed.

The most important recommendation gives the association's approval "to extending prohibitions of the federal criminal code to rendering of any service or assistance of whatsoever character, with or without compensation, by any member of congress, officer or employé of the United States, or national officer of a political party, before any administrative agency of the United States for or on behalf of any person, corporation, or business organization, in any matter involving a quasi judicial determination affecting individual rights."

The one objector to the recommendation was John D. Clark of Cheyenne, Wyo.

"Economic planning can succeed," he said, "only if the planners have the power to determine not only what not to do, but what to do as well."

Allow Remarks to Stand.

Hisses from the other delegates stopped Clark. A motion was made to expunge his remarks from the record, but they were allowed to stand.

The recommendation originally included state political officers in its provisions, but this phrase was stricken on the motion of Bernard Myers of Lancaster, Pa.

Another recommendation, passed unanimously, urged the extension of selective civil service to all other than cabinet officers and assistant secretaries of departments not engaged in policy making administrative work.

Roscoe Pound, dean emeritus of the Harvard law school, was chairman of the committee which wrote the report. Dean Pound is now traveling in South America. In his absence, Garfield presented the committee findings.

"Too often men in public office assume an autocratic frame of mind," Garfield said. "That spirit develops burocratic and autocratic decisions from administrative tribunals.

Assume Too Much Power.

"On many occasions these tribunals have exercised legislative, executive, and judicial powers all in one case. Such action can bring about such a departure from our constitutional government that the whole form of government would be changed unless the situation is remedied.

"Complaints against the administrative agencies in the last few years are based on this wholesale assumption of powers. The boards should follow judicial procedure at their hearings. The complaint against an individual or corporation should be fully stated. At present the heads of many boards take it on themselves to make a finding of fact.

"The people who will not agree with this report are those who believe government officials and experts are more qualified to decide problems than the citizens whose life work and businesss have made them experts in those problems.

"But we who made this report are against absolutism in the administration of the law. We don't believe that the wisdom of a few men in public office is so great that their actions will be sounder than the persons directly concerned in the issue."

Garfield urged the preservation of the right of judicial review in administrative agency decisions.

Warn of Court Packing.

A warning was sounded to the delegates to be on the alert for any future attempts to pack the United States Supreme court. This warning was embodied in a report of a special committee on the courts.

"No one can prophesy whether or not the proposals to enlarge the Supreme court or other proposals affecting the independence of the judiciary may be renewed in the near future," the report read. "But the public suggestion made recently that the Supreme court has changed its attitude because of the threat to enlarge its membership may be evidence of an intention to renew the proposal whenever it is thought necessary or expedient."

A resolution for appointment of a commitee to investigate the right of Justice Hugo Black to sit on the Supreme court was rejected by the convention assembly, 67 to 16. The resolution was drawn by Edward Lee, dean of the John Marshall Law school, Chicago.

Dean Lee asserted that members of the bar were entitled to raise the question of whether Justice Black held his position without constitutional authority because of the provision that no congressman, during the period of time for which he was elected, could be appointed to a civil post which was created, or of which the emoluments were raised.

Dean Lee also said that Justice Willis Van Devanter had retired, not resigned, from the high bench, and there was a question as to whether a vacancy existed when Black, former Alabama senator, was appointed. He said that some time in the future Black might be on the majority side of a 5 to 4 opinion and the losing litigant could question Black's qualifications, particularly if the litigation involved some point in which Black was interested while a senator.

The resolutions committee stated that the Supreme court had twice refused to go into the question of Black's qualifications because the persons raising the query could not show direct injury to them through his sitting on the bench.

Justice Owen J. Roberts of the United States Supreme court, speaking at the association annual banquet, said that the problem confronting the legal profession is the raising of its moral standards.

"There are two sides to the professional character—the intellectual and the moral," Justice Roberts said. "We are doing the intellectual job well, with our great advances in legal education.

"But because of the overcrowding of the profession we cannot be assured of the moral qualifications of all candidates for the bar. Some of our young lawyers fall into bad ways, and it is not their fault. They aren't guided properly."

Altitude Flyer

Mel Freeburg, pilot of plane engaged in testing respirator for high flying, after arrival in California yesterday. He is wearing an oxygen mask.

Burbank, Cal., July 28.—(AP)—Nine Northwest Airlines officials and Dr. W. R. Lovelace, a Mayo Foundation surgeon, landed at Union Air terminal today after a substratosphere flight from Minneapolis and reported successful tests of a new oxygen mask.

They flew most of the way at an altitude of 20,000 feet, where the air is too thin for comfortable breathing without oxygen aid.

"We are more than pleased with the results," said Dr. Lovelace, who developed the new mask, aided by other Mayo Foundation scientists. "It would be possible to use the masks up to 35,000 feet, without the necessity of wearing overall oxygen suits."

Dr. Lovelace said the mask could be of value to military flyers.

PREMIER OF ONTARIO ABANDONS AIR TOUR AFTER SAFE LANDING

JUNEAU, Alaska, July 28.—(AP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, found safe after his plane had been reported missing, today abandoned temporarily his air tour of the dominion.

A report from Carcross, Y. T., where the premier and his party were forced down by stormy weather last night, said Hepburn had left for Skagway, Alaska, by train. At Skagway he will board the steamer Princess Alice tonight, bound for Vancouver, B. C.

The premier's plane took off late yesterday from Whitehorse for Juneau, about an hour's flight. Lack of communication facilities caused the delay in hearing of the landing at Carcross.

Bernard E. Smith, New York broker, one of Hepburn's companions on the 8,000 mile tour, accompanied the premier to Skagway. J. P. Bickel, Toronto financier, and owner of the plane, remained at Carcross with Pilot Jimmy Towne.

'L'-WEST TOWNS TRANSFER PLAN TO BE ABANDONED

The interline transfer arrangement between the elevated railways and the Chicago and West Towns railways will be discontinued Aug. 14 under an order issued yesterday by the Illinois commerce commission. The West Towns company provides bus and street car service to twenty western suburbs, including Oak Park, Berwyn, and Cicero.

James M. Slattery, commission chairman, said the volume of interline trafic has proved insufficient to justify continuing the arrangement. The companies sought abandonment of the plan on the ground it was unprofitable.

The transfer system was started last Jan. 16 for an experimental period of six months on a commission order. The companies were required to carry riders using both systems on payment of a single 15 cent fare.

Take Summer Siesta, if You Can; if Not, Just Be Sensible

Chicagoans who have the time to spare should take a siesta during the heat of late summer days, officials of the board of health said yesterday. If a midday nap is not possible, residents were warned at least to stay out of the sun, not eat too much, wear few and cool clothes, and a hat for head protection.

HAMMER SLAYER HELD FOR MURDER OF HIS CHILDREN

Charles Joksus, who beat his two small children to death June 2 during a drinking spree, was held to the grand jury for murder by a coroner's jury yesterday. The double killings occurred in the family home at 536 West 33d street, less than 24 hours after Joksus, 52 years old, had been released from the state hospital for the insane at Kankakee. He had been confined for excessive drinking.

Police described yesterday how he gave candy to his children, Leonard, 5 years old, and Eleanor, 18 months old, then killed them in their beds. His wife, Anna, whom he also beat, is recovering in the County hospital.

ALEC TEMPLETON WILL BE STAR AT MUSIC FESTIVAL

First Pianist to Receive Spotlight of Show.

Festival Tickets!

Reserved seats for the Chicagoland Music Festival are now on sale at 50 cents and $1 each. They may be obtained by mail [make check or money order payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.] or by calling at the Chicago Tribune public service bureaus at 1 South Dearborn street and in Tribune Tower lobby.

Alec Templeton, internationally famous pianist, will be the guest star of the ninth Chicagoland Music Festival. The festival will be held on Saturday night, Aug. 20, in Soldiers' field. Mr. Templeton will come to Chicago from California, where he has been on a concert tour during the last few months.

Mr. Templeton will be the first pianist to hold the spotlight at this greatest of all American outdoor music entertainments.

More than 8,000 men, women, and children will take part in the program at Soldiers' field. They will include a group of 1,500 accordion players, a massed Chicago high school band of 1,000 boys and girls, and various massed choruses ranging from 1,000 to 2,500 singers. Participants from more than 25 states and several cities in Canada will join to make this festival the greatest in the history of these summer concerts.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Alec Templeton has never in his life seen the sun nor the stars. He does not know what light is. He was born blind, but received some compensation from nature in the shape of a phenomenal sharpening of the other major sense—that of hearing. Now, although he is still under 25, Alec Templeton is recognized as one of the great musical miracles of our generation.

He was born in Wales, of Scotch parents. America first came to know him in 1935, when Jack Hylton brought the youthful pianist to Chicago and featured him in a series of radio broadcasts. Numerous public and semi-public appearances—one in an Orchestra hall recital and another as guest artist with the Woman's Symphony orchestra—quickly made Alec one of Chicago's best known musicians. He has since worked in New York and other cities.

Master of Huge Répertoire.

Alec Templeton's stupendous musical talent is revealed first of all in the huge répertoire of standard and popular music which he has been able to master, even though all of this has had to be learned laboriously by ear and sometimes verified by Braille arrangements. He listens to phonograph records, and his keen ears hear not only the melody but also the complexities of the harmony and even the play of inner voices. He can play Bach fugues by ear, which is probably the most difficult of all musical feats. And Alec's jaz playing can set the goutiest foot a-tapping!

Again, there are his famous improvisations. So thoroughly conversant is Alec Templeton with the styles and even with the subtlest peculiarities of the various composers that he can take any sort of a little theme and play it so patly in the manner of Mozart, Debussy, or Wagner that the audience bursts immediately into giggles of recognition.

Has Gift for Composition.

Alec also possesses a gift for composition, and has been devising music of his own since early childhood. His works are of a lyrical order, mirroring the gentleness and sincerity of his own personality.

Mr. Templeton is the second of noted artists to be announced for appearance at festival activities. Jessica Dragonette, recently chosen the most popular radio soprano of America, will be the guest star at the festival luncheon, scheduled for Friday afternoon, Aug. 19, at 1 o'clock, in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel, for which 1,600 reservations already have been made. Miss Dragonette will appear that Friday night as soloist at the Grant park concert.

Diamond Watch Is Stolen from Peabody Apartment

Theft of a diamond studded wrist watch valued at $1,100 from the apartment of Stuyvesant Peabody Jr., 63 East Division street, was reported to police yesterday. The robbery took place last Saturday. The theft was committed on July 23, but not reported at the time, it was explained, because of a preliminary inquiry by the insurance company which had insured the watch. The watch belonged to Mrs. Peabody.

BRICK SLAYER'S CONFESSION UP AT TRIAL TODAY

CRIMINAL COURT.

Herman Linn, burglary, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington.

The signed confession of Robert Nixon, young southern Negro on trial before a jury in Judge John C. Lewe's Criminal court for the brick murder of Mrs. Florence Johnson, will be offered in evidence today by the state. Nixon's counsel is expected to oppose introduction of the confession on the ground that he was pampered into making it with numerous helpings of cocoanut pie and copious swigs of strawberry pop. This constitutes undue influence just as physical mistreatment would, the lawyers contend.

The jury yesterday heard the testimony of Sergt. James Keeley, who, with his detective bureau squad, seized Nixon on the night of the murder—May 27—while they were on their way to the Johnson home at 4631 Lake Park avenue. The Negro, who has confessed several other murders and rapes, was identified from the stand by Mrs. Johnson's sister, Miss Margaret Whitton, who saw him as he fled after the slaying.

This Little Fire Went to the Fire Department

It was just at the lunch hour yesterday when George Brantner of Racine, Wis., ran into the dining room at engine house No. 16 at 23 West 23d street and yelled: "Hey! I've brought you a fire." The firemen ran out, still chewing, and with hand pumps extinguished a blaze that was burning the canvas covering on Brantner's truck. Then they went back and finished eating.

GUESTS TAKE NOTICE: JOHN C. DAVIS' PARTY HAS BEEN CALLED OFF

It was plain to every one who looked at him that John Curtiss Davis was accustomed to good living. His sleek jowls and 200 pounds of plumpness bore this out. The style in which he lived at the Palmer House brought him a bill of $47.80 in two days. When he didn't pay this, the hotel began wondering about the $125 check Davis had cashed.

John Curtiss Davis.

While they were still pondering their guest ordered a dinner for 100 persons at $10 a plate to be served Saturday night. He wanted a name band and $200 worth of flowers also.

The hotel then called in Detective Nicholas Downey. Davis admitted the $125 check supposedly made to him by the Curtiss-Wright Airplane company was fraudulent. He had stolen the checkbook from the company's offices in New York, he said, adding regretfully that he had been just about ready to nick the hotel for a really tidy sum.

And about that dinner? "Don't be silly," he said.

SERIOUS MATTER COSTS DRUGGIST $26.

"I want to see you on a serious matter," said the stranger when he walked into the drug store of J. G. Dammann, 1980 Milwaukee avenue, last night. "It's robbery," he continued, drawing a pistol. The stranger took $26 and fled.

Cat Crosses Louis' Path; Now He's Superstitious

Philadelphia, Pa., July 28.—(AP)—Louis Kober's car killed a cat. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals accused him of leaving the scene without giving aid. He was fined $10.

DIES AFTER SHOOTING SELF.

Sidney Gervais, 35 years old, 214 West 47th street, a tavern owner, died yesterday in the County hospital of a self inflicted gunshot wound. He had quarreled with his wife.

STRIP BANDITS DO THEIR STRIP ONCE TOO OFTEN

Edwardsville, Ill., July 28.—[Special.]—Two young robbers who always forced their victims to disrobe made a mistake last night. A young woman who had been stripped recognized one of the pair and they were arrested today.

The informant was Miss Jessie Seeley of Madison, Ill. She is 19 years old. She and her sister, Anna Mae, 17, and two young men, Earl Nonn and Ben Allen of Granite City, were in an automobile outside Edwardsville when the bandits appeared.

"Take off your clothes," commanded one of the men.

"Don't do that, Shorty," said Miss Jessie.

The robber pointed a shot gun above her head and fired it.

"That'll make you keep your mouth shut," he said.

After the garments were recovered the four drove into town and notified police. The robbers' names were withheld, but policemen said they had confessed.

4406 N RACINE AVE.

WHAT an amazing difference American Family Soap makes on washday. For, without boiling, scrubbing, or ruinous rubbing—without using strong bleaches—clothes come out sweet smelling, sparkling white.

The reason for this startling difference is this. Laboratory tests have proved that American Family contains as much as ½ more suds-making material than other bar soaps tested—including soaps containing naphtha. This extra suds-making material gives American Family Soap greater washing power. Produces rich, creamy, active suds. Even grimiest spots come out without back-breaking rubbing—and with utmost safety to clothes.

Colored fabrics retain their gay brilliance. White clothes come out snowy white. All washables last unbelievably longer. American Family Soap has been used by countless thousands of women for over 90 years. These women have found beyond the slightest doubt that—It's cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes! Made by Procter & Gamble.

LIVES OF 4,455 SAVED IN WAR ON AUTO MASSACRE

Chicago and State Share in 8 Month Decrease.

A marked decline in automobile deaths in the nation during recent months is shown in a survey made public yesterday by the National Safety council. Chicago and Illinois both show reductions. The report is based on figures for the six months from Jan. 1 to June 30, and for the eight months from Nov. 1, 1937, to June 30, 1938.

The longer period—November to June—shows a saving of 4,455 lives in the United States as compared with the previous corresponding period. The drop in fatalities was from 25,345 to 20,890, or 18 per cent. During that eight month period, Chicago showed a reduction of 86 deaths, or 15 per cent.

Improves its Record.

Chicago had an even better record in the six month period from Jan. 1 to June 30. There were 83 fewer deaths than for the previous comparable time, or a reduction of 22 per cent. The council's report shows 295 deaths during the first six months of 1938.

On the basis of improvement in its fatality record, Chicago emerged second among large cities. However, its death rate of 16.9 per 100,000 population was still high, making Chicago twelfth among thirteen cities with populations over 500,000.

Illinois showed a 26 per cent decline in auto deaths in the last six months, making it eleventh in percentage of reduction among thirty-seven states which reported better accident records to the safety council. Sidney J. Williams, director of public safety for the council, said Illinois had saved 338 lives in the first half of 1938.

Evanston Leads Way.

Evanston contributed highly to the state record, being the largest city—its population is 67,800—to go through the first six months of 1938 without a single trafic death.

Among cities of more than 500,000, Milwaukee, Boston, and St. Louis had the lowest death rates. They were 5 per 100,000 for Milwaukee, 9.1 for Boston, and 9.6 for St. Louis.

KERNER EXPLAINS HIS AID'S INQUIRY ABOUT A ROBBER

Attorney General Otto Kerner yesterday explained why one of his assistants, Andrew A. Euzzino, appeared at the detective bureau Saturday to inquire about one of three ex-convicts arrested for store robberies totaling $100,000. The attorney general said:

"Euzzino reported to me that the mother of Frank Gentile, one of the prisoners, asked him to inquire about her son's arrest. He did not know the son nor that he had a record. When he learned the nature of the charges he advised the mother to retain a lawyer."

Mr. Kerner said he has given strict instructions to all his assistants not to appear for defendants in criminal cases. "I am satisfied that my assistant has not broken this rule," he said.

SON AT HOME AS FATHER ENDS HIS LIFE WITH A GUN

Leaving a note blaming financial reverses for his act, Max L. Ehrenberg, 47 years old, ended his life with a gun yesterday in his apartment at 1209 Sherwin avenue. His son, Stanley, 22 years old, was in the apartment at the time, but his wife, Etta, was away from home.

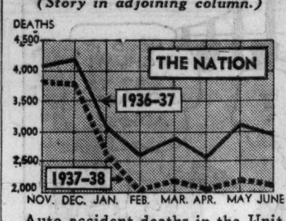
Ehrenberg's note urged his family to go to California and assured them his insurance would provide for them. He was general manager of the Maxson corporation at 123 West Wacker drive.

Cicero Man Drowns After Rescuing Girl Companion

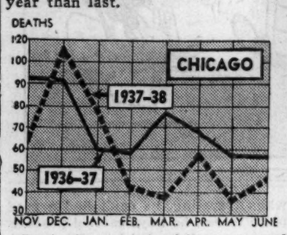
Waupaca, Wis., July 29 [Friday].—(AP)—Bruno Antczak, 23 years old, of Cicero, Ill., drowned in Columbian lake yesterday after rescuing his swimming companion, Verdilla Sayres of Chicago. Antczak was able to get the girl on a raft when she became tired, but he slipped back into the water exhausted.

Auto Deaths Decrease

(Story in adjoining column.)



Auto accident deaths in the United States as a whole are lower this year than last.



In the last month of last year and the first month of this year Chicago's auto death toll increased over corresponding months a year earlier. Since February, however, Chicago's death toll this year is lower than last year.

PREPARE APPEAL OF JAIL SENTENCE FOR BAILIF HORAN

Attorneys for Bailif Albert J. Horan of the Municipal court yesterday were preparing an appeal from the jail sentence imposed on him Wednesday. Twenty-five judges of the court held the bailif was in contempt for refusing to reinstate fifty-five deputies ousted during the April primary election.

The contempt order directed that the bailif be held in the county jail until he reinstates the deputies. Two judges of the court dissented from the finding. They are Charles S. Dougherty, a Horner-Courtney Democrat, and Edward B. Casey, a Republican.

Attorneys John Cashen and Cassius Doty are representing Horan, who was permitted his freedom on a personal bond of $1,000.

GO TO RESORT FOR WEEK-END; HALT A DIVORCE

A good cup of coffee and a kiss each morning for her husband, James, was the advice given to Mrs. Frances Peters yesterday by Judge Oscar Nelson. The Peterses had just informed the court of their reconciliation after a week-end together in a Wisconsin summer resort.

The couple have been married for 28 years. Two weeks ago Mrs. Peters filed suit for divorce on charges of cruelty. Yesterday her attorney, Victor Frohlich, was given permission to dismiss the suit. Peters promised to stop his drinking. They have three grown children.

2 WOMEN KILLED IN COLLISION OF TRUCK AND AUTO

Two women were killed, and three other persons were hurt last night in a head-on collision between a passenger car and fruit truck in the Dunes highway, 15 miles east of Gary. Those killed were Mrs. Rena Hallman, 52 years old, of 684 McGuigan street, Benton Harbor, Mich., and Mrs. Kerstin Nelson, 71, of 562 Pearl street, Benton Harbor.

They were in an automobile with Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Davies and the Davies' son, William, 17, all of 562 Pearl street, Benton Harbor. The Davies car collided with a truck driven by Mack Morlan, 45, of 596 Niles street, Benton Harbor. Indiana state police said Morlan was trying to pass another car. Mr. Davies suffered a possible skull fracture, and his son an arm fracture. Mrs. Davies received bruises.

Ben Schow, 35 years old, of 827 East 61st street, was killed, and three other persons were hurt in an automobile collision early yesterday at 147th street and Torrence avenue, Calumet City. The injured are Schow's wife, Anna, 36; Ray Lindquist, 41, of 527 East 79th street, and Edward Lane, 32, of 13834 Atlantic street, Riverdale. The Schows and Lindquist were in one car and Lane in the other. All were taken to St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond.

Raymond Wilson, 5 years old, 5710 Loomis street, was given first aid in the Evangelical hospital last night after he had been struck by the automobile of Harry Muth, 3653 South Leavitt street, in front of the Wilson home.

NINE MILE CHASE COSTS SPEEDER A FINE OF $200

Loss of a nine mile motorcycle race with a policeman over south side streets cost Matthew Stampar, 2906 East 98th street, a $200 fine yesterday.

DU PAGE CO. HAS NEW COURTHOUSE BUT CAN'T BUY IT

Du Page county has a fine new courthouse in Wheaton, but it doesn't own it yet. County Treasurer Arthur L. Hellyer refuses to authorize payment of more than $75,000 for it and the building cost $95,000.

When the county board of supervisors approved the 1938 budget last September an item of $75,000 for the first unit of the new county building was included. In December the board approved a contract for the building for $88,000. Last July 12 they voted an emergency resolution bringing the total to be spent to $95,000. Hellyer refuses to recognize this action. In a letter to the board the treasurer says he doesn't feel he has the right to pay more than the amount of the original appropriation.

An opinion supporting the board of supervisors has been given by the Du Page county state's attorney. The board will meet Aug. 9 to decide what is to be done.

REVISE PARKING RULES FOR WEST SIDE STREETS

George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the park district, yesterday announced a revision of parking regulations for west side trafic arteries under the district's jurisdiction. Motorists will be permitted to park during the day only on the side of the thoroughfares not carrying the heavy trafic.

For example, they may park in the morning, when the heavy trafic is loop bound, only on the north side of Jackson, Washington, Warren and other boulevards, and only on the south side in the afternoon, when the trafic rush is outward bound.

The new regulations go into effect today. Previously parking was banned on both sides from morning until evening. The change is based on a recent survey made by park district engineers. Many merchants, it was said, complained that motorists, unable to park on boulevards, were going to other districts to trade.

SYNOPSIS.

On board the S. S. Panama Queen, sailing from Los Angeles to New York, via Panama, are Anne Sydney, who has a part in a Broadway play, and her crippled and embittered sister, Mena; Arnold Vernon, elderly, rich, English motion picture producer, and his coldly beautiful wife, Claire; Isobel Butler, who has a stateroom next to the Vernon suite, and hopes to get in pictures through him; Alex Reed, young surgeon returning to work after two years' illness; and gossipy Mrs. Panting. Isobel meets and arouses Vernon's interest. Anne and Alex are mutually attracted. Mena spitefully tells Alex that Anne is a heartless flirt. Pride causes Anne to hold herself aloof from him. Dr. Neil Andrews, a friend of Alex's, joins the ship in Mexico. He wants to get married and thinks Anne meets his ideals. Isobel and Arnold Vernon fall in love. He tries to buy his freedom from Claire. When she refuses he threatens to make a new will disinheriting her. The ship fights through a terrific hurricane. Isobel finds Vernon in her cabin, unconscious, hit by a storm tossed trunk. She sends Claire to him and struggles to find a doctor. Claire takes a loaded pistol, wrapped in a towel, from the purser's suite and shoots her husband, leaving the weapon in Isobel's wardrobe. She then tells Alex she found her husband wounded in Isobel's cabin. Flagg, the purser, reveals that the day before Vernon had made a new will leaving everything to Isobel. Alex operates on Vernon. The captain starts an inquiry. The stewardess reports that she found a towel of the purser's in Claire's room and that Claire had given her an emerald ring to keep silent. Claire charges the stewardess stole the ring. Mrs. Panting finds evidence against Isobel and Mena tries to throw suspicion on Alex.

INSTALMENT XXXV.

HAVANA MAGIC.

THE TWELFTH DAY.

Anne slept fitfully and woke in the faint beginnings of daylight. She dressed and went on deck. The ship was slowly steaming past the frowning fortress of Morro Castle as she entered Havana harbor.

Looking up she could still see a few faint stars. As she looked a pink flush appeared in the east and spread swiftly over the sky dyeing the trailing clouds with a hue of roses. The blue beyond them deepened. Suddenly the domes and turrets of the splendid white city beyond the docks gleamed with the uprushing gold. Anne's spirits lifted. She had a date to explore Havana with Alex, and this was the day.

The decks filled with passengers as the ship drew up to the quayside and was moored to the dock. Anne saw Alex come looking for her. "Good news," he said as they met. "He's still alive!"

"O Alex, I'm so glad—"

"I thought he was gone at four this morning, but he wasn't. He pulled through—"

"So he's safe now?"

"O dear no. Far from it. That's what I want to see you about—"

She knew what was coming before he said it. "This was to be our day, Anne. Well, you can see for yourself, I wouldn't dare go."

"No, of course you wouldn't."

"I can't tell you how sorry I am—"

"You don't have to apologize, Alex. Why, under the circumstances I wouldn't want you to come."

He looked away from her over the serene landlocked water. "I had been looking forward to this so much, but this man's life is so terribly important—"

She had a date to explore Havana with Alex, and this was the day.

So this is life, thought Anne. Endless frustration and disappointment.

Neil, however, was going to be free, and unaware of her arrangement with Alex had taken her agreement with his plans for granted.

"I'm doing the rounds till twelve," he told her, "while Alex gets some sleep. Then I'll be ready for you. Will you wait for me, Anne, or shall I meet you ashore?"

"Think I'll wait," she said, almost with gratitude. In his breezy company, the day would not be so difficult to live through. She saw Mena leave the ship with Mrs. Panting. They passed her sitting on deck with a book on their way to the gangway—but both ignored her. Anne wondered if it were any use writing her parents the whole involved story seeing that Mena's terrible talent for misrepresentation would make short work of it when she got home.

When Neil Andrews came on deck at ten past twelve ready to take her ashore she felt more drawn to him than she had ever been. He loved her, he wanted her—he cared what happened to her. He was quick to feel the subtle change in her response to him, and take advantage of it.

Cuba was another of the countries Neil knew, as he put it, like the palm of his own hand. "Pity we don't stay a couple of days in port," he said regretfully. "There's so much to see here that a tourist never knows about."

He told the driver of their car to drive up through the town and then along the majestic promenade at the edge of the sea. Anne was enchanted by the beauty of the city, the fine white buildings, the broad boulevards with their shady palms, the old world tree grown squares, the sidewalk cafés under fluttering awnings, the bright air of adventure and foreignness.

If only Alex had been with her! Must she resign herself so soon to the maxim of defeated age and experience that circumstances do not combine to produce perfection—that one element is always missing—that nothing is perfect in this mortal world?

Neil looked at her under the brim of her hat. "Of what can you be thinking with such a lost expression?"

"My lunch!" she laughed, pulling herself together. "I ate breakfast early and I'm always hungry in the stimulating sea air—"

"Romantic young woman! Very well, we are already on our way." He spoke rapidly in Spanish to the chauffeur, who at once turned in from the sea road and cut inland across the suburbs of the city. Neil turned back to Anne. "You'll have to wait a little while because we have several miles to go. But this is a place where we won't meet any of the passengers from the ship and I know you're going to like it."

When they reached their destination—an exclusive country club—they were in sight of the sea again.

The car turned into a drive to a spreading house of gray stone, flanked by immense gardens with lakes and fountains—the lawns dotted with snowy feathered scarlet-legged flamingoes. Anne cried out loud with delight. Neil squeezed the hand he had been holding. "I knew you'd like it."

They lunched on a cool stone veranda, looking down over a mile or so of feathery tropical vegetation to the blue smudge of calm dreaming sea. Anne turned from the little table to the view of which the lush beauty pierced her with a strange nostalgia. Would lovely things always hurt because she could not share them with Alex? "How beautiful it is!" she said wistfully.

"You like adventure, don't you?" said Neil. "You like travel."

"Next to my work, I suppose more than anything else in the world."

"Then why don't you make up your mind about me? Or is it me you don't like?"

Poor Neil! He was actually humble now—and still tireless. Pursuing her as if she mattered, as if she were really valuable—something worth while to get. Whereas actually he was the only person left to whom she mattered at all. "I do like you," she said impulsively on a wave of gratitude. "You'd be surprised if I told you how much."

He'd been right then that morning when he divined that her feelings had changed towards him. "Then make up your mind Anne. It's Friday today—we're due in New York early Monday morning. That gives us only two days more of the trip."

She drew her eyes from the blue horizon and looked at him. He was very good to look at with his superb health, his debonair charm, his excellently modeled face. He was looking at her with admiration and desire—yes even with love. But there was not in him the depth, the undying loyalty, the single hearted integrity that looked out of Alex's eyes.

He would not have the faith in her genius that Alex had. So long as she had glamor he would worship her, but if she flopped at first and had a struggle he would tire. She knew all this without asking him, but she asked him. "Would you go on loving me if I failed at first as an actress—if it seemed as if after all, I would not be any good?"

His eyes laughed at her. "Why not? I'd love you more than ever."

"Are you quite sure?"

Her earnestness amused him vastly. She would find being a wife to him, Neil, was going to be a whole time job, but he wouldn't tell her that now or the day would be squandered on fruitless argument."

"Quite sure and very sure. What do you think I'm in love with you for anyway?"

"Don't you think my talent is a part of me?"

"Naturally. But I don't think success or failure is a part of you. That's outside of ourselves. Come now, let's get this thing settled."

ORANGE FLAVOR GLORIFIES THE 'STAF OF LIFE'

"Thirty-Three Refrigerator Cakes" is a collection of Mary Meade's best ice box cakes. The booklet is on sale for 3 cents at the Tribune public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, or it will be mailed for 5 cents in stamps. Mail requests should be addressed to Mary Meade.

BY MARY MEADE.

Orange bread with bright fruit jelly or jam, or with cream cheese spreads, appears often at parties, and almost always inspires at least a few of the guests to try a hand at a loaf or two themselves, later.

The orange quickbreads are almost as easy to make as muffins, and an orange yeast bread will present no problems to the woman who works with yeast dough now and then. It's the rind of orange which gives most of the flavor, so marmalade or grated orange rind always is an ingredient of orange bread.

Orange Bread with Bran

1 cup honey
1 orange rind, cut in thin strips
1 egg
2¼ cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup bran
1 cup milk
¾ cup chopped nuts

To prepare the orange peel, cook in slightly salted water for 30 minutes, or until soft. Drain, rinse twice with cold water, and simmer very slowly in the cup of honey for half an hour. Remove rind from honey, measure honey, and replace any absorbed by the peel, making a cupful. Combine honey and beaten egg. Add 1¾ cups flour and mix well. Add ½ cup of the milk, then the bran, and then remaining milk. Add remaining flour sifted with baking powder and salt, to which orange peel and nuts have been added. Pour the mixture into a well greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for an hour and fifteen minutes.

Marmalade Honey Bread

[1 loaf]

2 tablespoons shortening
1 cup honey
1 beaten egg
1½ tablespoons grated orange rind
2½ cups flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons orange marmalade

Cream shortening and honey, add the beaten egg and grated rind. Sift flour, baking powder, soda and salt together, and add alternately with orange juice. Add marmalade and fill greased loaf pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 70 minutes.

Yeast Marmalade Bread

½ cup water
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons shortening
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cake compressed yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
4½ cups flour
¾ cup thick orange marmalade
1 egg yolk

Heat water and milk to boiling, and pour over shortening and salt in mixing bowl. Soften yeast in lukewarm water and add to the first mixture when it is cool. Add enough flour to make a stiff batter, and beat until smooth. Stir marmalade and egg yolk together well and add to batter. Add enough more flour to make a dough stiff enough to handle. Turn out on a floured board and knead until smooth and elastic. Place in a greased bowl, cover, and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk, about 3 hours. Knead again lightly for several seconds and turn into a greased bread pan. Let rise again until double, about 1¼ hours. Bake about an hour at 400 degrees. If you do not have a large loaf pan for the bread, make a portion of the dough into rolls and bake an average size loaf.

FOR VARIETY TRY FRUIT IN GELATIN AS A PIE FILLING

You'll Find It Easy to Make.

Just for pie baking variety try fruit in gelatin as a filling. The cool slippery gelatin and the crunchy crust are a pleasant contrast. This type of pie is very little trouble to make.

PEACH BLUSH PIE

[1 8-inch pie]

1 baked bran pastry shell
2½ cups cooked or canned sliced peaches
2 cups peach juice and water
1 package cherry gelatin

Drain peaches thoroughly. Heat peach juice and water and dissolve gelatin in it. Chill until mixture begins to congeal. Arrange peaches in pie shell and pour gelatin mixture over them. Chill until firm. Serve with whipped cream if desired.

BRAN PASTRY

[1 2-crust pie or 2 8-inch pie shells]

¾ cup bran
1½ cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup hard fat
5 tablespoons cold water

Combine bran, flour and salt and cut in fat. Add water, mixing only enough to hold ingredients together. Roll out on lightly floured board to ⅛ inch in thickness. Place pastry in pan, fluting edge. Bake in hot [450 degree] oven 10 to 15 minutes or until browned.

JELLIED APRICOT PIE

[1 9-inch pie]

2 cups drained cooked or canned apricots
¼ cup sugar
1 package lemon flavored gelatin
2 cups apricot juice and water
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 baked pastry shell

Combine apricots and sugar. Dissolve gelatin in hot apricot juice and water. Add salt and chill until gelatin begins to congeal. Arrange apricots in baked pie shell and cover with gelatin. Chill until firm and serve with whipped cream.

SWEET CHERRY TARTS

[6 4-inch tarts]

1 package lemon flavored gelatin
1½ cups water
⅛ cup pineapple juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
6 baked tart shells
2 cups pitted and drained sweet cherries

Dissolve gelatin in hot water; add fruit juices and chill. When slightly thickened fold four tablespoons of the gelatin into the whipped cream. Spread a little of this mixture in bottom of each tart shell and chill until set. Add cherries to remaining gelatin and when thickened place in tart shells. Top with remaining whipped cream and gelatin mixture. Chill and serve.

TRAVELS 900,000 MILES FOR BEST FOOD AND FINDS IT

BY MARCIA WINN.

To the average person food is a means of satisfying hunger. To Duncan Hines, 5494 Cornell avenue, it is so all-consuming a hobby that he had to retire from his printing business to handle it.

Duncan Hines.

It isn't that Mr. Hines is a glutton. As a matter of fact, he is a light eater. He denies, too, that he is a gourmet. But if you have a favorite eating place that you want to keep private, don't mention it around him. He'll probably rush like mad, with his tongue hanging out and his wife and bulldog, "Peggy," with him, to sample the cooking.

Off to Detroit for Lunch.

Mr. Hines believes he is the only Chicagoan that will drive to Detroit and back in one day just to have luncheon there. [A luncheon that may not be good, too.] And surely few would desire, if driving south, to make Nashville, Tenn., 408 miles away, their first stop just because a Nashville woman mixes chicken fat with shortening for her apple pie crust. But Mr. Hines does.

To bring his mania closer to home, he drives to Chicago avenue to buy the household coffee and to No-Man's-Land on the north shore for milk and cream. And he rarely stays home long enough to use them up. Anyway, he says, he doesn't really like coffee.

Twenty-two years ago Mr. Hines purchased his first automobile. Once out in it, and hungary, he and his wife began looking for places to eat. Since then, he says, they have traveled 900,000 miles, in every state of the union and Hawaii, and have found only 1,800 places they can recommend.

Garnerings of His Travels.

His garnerings—Food is cheaper in Chicago than in New England, cheaper on the Pacific coast than in Chicago. San Francisco has more eating places than any other city, New England more than any other section. Southern food is too greasy and the sign, "Home Cooking," is generally a delusion.

From his meals [two light ones a day to counteract the one rich one, Mr. Hines has decided that a good cup of coffee should be available anywhere for 5 cents, but that good ham and eggs may be worth $1. Last week he paid $22 in New York for a luncheon for two of honey dew melon, breast of chicken, and dessert. "The dessert," he explained, "was where the expense came in, for I told them how to make it."

No Favorite Dishes.

Mr. Hines says he has no favorite dishes. If he wakes up hungry in the night, all he wants is milk. If, when traveling, he can't find a good place to eat, he buys canned peaches, sardines, and deviled ham for a roadside picnic. He likes both kinds of fried chicken, jointed and unjointed.

"But if you want to know the best place to eat in America," he concluded, "I'll tell you. It's Mrs. Hines' kitchen!"

CHEESE MOLD MAKES AN IDEAL CENTER FOR SUMMER SALAD PLATE

A cheese mold is the basis of a fine summer salad plate. Vegetables such as tomatoes, cucumbers and greens or fresh fruits accompany the molded cheese salad with equal success.

PIMIENTO CHEESE MOLD.

[Serves 6.]

1 package aspic gelatin
1 cup boiling water
¾ cup cold water
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup mayonnaise
½ teaspoon paprika
cup grated cheese
2 pimientos, chopped
½ cup cream, whipped

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water and salt. Chill until the combination begins to thicken, then gradually beat in the mayonnaise and paprika. Fold in grated cheese, pimiento and whipped cream. Pour into mold and chill until firm. Unmold on large plate and circle with fresh fruits or vegetables and salad greens.

County Truck Gardeners Hold Annual Field Day

Cook county truck gardeners held their annual field day yesterday under auspices of the Illinois College of Agriculture, and the Cook County Truck Growers' association. The gardeners made an inspection tour of the county experimental station at Des Plaines and also visited individual farms to watch fertilization, cultivation, and harvesting tests. About 150 attended.

GREAT HARVEST OF PRODUCE IN CITY AT BARGAIN

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Trains and trucks loaded with the bounteous midsummer harvesting of fruits and vegetables are now rolling into Chicago daily. Hot weather meals may now include generous servings of products from orchards, fruit plantations, and truck gardens. The relatively low price encourages thrifty housewives to reduce food costs by loading shopping baskets with bargains from the greengrocer's stand.

Although fruits and vegetables generally are considered reasonable in price, some are higher this week than last. Many storekeepers have raised their prices on many items in the staple and retail meat departments.

Rains Help Vegetables.

Rains favored the development of vegetables in the nearby truck farming area. Trucks have been loaded with high grade home grown products on the Randolph street fruit and vegetable market. Increased local supplies help hold down prices of green stuff.

Reports from the country indicate that egg production is falling off in midwest farm flocks. This is tending to push egg prices higher. They are up a penny a dozen here and there in the city and suburbs.

With fresh and cured pork having a tendency to climb higher, lard jumped up a cent a pound in some stores.

Green beans are 1 to 1½ cents a pound higher and green peas are up 1 to 3 cents in most places.

Butter Up 1½ to 2 Cents.

Butter is 1½ to 2 cents higher in a long list of stores.

Berries are becoming scarce. It is the windup of the picking season. Strawberries have been scarce for several weeks. The end of the raspberry, blackberry, and dewberry harvesting season is almost over. In most shopping centers blueberries are yet to be found.

Peaches are going up. They are 2½ cents a pound higher in some cases.

Survey price sheets made out weekly by Tribune reporters show that store managers have cut the prices of apples and head lettuce. Flour sales will be found here and there with prices on the 24½ pound sacks of the lower grades whittled off 10 cents and the higher grades 6 cents.

Shoppers will have no difficulty today and tomorrow in finding dry onions, fresh tomatoes, and spinach at prices less than a week ago. Roasting ear prices are cut almost in half.

Some Canned Foods Off.

Some brands of canned tomato juice, corn, peas, and tomatoes are off in a few places.

Honey ball and honey dew melons are slightly cheaper in several stores.

Sugar prices vary greatly between different stores—some added 4 to 5 cents a ten pound sack, while others cut their prices a similar amount.

Meat prices continue upward. Some grades of bacon are up 2 to 4 cents a pound. Butchers in some shops have raised the price of pot roast beef 2 cents; rib roast of beef, 3 cents; cured ham, 2 cents a pound.

Pork Roasts Go Up.

Pork roast is up 1 to 6 cents a pound. Some retail meat markets added 3 cents a pound to sirloin and porterhouse steaks. Leg of lamb is higher in some cases.

Frying chickens are on sale at 6 cents a pound less than last week in several places. Many butchers are featuring various cuts of veal at lower prices.

Live stock and wholesale meat prices changed but little during the week, according to official reports from the stockyards. There were no changes in the price of good and choice beef steers or wholesale cuts of beef. The top price paid for steers was $13 a hundred pounds.

Farmers were paid 10 to 15 cents a hundred more than last week for heavy hogs—those weighing 230 pounds and up—while lightweight hogs dropped an equal amount. Top price was $10.25 a hundred. Wholesale cuts of pork loins brought 50 cents a hundred less.

Spring lambs went up 25 cents a hundred to a top of $9.70. Wholesale cuts of lamb remained the same.

Changes in wholesale prices of fresh fruits and vegetables are about equally divided between ups and downs. Green beans, cantaloupes, fresh tomatoes, peaches, and watermelons are higher. Potatoes, dry onions, apples, lemons, oranges, plums, and pears are lower.

RECTOR TO BARE THE SECRET OF BIRD NEST SOUP

You probably won't be serving bird's nest soup to your guests, or even eating it, unless you should go to China. But even the story of it and the manner of its preparation are interesting items of cooking lore as told by George Rector in his column in the woman's section of next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

There are Chinese foods, too, which appeal to the American fancy, and Mr. Rector gives tempting recipes. Among these are an egg dish and chicken chop suey. All ingredients needed are obtainable from Chinese stores and many American food shops.

AN OLD ROAST IS NEEDED FOR THIS NEW SALAD

Leftover meats are good with a barbecue sauce or in a meat loaf, but in summer it's a good idea to make a main dish salad of the meat from yesterday's roast. Such a salad is the backbone of a porch supper or lunch.

MEAT SALAD.

2½ cups leftover beef or veal
2½ cups orange segments
1½ cups sliced celery
3 tablespoons French dressing
1 cup fresh raspberries

Marinate meat, orange segments and celery in French dressing. Drain and serve on lettuce bed, using berries for garnish; or place in lettuce lined salad bowl.

NO TEXAS PURGE.

What happened all along the line in Texas in the primaries in which Mr. O'Daniel, late of Kansas, won the nomination for governor, has an important bearing on the internal affairs of the Democratic party, not only with respect to the next session of congress but also the nominating convention of 1940.

The Vice President, John Garner of Texas, seems to have had very little publicly to do with the campaigning, he remaining in Uvalde doing his fishing there without a battleship, and his campaigning without a trip through the state to indicate his friends with a smile. Mr. Garner, if he keeps his health, would like to have a voice in the next presidential nomination of the party. He doesn't say much for publication, but he is out in the front of that branch of the Democracy which Mr. Roosevelt says must be converted to the revolutionary type of liberalism or be eliminated in the purge.

If the purge had succeeded in Texas Mr. Garner's influence in the party and the influence of his wing of Democracy in the south might have been regarded as waning. Mr. Roosevelt visited the state before he went fishing and he indicated to the voters what he would like to have them do in several instances. His ally in the Democratic-communist Front, the Nonpartisan league, blacklisted five of the best known Texas members of the house of representatives and Mr. Roosevelt indorsed several.

The blacklisted included Hatton Sumners, chairman of the judiciary committee of the house, whose earnest pronouncement against the court bill, when it was apparently foreordained for passage, was as fine a thing as a member of congress ever uttered. Sumners was renominated, as were the other four condemned members, they being Joseph J. Mansfield, chairman of the rivers and harbors committee; Fritz G. Lanham, chairman of the public buildings committee; Martin Dies of the rules committee, and Milton H. West. Mr. Roosevelt's most distinguished friend, Maury Maverick, was defeated. The purge did not work at all in Texas.

The test in the south will be continued in other states soon, notably in Georgia, where Senator George is on the blacklist, in South Carolina against Senator Ellison Smith, and in Virginia. The southern conservatives have been put on notice by Mr. Roosevelt and they know that if they lose control of their states they will either become appendages to a party which takes its orders from a combination of radicals, communists, and revolutionaries, with cells and centers in New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, and California, or they will be driven out of the party.

They will be sitting in the back seats if they have any place in the nominating convention and will be listening to the speakers for the C. I. O., the Workers' alliance, Nonpartisan league, the Farmer-Laborites, the Bridges maritime union, and the Browder communists associated with John Lewis. The conservatives in the Democratic party cannot unite with these elements which have the support of Mr. Roosevelt, and rely upon him to turn in their direction whenever a political decision is to be made. If he is to be a third term candidate the southerners would be read out of the party or would continue in it merely as penitents. The primaries in the south contain this question.

THE MASSACRE ABATES.

With five months of 1938 still to go, the deaths in Chicago's automobile massacre this year have passed 355 and the number of the maimed is approaching 11,000. The death toll in Cook county as a whole is fully a hundred larger than in the city alone.

The figures are appalling. They are a disgrace to the community which permits such a condition to exist. Fortunately there are evidences that improvement is on the way. In Chicago, in the first seven months of 1938, the automobile deaths are 22 per cent fewer than they were a year ago at this time—a saving of fully one hundred lives.

It is not possible as yet to explain the improvement with complete certainty; probably a number of influences are at work. Quite likely the numerous campaigns for safety in THE TRIBUNE and in the schools are beginning to produce results. Perhaps some decline in the use of automobiles, as a consequence of the depression, has influenced and there is reason to hope that the inspection of automobiles for mechanical faults is also contributing to the reduction of accidents.

But it seems altogether probable that the most important cause of the improvement is the opening of the outer drive bridge. In consequence, a great deal of trafic has been diverted from streets with relatively high accident rates to the outer drive, where the death rate per car mile is low. The outer drive is a safe highway for just one reason: No vehicles cross it.

The improvement this year need not be the last. As grade crossings are eliminated, the death rate will continue to drop. An elevated highway through the congested west side would accomplish as much or more than has already been achieved by the outer drive. A series of such super-roads would all but end the massacre which disgraces our community and our civilization.

LAW IN LAKE COUNTY.

The state's attorney of Lake county, Ill., had the courage and wisdom to refuse to quash the indictments naming twenty C. I. O. men and their sympathizers in the recent strike against the Chicago Hardware Foundry company in North Chicago. The defendants are charged with conspiracy and intimidation by combination. Seventeen other cases of unlawful assembly and lesser charges are pending.

The disorder lasted for seven weeks and was accompanied by much lawlessness including acts of violence and refusal to obey the reasonable orders of Sherif Doolittle. It is unnecessary here to catalog the alleged offenses. When the blockade of the factory gate was broken by the sherif and the strike was finally abandoned the representatives of the company agreed to use their good offices to induce the state's attorney to forget about the criminal charges.

There are times when it is well to let bygones be bygones, but this was not one of them. If the indictments had been quashed, those who have provoked lawlessness in Lake county would have been encouraged to do so again in the knowledge that they would have nothing to lose and everything to gain from resorting to it. Violence sometimes wins strikes and if those who engage in it go unpunished, they must be expected to use it as a weapon at every opportunity.

Lake county's reputation as a peaceable community has been undermined in recent months by the lawless conduct of industrial disputes. A state's attorney who would wink at these violations from a desire to be a good fellow would be negligent of his duty; more than that, in the eyes of public opinion he would stand convicted of compounding the felony.

THE JAPANESE FACE.

In late June of last year the Russians and Japanese had a border fight over a worthless sand island in the Amur river. The Japanese destroyed one Russian gunboat, crippled another, and killed some soviet soldiers. The soviet commissar of defense promptly ordered the withdrawal of Russian forces and gave face to the Japanese. A few weeks before that the Russians had presented to the world the most shocking of their purges. Marshal Tukhachevsky and all the generals of the high army command had been summarily shot for unknown reasons.

Japan, elated and full of vim, thereupon turned its attention to China. In about a week's time there was fighting over an incident at the Marco Polo bridge west of Peiping and a month later a Japanese naval lieutenant and seaman at the Hungjao airport at Shanghai, having provoked the peace preservation guards, were shot. The Chinese war, which is only an incident and not a war, was on. At first it progressed stubbornly, then brilliantly, and then bogged down. A three months' campaign stretched itself out to a full year.

The other day there was another incident on the border of Corea, Manchukuo and Siberia. Russian troops took possession of land claimed by Japan. Japan at once adopted the tone of authority and shook its fist. Max Litvinov, soviet foreign commissar, raised his voice to the Japanese ambassador and shook his fist. The troops would remain where they were. This time Japan backed down. The voice was lowered. The bellicose newspapers were toned down. The spokesman for the foreign office had nothing to say except that the affair was of no importance—for the present.

Japan has given up the Olympic games. It was a sensible thing to do, considering, but nevertheless a failure was acknowledged, extensive preparations were scrapped, and national pride suffered. The Japanese press agencies make something of the fact that patriotic citizens, women and men, are giving their gold rings, ornaments, and plate to the government to be melted down that imports may continue. So the Chinese, having been plundered themselves, are now getting the rings off the Japanese fingers. Then Japan loses face to Russia.

The incident is becoming almost as trying and exhausting as a war.

TEACHERS AS PROPAGANDISTS.

[New York Sun.]

Left wing educators, who openly advocate the use of the schools as propaganda agencies for a new social and economic order, have received some practical advice from Dr. John L. Tildsley, who recently retired as associate superintendent of schools. Assuming that the left wingers win the nation's teachers to their program—an assumption which takes too much for granted—will the parents stand for it? Dr. Tildsley estimates that probably less than 5 per cent of the parents would support such a program in the schools, and if they, in the rôle of taxpayers, withdraw their support from the schools, what will happen to the teachers?

Dr. Tildsley asks questions like these in the Social Frontier, official organ of the John Dewey society, but unofficially known among teachers as the organ of their left wing brethren. Dr. Tildsley was invited by the publication to say why he disagreed with its followers; in the current issue he bluntly tells them that they have stopped being teachers and have become propagandists, with the nation's children as their victims. He advises them to go back to teaching.

Quoting from the Social Frontier itself, Dr. Tildsley shows that its editors have at times disregarded fundamental doctrins of education in their enthusiasm to wean the children to a collectivist economy. He accuses them of neglecting the intellectual training of the children in order to capture their emotions and their loyalties for a preconceived Utopia. Between their tactics and those of Hitler, Stalin, and Mussolini, Dr. Tildsley sees no difference except that the dictators took some personal risks in upsetting an established social order for a new one, while the leftist educators "plan to capture the state and establish the collectivist society by exploiting [not really educating] the children through the agency of the teachers."

One thing not discussed by Dr. Tildsley is the resistance which teachers themselves are likely to show when they become aware of the efforts to use them as tools of a left wing propaganda machine. Teachers dislike repression. They favor academic freedom. They resent many of the petty restrictions which unimaginative school trustees impose on them. As a consequence they often sympathize with those who agitate for social or political reform. But that teachers retain a fund of common sense was amply illustrated at the latest convention of the National Education association, when they rebelled against efforts to make them associate the American Legion with Fascism and the Black Legion. It will be a long time before the nation's teachers help to establish the Social Frontier's idea of Utopia.

Grandmother, 1938.

After reading your article about grandmothers I just had to write and tell you about my mother, who is a grandmother. She is a modern one, although like the proverbial grandmother, she can produce cookies, candy, or the desired coin. She, too, sits at times with her specs on, sewing or knitting, telling stories of her childhood and the past. But she lives today, so she has the knee length skirts, the cocktails, the cigarettes, and the smart hats. She keeps up with us younger ones, is a winner at poker, and a swell pal. As to what children will remember of their grandmothers of today no one knows, but of this grandmother her grandson once remarked, "Look at the smoke come out of Ganga's nose!"

My Dear Miss Provines:

My ire has been aroused! I have just read those paragraphs on the modern grandma. What will the modern youngster find to remember about his grandma, indeed? It's not what I will have to remember but what I can never forget.

My grandmother is not old fashioned. . . . She enjoys the baseball games; hearing them over the air and attending at the park on ladies' day. Baseball is, in her opinion, the best recreation of all and Gabby Hartnett the best player of them all. She goes to the movies to admire Garbo and listens to the blockhead on the radio.

Gran has a canny judgment of people. People who have fooled us by their outward surface have not fooled Gran, and we have seen her predictions come true. Gran's bluntness is sometimes a little alarming, but the truth always hurts. Her sense of humor entertains us. Her boundless energy amazes us and puts us to shame. Grannie's meals delight the palate. In her spare time Grannie makes quilts for her grandchildren's hope chests. All love and understanding are a reality when her soft cheek is pressed against mine in embrace.

INJURIES—TRUE AND FALSE.

THE path we tread through life may not always be straight and narrow. We encounter numerous buffets which may force us to away, stagger, or even, on occasion, to stop. Nevertheless most of us with courage high are able to keep our faces forward, driving steadily toward a set goal. But occasionally something may happen which perhaps will retard if not cause us to backtrack, and now and then we may lose our way in a wilderness of doubt.

Let us suppose that some one suffers an injury in the course of his employment. Under the compensation act he is cared for—the bills of his physician and the hospital are defrayed and convalescence proceeds apace. Finally his physician announces, "Well, John, you are O. K. now; you can go back to work Monday." This means that the "off duty" stipend will cease and the patient is henceforth dependent on his ability to carry on at his former job.

But, again, let us suppose that friends have told him that he should be careful and not go back to work. Examples are cited in which it is said that some of his co-laborers were obliged to return to the hospital for a second operation or what-not. If John is an easy victim to suggestion he may begin to wonder if they aren't right and there may come the thought: "The company I work for is a huge concern with large assets. Why not exaggerate my complaints a little and thus relieve myself for a time, at least, of the obligation to earn a living?"

The employé is at the crossroads of a dilemma. He can turn to the right, resume his business, and be perfectly normal, or he can turn to the left and become a semi-invalid. If the latter course wins, a form of self-deluded incapacity may become a fixed belief. Later he may decide to sacrifice his responsibility to his family and his employer and sink into a type of hopelessness which simulates the psychoneurotic.

The more he thinks about his trouble the worse it seems to be! At first the pain was severe but endurable; later even the skin cannot be touched without his crying out. Still later, perhaps, he is unable to move the affected area a hair's breadth. None of these symptoms is real. They come because he has persuaded himself that he is a chronic invalid. After a while he may degenerate into a true neurotic, with every part of his body the seat of some malady.

To draw the line between the one who is deliberately pretending and the one who is not sometimes is difficult. The curious thing about the whole matter is that these episodes are not observed among farmers or those who work for themselves. They occur usually where there is compensation or damages in the offing. It is well known that most of these so-called neurotics recover promptly as soon as definite settlement is made either for or against the patient. If he is awarded a substantial amount he may persist mildly in his sense of helplessness for a brief period, and sudden restoration may be based upon a chance visit to some miraculous healer or herb wizard whose prescription "made a new man of him overnight." Should he move to another locality where old friends and neighbors are out of sight—hence out of mind—rehabilitation may take place speedily.

One who fears his ability to labor again, if a skilled and conscientious medical man has assured him that he can do so, can serve himself best by resuming partial employment. A tryout often begets confidence. He can attempt minor duties until it becomes obvious to him that he can do more and more each day. Confidence is thus regained and the wish to remain ill is replaced by the desire to get well.

RELIEF FROM MIGRAINE.

R. S. K. writes: For many years I suffered from migraine, also having attacks of Ménière's disease. About two years ago a friend told me that a good dose of castor oil every ten days had cured him of this distressing condition and that he knew a prominent physician who had conquered the difficulty in the same way. I began the treatment at once and have kept it up ever since, with the result that I have been entirely free from these troubles. The method is as follows:

Put about 100 cc. of orange juice in a glass and swallow a little to coat the mouth and throat. Stir in one-third teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda, which foams up, filling the glass. Then pour in the oil, which breaks into a million globules. Drink the mixture and go to bed. On the day I am to use the oil I eat a light lunch and only a glass of milk or malted milk at supper time.

This plan cleans out the system as no other laxative will. My opinion is that the digestive tract becomes contaminated or infected, growing a little more toxic each day until the poison brings on a siege of migraine, or even Ménière's disease.

REPLY.

An excellent suggestion. Your preparation contains two laxatives: First, the castor oil; second, sodium citrate, which is manufactured when you add sodium bicarbonate to orange juice. This not only removes a substantial amount of bacteria from the colon, but relieves the system of an overplus of water, which is thought to be a causative factor in both migraine and the type of dizziness which you have experienced.

PURINES AND URIC ACID.

O. A. L. writes: Please explain purines, as an element of the diet. Are they responsible for certain ailments?

REPLY.

Purines are chemical bodies found in high proportion in many foods, such as liver, pancreas [sweetbreads], kidney, brains, etc. Excessive quantities in the diet lead to the production in the blood of uric acid—the chief substance of the purine group. Uric acid is thought to be a prominent factor in gout.

IMPAIRED LOCOMOTION.

R. L. writes: What is wrong when a woman of 72 can walk only by keeping her legs stiff and moving them forward slowly? She cannot lift them even an inch over an obstacle, but can swing them backward.

REPLY.

There is some trouble in the hip joint or in the muscles of the thigh. One would suspect the presence of arthritis.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

A LASSO MIGHT HAVE SAVED HIM.

Chicago, July 28.—I have just noticed the picture of John Warde on page 28 of today's TRIBUNE, showing him perched on the seventeenth floor of a New York hotel before leaping to his death. It seems to me that a stealthy and expert manipulator of a lasso could have saved this man's life. CLAY T. HELD.

REACHING FOR THE FAMILY DOCTOR.

Chicago, July 25.—I see the New Deal has a plan to regiment medical treatment and just as a starter it asks for a billion dollars. That sounds familiar. After failing to cure the problems of industry and labor it is about to spread its beneficent tentacles about the family doctor. Taxes will be again increased to nurse this parasitic octopus, as long as taxes can be found in order to give the "taxpayers something for nothing." Such a travesty of political ethics has not been equaled since Nero fiddled while Rome burned. THOM B. BONDUS, M. D.

"THE STATES."

Chicago, July 23.—I was pleased to see your editorial deploring the use of the term "The States," by which many people abroad refer to our country. I never hear or see this expression without a feeling of keen resentment. Somehow it seems to imply that we are a group of small independent principalities [such as the Balkan states] banded together for protection instead of being the great homogeneous nation we are. I. M. T.

THE POLICE WERE ABSENT.

Chicago, July 24.—Today there came walking down Halsted street near 63d a man with his wife and a 5 year old boy. The man, probably drunk or insane, slapped the little boy in the face so hard that the child was bleeding. The people around looked for an officer, but none was to be seen or found. Cannot a better patroling system be installed or must we be satisfied with an invisible police force in this section or a force loafing in the taverns? E. H.

MIGHT BE A REFRESHING CHANGE.

Hancock, Mich., July 23.—After listening to the sickening effusions of Aubrey Williams and Harry Hopkins, and after witnessing our Chief Executive trying first to destroy the independence of congress, next of the Supreme court, and now the freedom of the voters themselves by substituting his will for each:

I respectfully suggest that what we need in America is not new dealism but new idealism. F. J. C.

DOG OWNER FAVORS MUZZLES.

Chicago, July 26.—For more than sixty years I have owned good dogs as companions and I believe dogs in cities at all times when in public places should be muzzled. The fear of rabies—the danger to timid women and little children—would be greatly lessened. Owners would contribute to the comfort and safety of other people by using muzzles. A leash is a slight protection and costs about the same as a muzzle. C. B. D.

THE STRIKE AFTERMATH.

Chicago, July 25.—The strike at North Chicago is over and, as in other cases where the government sat in, criminal charges [if the judge agrees] are to be dropped against those who broke all law and order. Of course, these hoodlums will continue on, knowing that when strikes are settled they will be let off. It is positively rotten. W. L.

HOW TO CYCLE IN TRAFIC.

Chicago, July 25.—I am only 17, but I speak with authority when I say S. Kantor is all wrong about riding a bicycle on the left side of the street. In the first place riding against trafic makes too much difference in speed, which would not help matters, if the two vehicles connected. Another thing to keep in mind is that the driver has more time to spot a cyclist if he is going with the trafic than when he is going against it. It stands to reason that riding against trafic would also involve having many more passing cars, thus increasing the danger. EXPERIENCED CYCLIST.

KEEPING OFF RELIEF ROLLS.

Rockford, Ill., July 25.—Having read the splendid article in today's TRIBUNE about the Amish people in this country keeping entirely off the relief rolls I am led to call to your attention the latest book of the oriental commentator, Willard Price. In his "Children of the Rising Sun," recently published, he says none of the Japanese in California are on the relief rolls. He says, "A Japanese has too much self-respect to accept relief unless he must, and then only from his own family or clan, not from the general taxpayer." INTERESTED TAXPAYER.

AN OLD-FASHIONED PLATFORM.

Chicago, July 25.—Mr. O'Daniel's platform in the Texas election included the ten commandments and the golden rule, and he won with a policy as outmoded and out-of-date as that. He also promised to keep the professional politicians in their places and one or two of the President's "friends" were put there quickly. The results in Texas show that the ten commandments and the golden rule are two of the old "horse and buggy" ideas and "reactionary" things that are still working in the minds of the people. C.

A CLEAN FACE.

Chicago, July 25.—For ten years I have waited to see a vigorous organization spring up and take upon itself the thankless job of promoting the better aspects of Chicago.

Though of the "booster" type lampooned by Sinclair Lewis, Chicago's new century committee is doing a live wire job. Los Angeles has a wide awake promotional bureau; so has Miami. I'm happy that Chicago's clean face instead of its grimy neck is now being shown to the world! J. H. S.

NEEDS OF BURROUGHS SCHOOL.

Chicago, July 26.—Now that the government has granted millions to Chicago for schools, why not give some of the older school buildings some help?

The assembly hall of the Burroughs school is a disgrace. The children use the hall for indoor gym and all their assemblies. I don't believe this hall has been decorated for at least thirty years. The principal has applied for redecoration, but so far nothing has been done about it.

The top floor, consisting of four empty rooms and the assembly hall, could be torn down and a modern gym and assembly hall be built in the schoolyard.

Even though it is an old building, much credit is due the janitress and her helpers for keeping the school in shipshape. A MOTHER.

DEBT SECURED BY NOTE.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A formerly lived in Illinois and left the state owing B several months' house rent secured by a note. A has paid the stipulated sum per month on this note which has another month to run and must then be renewed for the balance due.

1. In case A refuses to sign a new note on account of other pressing needs for the money, can B, who lives in Illinois, garnishee the earnings of A, who now resides in Michigan?

2. Is there any way in which B can bring action against A, who owns no real estate and only a limited amount of household goods?

3. In case B should start suit against A and obtain judgment, could this judgment be enforced in Michigan if obtained in Illinois?

4. In case B should sue, would he likely do so in Illinois or in Michigan, where A now lives? H. B. M.

1. The creditor would be in a position to take judgment, after which he could reach assets or income in excess of exemptions.

2. Yes. If he wishes to force matters the first step would be to employ an attorney.

3. It is not clear that the Illinois court would have jurisdiction to enter a money judgment unless the landlord holds a lease containing a judgment clause. If a judgment could be recovered in Illinois it would be a basis for obtaining a Michigan judgment, but would not be self-operative in Michigan.

4. Unless there is a judgment clause the suit would be brought where process can be served on the defendant.

Ormandy Stirs Ravinia with Tschaikowsky

BY EDWARD BARRY.

If somebody were to render "Jingle Bells" with such a wealth of nuance that the most experienced "Jingle Bells" enthusiast came forward with the news that he had never really heard the piece before, the feat would be little more remarkable than the one which Eugene Ormandy performed at Ravinia park last night.

Beginning his fortnight as guest conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, this youthful director of the Philadelphia orchestra chose the Tschaikowsky Fifth Symphony as one of the three items of an all-Russian program. When the symphony was over the huge audience which perfect weather and the interest of Mr. Ormandy's debut had drawn to the north shore park broke into tumultuous applause and cheers.

How did he do it? How could he give a blasé audience the thrill of novelty with a work more familiar than "Home, Sweet Home?"

It would be great fun here to claim that Mr. Ormandy's personal mannerisms—his gestures and his rapt facial expressions—are of a piece with his performances, and that irresponsible showmanship and a willingness to throw in any sort of a vivid inflection for its own sake are the reasons for the terrific effectiveness of last night's Tschaikowsky.

But this is not true. This terrific effectiveness was the result of a careful restudy of the score. The unconventional tempi, the strange and almost bizarre colorings, those nervous and physically exciting progressions from pianissimo to fortissimo—in none of these could you put the finger of pedantry on the conductor and say dogmatically that the spirit of the music was violated and its flow gratuitously broken.

Certainly Mr. Ormandy knows the theatrical value of great orchestral masses and of cumulative rhythmic effects. He also revealed himself as a man with a new feeling for clarity of line. Even when his phrases threaten to tear your heart out with subtle rubatos and exquisite color differentiations, you do not lose entirely the sense that this phrase has flowed out of something which has gone before and that it will flow in turn into whatever is to come.

Other features of Mr. Ormandy's style which were displayed last night are the lucidity with which he treats the symphony's countermelodies and the careful preparation he gives each new episode which the flow of the work brings along. A fresh idea, or an evolution of a previous idea, steals in with a dramatic interest which is not conventional in every case but which is invariably great sport for the listener.

The Tschaikowsky symphony was preceded by Glinka's "Russian and Ludmilla" overture—played with immense verve and marked by an ironbound rhythmic line—and followed by the Lucien Cailliet transcription of Moussorgsky's "Picture at an Exposition." The brilliance of the latter piece, with its sonorous bell effects, brought more thunder around the director's head.

Except for the special Benny Goodman concert next Wednesday, Mr. Ormandy remains in charge through both of these final weeks of the Ravinia Festival.

AIRY GOWNS AND FURS

BY BETTY BROWNING.

It was ideal concert weather, meaning that it was warm enough to wear an airy net evening gown and cool enough to wear an ermine cape. Mrs. Frederick A. Preston, who was hostess to a party in her box, matched her gray squirrel cape with a flowing gray chiffon dress, offset by American Beauty roses and sash.

Not far away Miss Janet Fairbank looked equally comfortable in a red mosquito net cape over a print sports dress, with a red halo about her short locks.

Informality prevailed, however. There were at least a dozen sports dresses for every fur cape in evidence during the intermission. In the informal contingent were Miss Kay Goodman, wearing a fur collared tweed coat, and Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill II., whose brief white wool jacket with black braid trimming surmounted a red and white print sports frock. Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord effected a compromise with one of the new short sweaters, dark green, over her plaited white chiffon gown.

The Baroness Beck von Peccoz, charming in a white evening gown printed in an allover sprig design, was hostess to the junior John T. Piries, the Barrett Scudders, Durand Smith, and Winston Elting. Near by sat Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed and her brother-in-law, Charles H. Schweppe.

The James B. Forgans came with Mr. and Mrs. Mason Phelps, and the Rev. and Mrs. Oliver T. Brackett were with the Donald R. McLennans. Others present were Prince and Princess Rostislav, Mrs. John W. Gary, Ralph H. Poole, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, Dr. Theodore Proxmire, the George Voevodskys, Prince and Princess Nicholas Galitzine, the junior Charles S. Deweys, and Miss Sarah Hinde.

Bruce Borland President of Glenwood School Board

Bruce Borland yesterday was elected president of the board of the Glenwood Manual Training school. He succeeds N. C. Mather, president since 1928. Other officers elected were Philip F. W. Peck, vice president; Don M. Compton, secretary, and Walter B. Smith, treasurer. The school is in Glenwood, 25 miles south of Chicago. It has been in existence for 51 years. It is a farm-home school for dependent—not delinquent—boys.

Mrs. A. G. Atwater wears her lucky charms on chains around her neck—perhaps because she has too many to wear in the more conventional way, strung on bracelets. Mrs. Atwater has been seen at Arlington Park almost daily during the racing season, which closes tomorrow. The Post and Paddock will be crowded with luncheon parties today as it will be tomorrow, when the Arlington Futurity is to be the featured race.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Insomnia is a total stranger to us, thank you. It's emerging from the deep sleep of the clear-conscienced that is our daily trial. But it seems that the world is practically overrun with people who can't sleep well, who're disturbed by light, striking clocks, and a thousand and one other things.

If it's the light that bothers you something can be done about it. In an optical department you'll find a sleep shade that shuts out every smidge of light but does not make you nervous or uncomfortable. It's made of stiff cloth in black, but is lined with down so it doesn't feel like a dead weight. People who use it tell us it is not hot, either. We were surprised to learn that there is a consistent demand for these sleep shades but that few people know where to find them.

If it's light that keeps you from dropping off to sleep try one of these. They're not expensive.

Not to keep the light out of your eyes but to give those eyes some life is another product we had to look up for one of our clients the other day. It seems that lots of people are having trouble with eyelashes dropping out these days. Being out in the sun and wind probably has something to do with it.

If you've sparse lashes you should look up a little product that encourages their growth and their good health. It's a rich, rich cream, dark in color, that should be smoothed on the lashes during the day and always before you go to bed at night. Be consistent about its use and your lashes will improve in length and glory.

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, July 28.—The early letters of George Bernard Shaw, the playwright, revealing him as not always sure of himself as he now appears to be, were sold at Sotheby's today.

The seventy letters were written from 1904 to 1927 to J. E. Vedrenne. Vedrenne and Granville Barker produced many of Shaw's most famous plays. The lot brought only $300.

"I'm in a condition of sullen desperation concerning 'Major Barbara,'" Shaw wrote in one letter.

Regarding "Captain Brassbound's Conversation," he confessed that "sometimes I think the play is no good."

The road showing of "Man and Superman" proved such a disappointment to Shaw that he wrote in 1908: "I came within an inch of suicide and murder. . . . I felt no further disposition to pursue the heartbreaking trade of playwright and I shall henceforth devote myself to the advancement of the human race as a politician and essayist."

A year later, in writing of "Misalliance," he said:

"The play is already longer than 'Getting Married,' and it has not got to the business yet. Nothing but endless patter. My bolt as a real playwright is shot."

The Housewife

If you're puzzling over the problem of draperies or bedspread, you'll be interested in some lovely material. It is fifty inches wide and we counted twenty-one colors. It's synthetic silk taffeta and not expensive.

The best features about this charming silk are that it tubs excellently and that it is sunfast. It has been tested in the laboratory and it was not found wanting. Also, it will not shrink.

Polish Works Are Featured at Grant Park

BY CECIL SMITH.

Polish folk music and folk dances occupied a central place in last night's Grant park concert, which was arranged for the particular enjoyment of Chicago's citizens of Polish extraction. Cavallo's Symphonic band, Peter Cavallo Sr., conductor, played the program.

Two Polish groups, the Polonia male chorus and a corps of eight folk dancers from the Polish Literary and Dramatic circle, displayed their talents in national items. Under the baton of Peter Cavallo Jr. the chorus sang two folk songs with band accompaniment. Zdzislaw Skubikowski, director of the Polish Singers' National alliance, led the group in an extended unaccompanied song. The special folk presentation ended with "Ostatni Mazur" ["The Last Mazur," traditionally sung and danced on the eve of battle], vigorously voiced by the chorus and danced with impromptu spirit by the eight dancers.

The list of music for band alone included Daci's march for symphonic band entitled "Trinacria Island" [Trinacria is a poetic name for Sicily], the overture to Rossini's "La Gazza Ladra," excerpts from Puccini's beautiful score of "Manon Lescaut," and items by Paderewski, Chopin, Wagner, Beethoven, Liszt, De Kontski, and Tschaikowsky.

Readers Respond as Hot Day Brings Urgent Calls to Free Ice Fund

Yesterday's sun beating down on the narrow, congested streets in Chicago's crowded areas brought dozens of emergency calls to the free ice fund. Ice for babies' milk, ice for preserving insulin for diabetics, ice for invalids' packs, and ice to guard the scanty green food supplies of the city's poor, these needs were repeated over and over again.

Face Haggard? Then Shun the Heavy Makeup

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If you are all worn out, doing your face over will help you feel revived. But if you are pale with fatigue or gray or almost green, you need a different makeup than when you are radiant with vitality and health.

In the effort to make your weary cheeks bloom, avoid the temptation to use an extra amount of rouge. Vivid coloring against a haggard background will only advertise your fatigue. It will make you look hard and artificial. No matter how carefully you apply it, it won't blend. It is likely to send you out into the world looking pretty ghastly.

Admit your face is at its worst. Splash it twenty times with cold water. This will stimulate the natural circulation and tone it up a bit. In fact, splashing your face twenty times with cold water is a wise rule for daily use. It is especially good if you are inclined to skin disorders.

Next rub in a good foundation cream and wipe it off with cleansing tissue. Then apply a mild lipstick and delicate coloring to your cheeks. A dab of rouge on the tips of your ears will increase the flush in your cheeks without giving you a garish look. Add a faint touch of rouge underneath the eyebrow at the far corners. It will bring out the brightness and color of your eyes. Don't forget to leave a film of cream on your eyelids. Attractive eyes will draw attention away from a weary face.

Since lines stand out when you are tired, use a darker powder, possibly with a rose tone to it. A tannish powder makes lines less conspicuous and draws attention away from the dead whiteness of fatigue. It also is a wise choice for the older woman.

In other words, if your face is weary, don't struggle in vain to ape vitality. Your skin can't live up to a brilliant makeup. The contrast will only make you look hectic and twice as tired. Go in for delicacy. Be fragile in your appeal.

To learn how to use rouge to bring out your best facial lines and to minimize less flattering ones, read "Makeup Magic," by Antoinette Donnelly, Chicago Tribune beauty editor. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. By postpaid mail, 7 cents.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Thoughts at 10,000 Feet.

Hollywood, Cal., July 27.—If a distinguished artist were seeking the typical American girl to set down on canvas he'd find her any day in the year 10,000 feet above sea level in any one of the flagships of American Airlines. The typical American girl is any one of the stewardesses on the transcontinental run, and, while I've never made the trip of any other air line, I imagine the stewardesses of TWA or United [if they use girls] are of the same high type.

Crisply attractive in their white linen uniforms and white linen overseas caps, these girls are a credit to the towns and states which produced the feminine counterparts of the Hugheses and Corrigans. Foreigners who travel the air lanes must be tremendously impressed by these American girls, because any nation is as great as its women and these competent youngsters hit a new high.

Six of these girls came aboard the plane at intervals on the round trip flight, for three fresh crews handle the big liners from Hollywood to New York. All of them were movie fans. "Test Pilot" was the favorite picture of them all. They liked Gable. He caught the spirit, they said, of the big fellows who pilot the transcontinentals.

They asked questions about this star and that, most of whom they've seen at close range on the planes. To a girl, they thumbed down Norma Shearer for the rôle of Scarlett O'Hara, on the grounds that she was too charming to play the part. I told them that I'd express their opinions to Miss Shearer when I interviewed her this week, to buttress my argument that she should decline what must be a thankless part.

Up in the air lanes, with the powder of stardust for trails and the Man in the Moon as a kindly sentinel, you find movie fans. On the trip east 13 year old Mary Ryan and 14 year old Ann Hardin were asking about Tyrone Power, Gable, Richard Greene, Deanna Durbin, Sonja Henie, and the rest of them.

The 13 year old Mary Ryan of Louisville, Ky., the day previous had cracked the sporting page headlines by finishing second to Katherine Rawls Thompson in the mile race at the Santa Barbara pool. The 14 year old Hardin girl of New Albany, Ind., had finished second in the quarter mile against the greatest girl swimmers of the nation.

You might think that these youngsters would be so puffed up by their own exploits and their own considerable publicity that they wouldn't be interested in the movie stars, but that's all they talked about.

"Was Deanna Durbin spoiled?" as some one had told them. "Was Robert Taylor going to marry Barbara Stanwyck?" . . . "Was Hedy Lamarr as gorgeous off the screen as she was in the trailers of Algiers?"

They'd been to Warners' for lunch before taking the plane. On a commissary menu they had autographs of Wayne Morris, Priscilla Lane, John Payne, Bette Davis, and others. I commented on the fact that they had hardly any southern drawl, but that all southern girls in the movies had terrific drawls, and they became hilarious: "The girls try to live up to the northern impression," they explained. They went off into giggles at this again.

On the return trip, in the skies above Philadelphia, a blaze of light five thousand feet below, a rather unusual coincidence was worked out. One of the passengers, reading Jimmy Powers' sport column, suddenly became excited. He leaned across the aile to Johnny Dundee and pointed to an item: Fifteen years ago Johnny Dundee won the world's featherweight championship from Eugene [Shattered Jaw] Criqui."

Dundee's eyes lighted up at the prod to memory. He pulled out his watch and it was exactly 11 o'clock. "Almost to the minute," reflected the Scotch Wop. "At 11 I was in my dressing room under the Polo Grounds with the championship."

On the return trip, the last lap of it, Pilot J. G. Ingram and his partner came aboard to fly the ship from El Paso to Glendale. Ingram brought a sparkle that the trip otherwise might have lacked.

Every hour or so the stewardess hands out a bulletin slip to the passengers giving the position of the plane, the next airport, the air speed, the ground speed, the weather forecast, etc. On the bottom of this slip the pilot or co-pilot expresses some general observations under the general heading of "Remarks." These usually are terse, clipped messages.

Miss Dorothy Counselman to Forgo Debut

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE latest revision of the 1938-39 debutante list omits the name of Miss Dorothy Counselman, daughter of Mrs. Hopewell L. Rogers. Miss Counselman definitly is not making a debut next winter. She will return to Bryn Mawr college in the fall to concentrate on philosophy and literary work.

There are one or two young women every year who decline a formal introduction to society in favor of travel or study or some occupation other than simply having a good time for six months. Many who do come out combine the gay season with their studies at college; and most of those who stay at home for the entire season resume their studies or travels after the first of the year, or engage in a career.

Miss Counselman will be missing at all of the autumn parties, but she probably will be here to take part in Christmastime festivities. She and Mr. and Mrs. Rogers are at their summer home on Nantucket Island now. Miss Counselman will go from Nantucket directly to Bryn Mawr.

Miss Counselman to Visit Saratoga.

Now visiting Mr. and Mrs. Rogers is Miss Joan Peabody of Philadelphia, who is to be Miss Counselman's roommate at Bryn Mawr this fall. On Monday Miss Peabody and Miss Counselman will go to Saratoga, N. Y., for the horse racing season. They will be guests of the former's cousin, P. A. B. Widener of Philadelphia. The Walter Schuttlers of Wheaton already are at Saratoga for the races; they will be at their Saratoga Springs home until the end of August.

Also summering at Nantucket is Miss Molly Hill, whose name is included on the debutante list. She is a daughter of the Cyrus G. Hills. Her debut will take place in December, but the plans for the party are not complete.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Only true baseball fans such as my young guests of yesterday could sit through nineteen innings of baseball and be eager for more. The scores were disappointing, but the weather was perfect and we had marvelous seats, boxes near the home plate, thanks to Mr. Comiskey.

Both games were full of action, and the first one was most exciting. When it went into the 10th inning 100 boys and girls screamed with delight.

With plenty of ice cream and popcorn and other good things to eat, we cheered and kept score and enjoyed closeup views of a number of famous baseball players.

Several of the balls were obliging enough to come in our direction and were grabbed by the youngsters.

Park Ceremony Honors Havlicek, Czech Patriot

More than 1,000 Chicagoans of Czechoslovakian descent gathered last night in Douglas park to honor Karel Havlicek, Czech patriot, on the 80th anniversary of his death. Havlicek, who died in prison in 1858, was a member of the Austrian parliament. He was an uncompromising opponent of the Hapsburg monarchy, and constantly urged independence for the Czech nation.

Writer Lists Summer Books for All Ages

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

You may not have a list of good books at hand, you may not want to wait to get one, but with the hot days here you may wish you knew some pretty sure-fire books for your children, especially if your children are of assorted ages. I have made a collection for summer reading for various ages which you may have now, on the spot.

"The Choosing Book," by Alice Dalgleish, published by Macmillan company of New York, N. Y. This is a simple little story book for the littlest child.

"Timothy's Shoes," by Juliana Horatio Ewing, published by Macmillan company of New York, N. Y. A collection of three little stories.

"The Pet Elephant," by James Hill, published by Macmillan company of New York, N. Y. Imagine having an elephant for a pet!

"Sammy and Silverband," by Janet Miller, published by Houghton Mifflin of New York, N. Y. A story of a little boy's life on the edge of the jungle.

One of the most interesting of the historical juvenile books is "The Master of Mount Vernon," by Belle Moses. It is published by Appleton-Century of New York, N. Y.

Another such book is "Stonewall," by Julia Davis Adams. It is published by E. P. Dutton of New York, N. Y., for those boys in their teens, or perhaps younger, who are interested in the civil war.

"Mississippi River Boy," by Edwin L. Sabin, published by J. B. Lippincott of New York, N. Y. A lusty tale of a boy's adventures on the blue Ohio and the muddy Mississippi.

"Susanna and Tristram," by Marjorie Hill Allee, published by Houghton Mifflin of New York, N. Y. A well written and interesting story of the early '50s revolving around the famous "underground railway" in Cincinnati.

"Lazaro in the Pueblos," by Cornelia J. Cannon, published by Houghton Mifflin of New York, N. Y. To those boys and girls who like stories of adventure Mrs. Cannon's book will have its appeal. It is the story of a Spanish boy of the 16th century.

"How It Happened—Myths and Folk Tales," retold by Rhoda Power, published by Houghton Mifflin of New York, N. Y. A collection of folk tales and myths beautifully retold by Rhoda Power. Little children will enjoy these tales, though like many myths many of them are sad.

"The Little House in Green Valley," by Clara Whitehill Hunt, published by Houghton Mifflin of New York, N. Y. The story of a summer two city children spent in a little house in a valley that was left to them. A simply told tale, based on all the little adventures the country affords.

"Mountains Are Free," by Julia Davis Adams, published by E. P. Dutton of New York, N. Y. The story of Switzerland's fight for independence.

"The Right to Solo," by Ramon Kessler, published by E. P. Dutton of New York, N. Y. The desire of our youthful "air-minded" enthusiasts for good stories on aviation is fulfilled in the book.

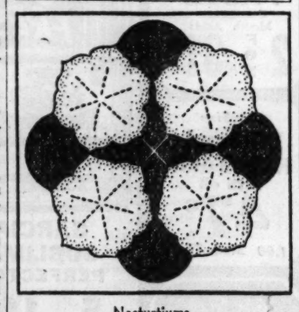
TODAY'S QUILT



Nasturtiums.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Peasant Styling Still Favored

FROCK IN JUNIOR SIZES.

The Tyrolean influence still is making itself felt in fashions. To finish the season we suggest this peasant style frock with voluminous skirt and snug laced waistline. For the neckline you may use lacing or a collar. The sleeves are puffed squarely from the shoulders. This dress is particularly effective in sheers, the light summery kind. Warm weather is by no means behind us. You still will have plenty of use for a sheer frock. If you're looking ahead to fall, particularly to school days, keep in mind that this pattern makes up beautifully in silks and sheer woolens.

We have an unusual embroidery pattern to suggest today. It consists of a peasant figure motif which you may apply to the wide belt and of a bag to match. These articles are simple to make with pattern No. E-11183, available for ten cents extra.

Style No. 3436 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 2⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with 3 yards of ribbon for lacing.

CLOTILDE PATTERNS ARE 10 CENTS EACH

Beau with Flat Purse May Be Rich Tomorrow

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Dateless evenings. We are presenting the boys' side of the problem today. Often the girls are likely to think they are the only ones who are lonely. But listen to Don's plea.

"The trouble with girls is that they look for fellows who are good looking and who have good jobs, so they can take them to nice places. This type of fellow is used to getting the kind of girl who will do anything for a good time.

"Where do we fellows who are not so handsome and have not much money to spend on girls stand a chance? We have not been around so much. All we expect of a girl is an enjoyable evening, going to a neighborhood movie, with a soda or ice cream after the show.

"We are really nice company if the girls would give us half a chance to prove it. They snub us and won't give us a tumble."

How about it, girls? Maybe you demand too much. In your romantic longing for a man as handsome as a movie hero, you are overlooking plainer but much more considerate chaps. All the girls at school may be crazy about Frank, but he may be spoiled by all that attention. He probably isn't half as much fun as a quieter boy like Don.

Night clubs and expensive cars may be exciting, but you have years ahead in which to enjoy them. When you are old and blasé, maybe you will need them to keep life from seeming tame. But when you are young and full of vitality, a movie and a soda can make a perfect evening, especially with a thoughtful and congenial boy. Romance doesn't need a heavy pocketbook.

Look around you, girls who complain about your lack of dates. Perhaps you're shutting your eyes to opportunities and that nice boy who drives a delivery wagon.

Just because a young man has a humble job now doesn't mean he'll be poor always. He may be a millionaire some day. At least, he'll be a good companion. You could sit at home forever, waiting for a man who is rich, handsome, congenial, young, brilliant, sympathetic and devoted only to you.

Seeing Eye to Open Chicago Office in Fall; Plans for Expansion

The Seeing Eye organization, which trains dogs to guide the blind, will establish an office in Chicago next fall. Samuel S. Holmes, Chicago attorney, who is chairman of the Chicago committee, announced that a full time representative would direct extension and educational activities and fund raising efforts.

Six blind persons in the Chicago area are now guided by Seeing Eye dogs. Mr. Holmes' daughter, Alice, 17 years old, acquired Patsy as her guide during the last year.

The Seeing Eye at Morristown, N. J., has as an objective the training of 200 dogs a year. At present about 85 are being made available each year. While it takes three months to train a dog it takes about three years to develop a dog trainer.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Match-point duplicate players are called upon to make much closer decisions than are required at rubber bridge. At the latter game a broad policy of safety is a winning one. Thus, if vulnerable opponents bid a slam and you cannot be sure whether or not you can defeat it but can be sure that a sacrifice bid by you will not be costly, it is quite logical to take the sacrifice. Perhaps you will lose 100 points, whereas the opponents would have lost 100 or 200 points at their contract. Put this is not nearly as important as the possibility that they might have gained 1,500 points by your refusal to go down one trick. At match-point duplicate "safety first" policy is not effective. There you must strive for the best theoretical results. If, as it turns out, the opponents cannot make their contract, it probably will be fatal for you to take a needless sacrifice. Note how this works out in a situation such as that shown below:

East dealer.
East-West vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	2 diamonds	?

Under the vulnerability conditions West has a very difficult decision to make when South overcalls with two diamonds. The trouble is that West must decide, then and there, whether there is a game in the hand for himself and partner. Because if there isn't, he must not lose the opportunity to double two diamonds. With an original heart bid by East, and a two diamond overcall by South, West cannot expect any further bidding from the opponents, his own strength making such a contingency improbable. West can certainly expect to defeat a two diamond contract two tricks [300 points] and if his side can make no game these 300 points will be immeasurably superior to any part-score that can be attained. If East-West were not vulnerable, the justifiable hope of defeating the opponents 500 points would make a double highly attractive because, even if a game were in the hand for East-West, it would not count that much.

The vulnerability of East-West, however, makes the decision a split-hair one. West must be haunted by the fear that, in doubling and accepting a penalty of 300 or 500 points, he is abandoning a possible 600 odd points. Yet, for good and sound reasons, the double is the best choice. Surely West cannot pass. If he bids, he must choose between two hearts and two no trump, and neither is quite satisfactory. Two hearts, the strongest free raise West dare give, may not be strong enough to encourage East to bid again; two no trump may go wrong because of the lack of a spade stopper.

There is one other important factor: if West doubles he does not conclusively abandon all chance for game because East may choose to take out the double. But contrariwise, if West bids, he abandons all chance for a double. In the final analysis, it is this consideration that should induce West to double, rather than bid.

started off breezily: "Well, we finally got out of Texas. In a few minutes we will pass Columbus, which was raided by Pancho Villa in 1916. We are now over New Mexico, with old Mexico just a few miles to the south. The Mexican state on our left is Chihuahua [pronounced she-wah-wah], where those little hairless dogs are raised."

Leaving Phoenix, he wrote: "It will be nice and cool in a few minutes at 10,000 feet. People actually live on the desert stretched out below, who I don't know. They are mostly homesteaders, hoping, I suppose, that the waters of the Colorado will be used to irrigate this arid land some day."

MISSING LIQUOR BOOKS SEIZED IN SALES TAX PROBE

Investigators for the state finance department found something yesterday they had been looking for since July 9—the books of the United Liquor Stores, Inc. The records, from 1933 to 1936, were tucked beneath the arm of Rocco de Stefano Jr., president of the company, who was strolling along Van Buren street not far from the new postoffice building. De Stefano has been under surveillance for several weeks.

De Stefano, who lives at 8000 Langley avenue, has been at liberty on $3,500 bond. He was arrested July 9, charged with conspiracy to defraud and filing a fraudulent tax return in connection with an alleged failure to pay the state $14,000 in sales taxes for the fifteen months ending last April. Pasquale Trella, 5046 Federal street, general manager of the ten-store chain, was similarly charged.

Auditors to Inspect Books.

The estimate of the shortage was based on an examination of the company's books for 1937-'38. Robert M. Stowers, head of the Chicago office of the state finance department, assigned four auditors to inspect the books seized yesterday. Investigators said the total amount owed the state might be as much as $60,000.

After questioning by Investigator Gus Bartels and Thomas J. Bugan, special attorney for the finance department, De Stefano was released, without his books.

Bartels said he is still seeking Joseph Fusco as one of the founders of the company. Fusco is a former beer handler for the Capone gang. Another onetime Capone mobster, Ralph Buglio, who Bartels said worked with Fusco in starting the business, was questioned recently but released.

Add State Sales Tax.

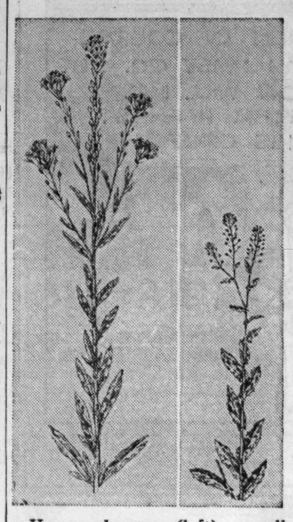
E. G. Ackerman, executive secretary of the Illinois Retail Liquor Package Stores association, announced yesterday that customers henceforth are to be charged an additional 3 per cent for sales tax.

The dealers had been absorbing the tax, pending a decision in a suit brought by 1,200 dealers who maintained an additional tax on liquor was unlawful. Legality of the state sales tax on liquor was recently upheld by the state Supreme court.

SENATE SECRETARY OPERATED ON.

Alfred E. Eden of Springfield, secretary of the state senate, underwent an abdominal operation yesterday in St. Luke's hospital. His condition was reported as good.

New Midwest Weeds



Hoary alyssum (left), usually about 2 feet tall, found in Michigan, and the hoary cress, about 1 foot high, found in Illinois. Farmers are warned to destroy these weeds.

J. H. Lloyd, state director of agriculture, announced in Springfield yesterday that he has received warning from Michigan concerning a new weed pest, hoary alyssum. The weed already is a menace in Michigan and threatens to spread, causing trouble in alfalfa, clover, and other hay crops.

Lloyd, who is head of the state weed advisory committee, promptly began broadcasing among Illinois farmers a warning against the new pest.

The new weed is related to hoary cress, which has begun to show up in a few places in Illinois. Members of the state weed committee have warned farmers against the danger of hoary cress spreading. Both hoary alyssum and cress are classified roughly as members of the mustard family.

Farmers are urged to make thorough inspections of their farms during the weed destruction days, Aug. 1 to 15, designated in a proclamation issued by Gov. Horner in connection with the state-wide control campaign against ragweed and other undesirable plants.

City Employe Gets Six Months in Alimony Cell

Hugh McCarthy, a city license inspector, was sentenced to six months in alimony row at the county jail yesterday. Judge Oscar Nelson held him $2,012 in arrears to his former wife, Mrs. Margaret Connery, for support of their daughter, Margaret, 18 years old. McCarthy lives at 4907 North Kimball avenue.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Summer's Reflection.

July 28, 1938.

YELLOW in the grain fields and red and purple along the fence rows tell the outdoor fan that this week on the farm truly is one which reflects the season quite accurately. We had only to look at the ripening oats in some fields which have had their green replaced by a yellowish brown and to see the bright red berries of the sumac and the vivid purple of the bergamot to realize that it's late summer. Nature will be busy from now on ripening the growing fruits on trees and shrubs and finishing her work with crops in the fields.

There are tassels on the corn . . . on the pear trees the fruit already is ripening fast . . . wild cherry trees show signs of the fruit crop which they will bear a little later in the season . . . sumac bushes are displaying their red berry clusters . . . and men are oiling up the combine as they look ahead to the time when this machine will rumble over the oat fields.

Oats Must Wait.

Although the oats are a golden yellow, they won't be cut right away. One of the men on the farm was telling us yesterday about the old saying concerning the correct time to cut the oats. He said that when the grain is yellow and appears to be ripe for the combine it's a wise idea to forget it for two weeks and then when you start on the harvest it's just about right. Such being the case, the boys who were working on the combine this week will have plenty of time to get the machine in shape. When we stopped by to see what they were doing we found them surrounded by grease guns and buckets of grease which they were using in the course of their inspection of the big combine.

The first sunflowers in the test plots appeared this week, which means that one of the most attractive and colorful displays of color is about to get under way on the farm. Two plants jumped the gun in the sunflower blossoming contest by opening their flowers early in the week. Others appeared later in the week and the rest are on the way.

A Raid by Rats.

There was a lot of commotion in the game bird colony on the Tribune's Du Page county farm one night this week when rats invaded the game bird coops. Some of the farm residents were awakened by the cackling of the bantam hens which are looking after the pheasants, quail, and partridges. One of the men immediately went out to see what was bothering the birds. He found that the rats had invaded one of the coops, killing a ringneck pheasant chick and chasing the bantam to the top of her coop. It was the first time this season that rats had bothered the game birds or bantams. The coops have wire bottoms as a protection against them.

As a precaution against further raids by rats the men have prepared baits made with red squill powder. Red squill kills rodents, but will not harm the chickens or game birds. Nor is it a menace to farm stock. The squill powder was used as the filler in bread and lard sandwiches. Although this combination doesn't sound very appetizing, it is considered quite a treat by rats and mice.

Thin slices of bread are spread lightly with lard. Then the squill powder is dusted over these slices, which are placed together like you make a picnic sandwich. The final step in the preparation of the baits is to cut the sandwiches in small squares.

A number of baits made in this manner were placed in the game bird yard under a small metal tank which the rats apparently have been using for a hangout. Additional squill appetizers were distributed in a small kennel building near by, which is another place frequented by the rodents.

ALL-AMERICAN BACK FIELD HAS PERFECT BALANCE

STARTING FOUR WORTHY FOES FOR REDSKINS

Replacements Also Are Versatile.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Washington's Redskins, who will meet the All-Americans in Soldiers' field Aug. 31, should consider carefully the caliber of the collegiate squad. The professional champions will face a starting team that is better balanced than any in the five year history of the annual contest, and which probably will have better support from the list of substitutes.

Washington has its Sammy Baugh, and an exceptional defensive line. But if the Redskins now are extremely confident of victory, Owner George Marshall might require them to memorize the list of collegiate stars the fans of the nation have elected to All-American honors.

The collegiate backfield that will start the game against Washington will have Andy Puplis of Notre Dame at quarter back, Andy Uram of Minnesota at left half, Cecil Isbell of Purdue at right half, and Frank Patrick of Pittsburgh at full back. No one who saw these men in action last fall needs to be told that together they form a splendid offensive quartet. And each of them played three years in college.

Can Play Half, Too.

Puplis was so valuable at quarter back that he was kept as field general on the Natre Dame team, although he proved frequently that he could play left half, the strategic ball carrying position in the Irish system of attack. Puplis, in pass catching, punt handling, as well as his generalship, leaves nothing to be desired.

Puplis also is an efficient blocker. All Notre Dame quarter backs, and you can call the list for the last twenty years and remember Harry Stuhldreher and Frank Carideo have known how to block. Then, there is Fred Vanzo, of Northwestern, rated one of the greatest blockers in the Big Ten, who will be waiting to show how he blocks, when and if Puplis leaves the game.

Speed, shiftiness, and ability to pass characterize the half backs, Uram and Isbell. Moreover, Isbell showed last year that he can play right half back as easily as he formerly played left half. Until Uram was injured last fall he was headed for his greatest season. But long before that Andy had played winning football for the Gophers, and no one can question his right to start against Washington.

Patrick Is a Kicker.

In addition to outstanding ability as a line smasher and blocker, Frank Patrick also is a kicker. He doesn't always get extraordinary distance, but he is accurate and gets his kicks away speedily. But Patrick won't necessarily have the entire burden of kicking. Isbell is satisfactory in the first lineup, and if you're looking for a long distance kicker there's Ray King, the Minnesota end, who handled this assignment when the Gophers wanted extra distance.

The brief mention of Vanzo and King by no means exhausts the extraordinary talent which will be ready to convince the coaching staf it should be used against the Redskins.

How about Frank Filchock of Indiana and Jack Robbins of Arkansas for passers? Both are quarter backs. And there are two others listed as quarter backs, Vic Spadaccini of Minnesota and Jim McDonald of Ohio State, who until last year played full back. McDonald was so valuable to the Buckeyes he was shifted to quarter back and directed the team. So did Spadaccini at Minnesota.

Northwestern's Don Heap, a triple threat half back; Detroit's Andy Farkas, who helped Detroit roll up the 1937 collegiate scoring record; Princeton's Jack White and Minnesota's Rudy Gmitro, who played either half back position last year, are cer-

Girl Swims On in 35 Mile Effort; Six Miles from Goal

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 28.—A 20 year old Danish girl stroked tirelessly tonight through the waters of the Baltic sea, less than six miles from her goal on a 35 mile swim to the German coast from the southern tip of Denmark. "I am not a bit tired and I am going to get there," the plucky young swimmer, Jenny Kammersgaard, declared after twenty-six hours in the water. She started from Gedser, Denmark, and expected to reach Warnemuende, Germany.

Scrivani Faces Veteran in Los Angeles Tonight

Los Angeles, Cal., July 28.—[Specail.]—Andy Scrivani, Chicago lightweight, will get a test against an experienced puncher when he boxes Georgie Hansford in Gilmore stadium tomorrow night. Scrivani is undefeated in twenty-one fights. When he defeated Jimmy Vaughn by a bigger margin than Champion Lou Ambers did, Manager George Blake said Scrivani is ready for the best.

THINGUMABOB IS MADE FAVORITE FOR FUTURITY

Turns in Fast Trial on Muddy Track.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A horse with a name that sounds a lot like a case of amnesia—Thingumabob—is the one that most of those in the Futurity day crowd at Arlington Park may be cheering for tomorrow afternoon.

That he will be the favorite was made evident yesterday morning when he turned in the most sensational trial of the Futurity training period on the Arlington Park course.

Apparently as much at home in this going as he is over a fast track, he splashed mud in all directions while he breezed a half mile in the spectacular muddy track time of 48 seconds. He had stepped the first quarter in :22 2-5 and the three-eighths in 35 seconds.

Railbirds Are Amazed.

The railbirds were amazed at this display of muddy track speed, for some one had spread the report that Thingumabob did not like to run on an off track. Evidently he does. And this is how he runs on a fast track. Just before he was shipped west he scored a victory on one by the wide margin of six lengths.

So, that call from the stands and lawns when the stretch run of the Futurity starts may be a strange sounding one. It's a tongue twister if you are the least excited. And who isn't when the stretch run of a $50,000 race begins?

"Come on Thingumabob."

Shout it yourself about five times in quick succession all the while imagining that you have a fist full of tickets on Thingumabob.

Decide on Thingumabob.

Thingumabob is a son of Boojum-Refine. Folks on the Whitney farm always found it difficult to remember Boojum's name. So, when this son which looks so much like him, came along they decided that Thingumabob was an appropriate name for him.

Later on in the morning Equilibrium, stable companion of Thingumabob went five-eighths of a mile in 1:03 handily. This work was not as impressive as that of Thingumabob. Hal Price Headley's colt, Hants, went a half in :54, but was hard held all the way.

Eddie Arcaro and Jack Westrope will ride Thingumabob and Equilibrium in the Futurity. That is another reason for the entry receiving heavy support in the early betting.

Futurity Field Takes Shape.

Horse—	Owner.
Thingumabob	Mrs. Charles S. Payson
Equilibrium	Greentree stable
Hants	Hal Price Headley
Mr. Major	Hal Price Headley
Up the Creek	Mrs. Ethel V. Mars
On Location	Mrs. Ethel V. Mars
No Competition	Mrs. Ethel V. Mars
Unerring	Herbert G. Woolf
Technician	Herbert G. Woolf
Total Eclipse	Charles H. Ainsworth
Lightspur	John Marsch
Allegro	Dixiana stable
All Time High	Dixiana stable

The only doubtful starter is Mr. Headley's colt, Mr. Major.

A Bit of Fast Action by a Pair of Joes

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

THIRTEEN year old Buddy Potts of Philadelphia wants to know, "Who is this guy Vander Meer?" . . . Buddy pitched no-hit, no-run games on successive days for his Disston nine. . . . He'd have made it three in a row, but the Disstons' opponents didn't show up Wednesday. . . . Mush March, right wing for the Chicago Blackhawks, is the golf professional at Valparaiso, Ind., Country club. . . . Cy Perkins, Mickey Cochrane's assistant at Detroit, is on a scouting trip through the Three-Eye league. . . . Philip K. Wrigley assumed the presidency of the Cubs only after offering it to Vice President-Treasurer Charles Weber and getting a refusal. . . . Thirty-nine states and the District of Columbia are represented on the All-Star football squad. . . . The internal revenue department is attempting to tax back salaries Joe Triner and the late George Getz received for their services on the Illinois Athletic commission. . . . Elmer Layden has collaborated with his back field coach, Chet Grant, on an article about quarter back play which will appear in a national magazine this fall. . . . Grant was Notre Dame's quarter back in 1916, 1920, and 1921. . . . He served in the army after his sophomore year. . . . Chuck Purvis, a native of Georgia, regarded as an important prospect for the Illinois back field, is a distant relative of the Purdue Purvises. . . . He won a football letter at Purdue before transferring to Illinois. . . .

Buddy Myer, Washington second baseman, and Lou Gehrig of the Yankees have carried on a feud for six years, during which time they never have spoken to each other. . . . Pronunciation of the name Lou Tsoutsouvas, former Stanford center who will play for the Cleveland Rams this season, isn't as hard as it looks. . . . Just say "Choo-choo-vas" and you'll have it. . . . Sam Snead, winner of the Chicago open golf tournament, says the average golfer does not hit the ball under the same conditions while practicing as he does while playing a round of golf. . . . He means that when you are on the course and have a wager on the game you have a certain object and distance in mind which causes you to tighten up. . . . While practicing most players loosen up and just swing at the ball. . . . This is Snead's tip: "When you are practicing tighten up and make a little bet with yourself while shooting at an object or for a certain distance."

Have You Ever Noticed?

Two outs—three and two count—the deciding run on third. The pitcher winds up and heaves his fast one. The batter leans into it. Smack! He fouls one into the stands. Can't something be done about it? —Maurie O.

Frustration.

If one could only learn what lies
Within another person's eyes . . .
We often guess, but never know—
At least while we are here below.

Sometimes a glance can tell a tale
Where words alone will often fail;
The eyes may smile, and then a look
Can change it all and close the book.

If one could only learn what lies
Within another person's eyes;
But would we then be satisfied
Or find it best to be denied?

Bert Collyer, Veteran Turf Publisher, Dies

Bert E. Collyer, veteran turf writer, race handicapper, and publisher of Collyer's Eye, died in Chicago Memorial hospital, 33d street and Lake Park avenue, at 7:50 last night following an extended illness.

Mr. Collyer was born in Durham, Ont., Sept. 6, 1876, and he came to Chicago in 1905. After several years in the sports department of the Evening American he established his own publishing and sports information service business at 300 West Adams street. He had published the Eye, widely known among horse race fans, for about twenty-five years.

Was Gentleman Rider.

The body will remain in the chapel at 1820 South Michigan avenue until 4 o'clock tomorrow. Burial will be in Guelph, Ont. Survivors are the widow, Mrs. Frances J. Collyer; a brother, Lally, of Covington, Ky., and two sisters, Mrs. Eva Elz and Mrs. Mildred Hendy, both of Guelph.

Mr. Collyer had owned many horses, both jumpers and runners, during his long connection with the turf and won recognition as a gentleman rider in Florida and along the eastern seaboard some twenty-five years ago.

In Alaska During Gold Rush.

His daily selections were syndicated and published in fifty newspapers in all parts of the country.

He was in Alaska during the gold rush days and is said to have attracted the attention of the Hearst newspapers first by filing an exclusive report of an avalanche in Chilkoot pass which resulted in sixty deaths.

PATE SELECTS 9 FOR AMERICAN DAVIS CUP SQUAD

New York, July 28.—(AP)—The fight for vacancies on the defending American Davis cup tennis team was narrowed today when Walter L. Pate, Davis cup captain, named nine players who will spend the balance of the season under his supervision and two others who are under consideration for the squad.

Bobby Riggs, Frankie Parker, Bryan Grant, Joe Hunt, Hal Surface, and Don McNeill, all members of the first ten, and Gil Hunt, Elwood Cooke, and Frank Kovacs make up the first group. The two others are Sidney Wood and Wilmer Allison, veterans.

FIVE RUN RALLY IN 10TH INNING DECIDES OPENER

Whitehead Fails in Second Battle.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox, whose first division hope will remain intact until the last mathematical chance has vanished, were somewhat unfortunate yesterday. They were whipped in the first game of a double-header with Boston's Red Sox, 13 to 8, but the finishing touch was delayed until the tenth inning. The Dykes employés also were whipped in the other half of the day's attraction, this time by 8 to 5.

The two engagements, reeled off before 12,000 spectators, were typical of two teams suffering from a shortage in the pitching department. In the first game the home Sox employed three, the last of whom was Frank Gabler, an unhappy experiment for Manager Dykes. The Red Sox required the services of four pitchers in the same battle. The other struggle was conducted with two mound workers apiece, Whitehead Is Second Victim.

The second game was settled early because of the defection of John Whitehead, but the first bore all the earmarks of a Chicago triumph until toward the close. The home Sox belted Jack Wilson sufficiently to give Jack Knott a 5 to 2 lead going into the eighth, whereupon he folded up and a rescue attempt by John Rigney was so futile that five runs scored. A homer by Lou Berger with one on put the White Sox back in a tie in the eighth, and they tied it again in the ninth after Joe Cronin had welcomed Gabler into the party with a homer. But Gabler didn't get through the tenth until seven hits had marched five runs across the counter.

Whitehead's demise might have been delayed in the second game if Joe Kuhel hadn't experienced a little trouble getting his hands around thrown balls. He lost one in the first inning, permitting Jim Foxx, who had opened the first game with his twenty-eighth homer of the year, to score. Whitehead yielded two more runs for which he was solely responsible in the second inning, but Kuhel erred again in the third and before Rigney could clean up four runs had scored.

FIRST GAME

The Red Sox started off in the first game with Foxx's twenty-eighth homer onto the left field roof but the home Sox came up with a pair of runs in their opening half. Wilson began his work by walking Berger, after which Steinbacher dropped a single in center. They were moved up a notch on Kreevich's bunt and Radcliff scored them by singling to center.

Because of Knott's tendency to aim away from the plate in the fourth the Boston fellows were able to enjoy a 2 to 2 tie for a limited period. The ex-Brownie walked Foxx and Cronin before any one was retired. Higgins singled to left and Foxx scored. Chapman sacrificed and Doerr was purposely passed, filling the bags with one out. Knott escaped on a couple of fly balls.

Wilson Misses Plate, Too.

Wilson also had control trouble in the fourth inning when the White Sox took a two run advantage. Owen and Kuhel led off with passes and Sewell sacrificed. In view of Knott's hitting strength, the bunt appeared to be a futile procedure but Knott made the strategy look perfect by singling to left, Owen and Kuhel scoring.

The White Sox made it 5 to 2 with another run in the fifth. Appling singled to right with one out but Owen forced him. Kuhel, who is somewhat delinquent as a hitter, let go with a two bagger down the right field line, Owen dashing around to the plate. Sewell slammed a swell liner to left but just before it reached the wall it curled foul by inches, so Luke went back for another swing and struck out.

After getting one batter out of the Kayak Clubs to Join in Aquatic Carnival.

Did you ever see a kayak? And if you have, did you ever see one of those modern folding Eskimo canoes that you just carry around with you, put it together when you wish and paddle away?

One of the features of the water carnival Sunday afternoon in Diversey beach lagoon, Lincoln park, will be a demonstration of the utility of this means of water transportation. The kayak clubs of Chicago, under the supervision of Carl Hofinger, have arranged for this part of the water carnival which is sponsored by the Chicago park district.

Other Interesting Events.

There will be other events, races and demonstrations. The Lincoln Park Boat club will have several of its shells in the water, singles, doubles, four and eight oared. The power boats will race and then they will shoot through the water with daring surf board riders, water skiers, and aquaplane stunt men riding their frail supports. Sea Scouts, outboard motorboat drivers, and the rainbow fleet of sail boats will contribute to the pageantry of the carnival.

This portion of the program will be divided so that some events will be held prior to the Chicagoland 100 yard free style swimming finals which are the ninth sponsored annually by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. At the conclusion of the ten championship races the remainder of the aquatic exhibitions will be held.

Bring Letter of Instruction.

All contestants in the 100 yard races, all of whom qualified last week in the four sectional meets, must report between 1:30 and 1:50 Sunday afternoon to the clerks of the course at the Diversey beach bathhouse. Each will be given his racing number which will be worn during the events. Each swimmer will be identified to the crowd by the amplifying system to be installed Sunday morning. This also will be used to describe the exhibitions and other races.

Each contestant has received a letter of instruction which must be presented to the clerks. The first of the semi-final races will start at 2 o'clock. The first championship race, that for boys 11 and 12 years of age, will start at 2:45.

All-American Back Field Has Balance

Davis Is a Great Full Back.

At full back there is Corby Davis of Indiana, outstanding in the Big Ten, who ran a close race with Patrick for the starting job. And word from the east is that Gary Famiglietti of Boston university is the type of line busting back any coach would cheer.

In particular, how does this year's starting lineup compare with the backfields that opened against the Chicago Bears, the Detroit Lions, and the Green Bay Packers? Here are those players:

Homer Griffith, Southern California, quarter back.
Beattie Feathers, Tennessee, half back.
Joe Laws, Iowa, half back.
Mike Mikulak, Oregon, full back.

1935.

Miller Munjas, Pittsburgh, quarter back.
Bill Shepherd, Western Maryland, half back.
Al Nichelini, St. Mary's, half back.
Stan Kostka, Minnesota, full back.

1936.

Riley Smith, Alabama, quarter back.
Bill Shakespeare, Notre Dame, half back.
Jay Berwanger, Chicago, half back.
Sheldon Beise, Minnesota, full back.

1937.

Vernon Huffman, Indiana, quarter back.
John Drake, Purdue, half back.
Bob La Rue, Pittsburgh, half back.
Sam Francis, Nebraska, full back.

The principal disadvantage of the 1936 back field was lack of a blocking back and the injury to Shakespeare's foot, which handicapped him in kicking. Because Berwanger started at left half, Shakespeare, who also played that position, had to learn the assignments for right half. Last year La Rue and Drake were blocking backs and it wasn't until the coaches decided to use Baugh as a triple threat half that the balance of the back field was restored.

There should be no such problem this year. The boys elected can be drilled as a unit and the coaches then can organize a second back field or decide to make individual substitutions.

WHATAGAL, away well but unable to keep up, rallied in the final quarter, was between horses in the last eighth and wore down ADORESS in the closing strides.

GOLD MESH followed the pace under a steady hold, rallied to only a mild urging after reaching the last three-sixteenths and, wearing down WITAN, drew out to score handily. WITAN, hustled into command and steadied on the turn, continued well under stout pressure thereafter but was not good enough.

STAR BUD, going to the wood from auto and with command gradually, rapidly increased his advantage after reaching the final quarter and, maintaining fine speed for the going to the end, held SANCTITY safe to win easily. SANCTITY, raced wide and taken back early, rallied when called upon but was allowed to swerve badly in the late stages.

SISTER POLLY, rated along for almost three-quarters, responded to punishment when entering the stretch but tired badly, was under constant pressure the final eighth and had little left. TOM'S LADY, a factor from the start, also faltered badly in the late stages but outstayed FLY TIME.

Time, 2:00. Track slow. Two dollar mutuels paid: Night Bandit, $23.20 straight, $10.20 place, $6.00 show; Boy Valet, $11.40 place, $6.00 show; Boiling Point, $3.20 show. Winner trained by E. Johnson. Went to post at 5:31. At post 2 minutes.

NIGHT BANDIT, quick to take command, rode the pace under steadying restraint, responded to urging after seven-eighths and, though tiring, lasted. BOY VALET, outrun for three-eighths, improved his position thereafter while saving ground and closed stoutly. BOILING POINT was never far back, and in hand for about three-quarters, held on well thereafter.

Battle Spread of Rabies in Minneapolis

BY BOB BECKER.

With the Chicago area still under a rabies quarantine and neighbor states not wanting Chicago owners to bring their pets with them when they cross state lines, local dog fanciers are apt to feel that they are the only ones chafing under restrictive measures which usually are applied during rabies outbreaks. But there are other cities that have found it necessary to establish control over dogs and their owners because of rabies. One of the most recent to battle this disease is Minneapolis. Since some dog owners even deny the existence of rabies [although Aristotle described the disease in 300 B. C.].

We asked C. P. Fitch, chief of the division of veterinary medicine of the University of Minnesota department of agriculture, to report to us on conditions in Minneapolis. He writes:

"The rabies situation in Minnesota is not a scare. It's an honest to goodness outbreak. This laboratory already has examined 55 positive cases and 64 negative cases. There hasn't been an outbreak of rabies of any consequence in Minnesota for 25 years.

Support Control Measures.

"The public press and the vast majority of the people of Minneapolis are supporting control measures. There is a small active minority that denies that rabies even exists.

"Rabies is a disease that can be easily controled provided the dog can be controled. We have been able to control it in Minnesota by active quarantine and careful supervision. It is, however, extremely difficult properly to enforce restraint and quarantine regulations of dogs. Vaccination is of value, but it is not alone, according to the experience of many localities, properly control the disease."

That many dog owners, especially those who breed dogs, keep them in kennels, and never let them run the streets, do not see cases of rabies [and even doubt that there is such a disease] may be understandable for several reasons. In the first place, rabies is not a very common disease. Secondly, a breeder or kennel owner doesn't let his dogs run the streets day and night where roving, homeless strays are a potent source of the disease.

Pamphlet May Be Obtained.

If dog owners want to read an excellent discussion of rabies, behavior of infected dogs, and other facts about the disease we recommend the pamphlet written by Dr. Robert Graham and G. L. Dunlap, both of the department of animal pathology and hygiene of the University of Illinois. Copies of the pamphlet may be obtained free by writing for circular No. 475, "Rabies," from the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.

HUBBELL REVIVES FAINTING GIANTS; BEATS CARDS, 2-1

Mel Ott Helps with 22d Home Run.

New York, July 28.—(AP)—Carl Hubbell put a stop to the Giants losing streak today. He yielded seven hits, pitched shutout ball for eight innings, and defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 2 to 1, to end the New Yorkers' five game string of defeats.

Hubbell, only Giant pitcher to go the route since July 10, turned in his 12th victory of the year in today's game. The victory left the Giants five games behind the leading Pirates. Mel Ott hit his 22d homer in the second inning.

Yanks Come to Town; Lee Seeks Revenge

The world champion Yankees will invade Comiskey park today for the first of a four game series, and Thornton Lee will endeavor to get even with them for beating him on two hits in New York last Sunday. Vernon Gomez, who worked against Lee last Sunday, will be his opponent.

When Owen slid over the plate in the fifth inning of the first game yesterday he twisted his right ankle. He finished the game, but begged off for the second battle. He may be forced to rest a couple of days. In his absence the place will be occupied by Manager Dykes, who yesterday assembled enough power to hit a homer off McKain in the second inning.

Jackie Hayes, the Sox second baseman who incurred a wrenched knee during the last eastern trip, is progressing nicely. His invalid equipment has been reduced to a cane and in about another week expects to get back into uniform.

Mike Kreevich went to the ground at full length in the second inning of yesterday's second game after returning Cramer's single to the infield. All his mates ran out to sympathize, but Doc Al Schacht, the trainer, finally arrived by taxi and discovered that Mike was merely the victim of a cramp in his right leg. A bit of massaging restored him to health.

Mills and Chicago Giants Play on Shewbridge Field

The Chicago Mills will play Joe Green's Chicago Giants tonight on Shewbridge field, 74th street and Aberdeen avenue, at 9 o'clock. Jim Turner of the Giants and Al Nusser will be the starting pitchers.

Boston Beats White Sox in Double Header

way in the eighth Knott experienced another of his wild streaks. He walked Cronin. Higgins singled to right. Knott got into the hole to Chapman and followed with the customary cripple. Chapman sent it into the left field lower deck for his fourth homer of the year and the score was tied at 5 apiece. Doerr beat out a bunt, whereupon Rigney supplanted Knott. The newcomer was welcomed by Peacock's single, Doerr taking third, Rigney fanned McNair, who battted for Midkiff, but Cramer singled to score Doerr and Vosmik singled to send Peacock home.

When the White Sox eighth opened a lad named Dickman was doing the pitching. He disposed of Walker, who batted for Sewell, but walked Rosenthal, who swung in place of Rigney. Berger then hoisted his season's second homer into the left field seats to tie the score.

Gabler Is Easy.

Gabler's rescue attempt in the ninth hadn't gone far before he was knocked out of the tie. His fourth pitch was slammed into the left field seats by Manager Cronin, who now has ten homers. Gabler was perfect for the remainder of the inning. Appling doubled to left on Bagby's first pitch in the home ninth. Owen was thrown out after a one-handed stop by Higgins, Appling taking third, whence he scored on Kuhel's fly to Chapman.

There wasn't much to the Red Sox tenth except base hits off Gabler, the National league's gift to Manager Dykes. Peacock led off with a triple and scored on Bagby's single. Cramer sacrificed and Vosmik singled. A double by Foxx scored two. Then Cronin singled, Higgins fanned, and Chapman and Doerr singled to complete Boston's second five run uprising.

SECOND GAME

Mr. Foxx wasn't quite as impressive at the start of the second game as he was in the first. This time he hit only a triple with two out and was assisted across the plate by Kuhel's dropping Appling's throw on Cronin's grounder. In the next inning Whitehead's real suffering got under way. Chapman walked, Doerr sacrificed and Desautels tripled. McKain also walked, after which Cramer singled to send home Desautels with the second run of the inning. Dykes restored one of these runs by belting a homer to left in the home half.

Kuhel was responsible for sending Whitehead to the clubhouse in the third when four Boston boys galloped across the plate. Kuhel dropped Appling's throw on Higgins, which should have been the second out. Whitehead got excited and passed Chapman, who, with Higgins, promptly worked a double steal. A low drive by Doerr bounced off third base for a single and the two runners went home. Desautels singled, so Whitehead was replaced by Rigney. McKain rolled into a forceout, but Cramer tripled past Kreevich, to score Doerr, making the count 7 to 1.

Sox Get Four in Fifth.

By coming up with four runs in the fifth the Sox got within reaching distance of their foes. Berger started this with a single to Cronin, and McKain assisted by passing Steinbacher. Kreevich dented the left field scoreboard with a triple, scoring the two men on base. Cronin relayed the throw to the plate and it went wild, so Kreevich also scored. Radcliff and Appling were set down, but Kuhel singled, and Dykes, out of respect for his homer and age, was given a pass. That was the end of McKain. Rensa singled off Midkiff and Kuhel scored. Rigney was thrown out by Higgins.

After the third, Rigney went along smoothly until after two were out in the seventh. Cramer and Vosmik then singled and Rigney gave passes to Foxx and Cronin, the last item forcing Cramer to score the eighth Boston run. Higgins tapped to Rigney for the third out.

CONFIDENT CUBS SEE NO TERRORS IN PHILLY SERIES

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 28.—The Cubs came over here from New York this afternoon and tomorrow Bill Lee will pitch in the opener of a four game series with the Phillies. The game tomorrow will be the first National league engagement the Cubs ever have played in Shibe park, in which the Phils were installed after abandoning their 51 year old home July 3.

The lads weren't especially ripsnortin' today, as they recalled last night's big blowup in the ninth in Brooklyn. The three run blast which was touched off while the Cubs were leading, 2 to 0, with one out in the final inning was much too reminiscent of a less hilarious era to give cheer until such time as a new winning streak can be fashioned.

In Second Place for a Time.

The fact that the Cubs were in second place yesterday from the time the Giants lost in the afternoon until the Chicagoans blew the Dodger affair along about 11 p. m., didn't add any merry touches to the Cubs. Though they will play the Phillies in a new setting, the series which opens tomorrow is being approached with a great deal of confidence. The Phillies have had their moments this year, as witness five victories over the Pirates [as compared with three for the Cubs over the Pirates] and six victories over the Cincinnati Reds. Few of these Philly moments were in Cub matches, however. The Cubs so far this season have whipped the Phils in eleven of twelve games.

The fact that the Giant series follows the one with the Phillies has not caused Manager Gabby Hartnett to pull any punches in anticipation of soft touches in Philadelphia. After opening with his ace, Lee, he will unleash Dizzy Dean for the second game. He still is uncertain about the double-header Sunday, but he expects to employ front line workmen, he says. There is a day off Monday, which will enable Hartnett to start Lee, Dean, and Clay Bryant in the Giant series. Tex Carleton expects to have his bum shoulder in shape to pitch in the Boston series.

A Point for Night Baseball.

A near capacity turnout in Brooklyn last night, the second night crowd in excess of 34,000 the Dodgers have had since they installed the lights, gave the synthetic sunshine racket greater impetus than ever and it was accepted hereabouts as positive evidence that the night idea will spread rapidly in the National league and possibly in the American, which has yet to stage its first night game in a championship session.

The St. Louis and Philadelphia clubs in both leagues, where one park in each city is used by both teams, and the Washington club are said to have been watching the Brooklyn and Cincinnati gates with avid interest.

BOWLING MEETINGS CALLED.

The Classic Bowling league has called two special meetings in the Congress hotel on Aug. 9 and 10 to select eight teams from Chicago's best bowlers to compete in an intercity tournament against Detroit's best eight teams.

BLUE RIBBON JURY TO HEAR TRIAL OF TAMMANY CHIEF

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—James J. Hines, Tammany district leader, will be tried by a jury picked from a special jury list known as "blue ribbon" jurors. Justice Ferdinand Pecora today ruled against his objections to the special panel. Hines goes on trial Aug. 15 as a member of the Arthur [Dutch Schultz] Flegenheimer policy lottery gang.

Hines also lost a further effort to have broadened still further the list of names of judicial officers and other officials he is charged with having intimdated, influenced, or bribed for the benefit of the policy violators. Justice Pecora originally had ruled that District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey must supply the names of the officers, but when Hines' attorneys today asked that the district attorney be required to specify which defendants approached the judges yet to be named, Justice Pecora said:

"If the district attorney wants to give all his evidence in advance of trial that is up to him. I shall not require it."

Mrs. Boone had obtained the pup for $10 from the dog shelter last month. Mrs. McLaughlin declared that she sent Miss Billingslea to get Duchess when she received complaints that the pup was being mistreated.

BANDIT WHO CUT TONGUES OUT OF WOMEN IS SLAIN

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 28.—(AP)—One eyed Lampeao, Brazil's "public enemy No. 1" and notorious bandit-killer, is dead.

Dispatches received today by the department of national telegraphs said the bandit, who committed murder and plundered Brazil's northeastern hinterland for twenty years, had been slain in a battle with police.

Eleven confederates and the sweetheart of the outlaw, nicknamed Lampeao [lamp post] because of his appearance, were killed in the bloody encounter. He was 38 years old. For years police of four states had tried to trap the swarthy, bespectacled dwarf sized killer.

The little brown man, who cut out the tongues of women for hasty words or lies and sometimes raided towns and forced the leading men and women to dance nude before him, was born Virgolino Ferreira da Silva.

Boy Bicyclist, 14, Named as Annoyer by 12 Women

A boy, 14 years old, was in custody of Warren avenue police last night, identified by more than a dozen women and girls as the bicycle rider who had annoyed them. He is Elmer Stelzeriede, 708 South Harding avenue. Police said he admitted the offenses. For weeks, they said, he has been touring the neighborhood on his bicycle, slapping women on the back and then speeding away. Today he will be taken to the sex offense bureau for questioning.

BETHLEHEM HAS SMALLER PROFIT IN 2D QUARTER

Loss Is Reported by Republic Steel.

The Bethlehem Steel corporation, second largest steel company, reported yesterday it had a profit of $150,305 for the second quarter of 1938. The Republic Steel corporation, third largest steel company, reported it had a loss of $2,856,317 for the same period.

Eugene G. Grace asserts wages must be lowered or steel prices raised.

Bethlehem's directors declared the regular quarterly dividends of $1.75 a share on the 7 per cent preferred stock and 25 cents on the 5 per cent $20 par preferred. Both payments will be made Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 2. The directors took no action on a dividend on the common stock. The company has paid no common dividend this year. In 1937 it paid a total of $5 a share.

Profits Below Year Ago.

Bethlehem had a net profit of $994,908 in the first quarter of this year. In the second quarter of 1937 its net profit was $10,022,874, which was equal to $2.56 a share on the common stock.

Discussing the company's situation after the directors' meeting in New York, Eugene G. Grace, president, asserted there must be a reduction in labor costs or an increase in prices of steel products to increase the spread between production costs and selling prices if the steel industry is to make a profit. However, Bethlehem has not discussed the question of wages with its workers, he said.

Orders Below Present Output.

Grace said the volume of new orders booked for the current month is insufficient to support the present operating rate of about 40 per cent. New orders are only sufficient for a rate of about 37 per cent, he continued.

Foreign business is tapering, he said. The company is doing practically no war business, he added, although some of the steel sent abroad may be converted into war materials by the purchasers.

The value of orders on hand on June 30 was $89,916,012, against $99,-93[illegible]2 on March 31 and $147,216,591 on June 30, 1937. Operations in the second quarter averaged 35.7 per cent of capacity, against 34.6 per cent in the first quarter of this year and 92.9 per cent in the second quarter of 1937.

Earnings for Half Year.

Net profit for the first half of this year was $1,145,213, equal to 15 cents a share on the 5 per cent preferred stock after 7 per cent preferred dividend requirements. This compares with $18,316,707, or $4.57 a share, earned on the common stock in the first half of 1937.

Employment was reported as amounting to between 82,000 and 83,000 men in the first and second quarters of this year, compared with between 103,000 and 104,000 in the like 1937 periods.

Republic Steel's second quarter loss of $2,856,317 compares with a net profit of $487,251 in the second quarter of 1937. In the first quarter of 1938 the company had a loss of $3,052,564.

LIGHT STEEL RAIL AND TIN PLATE PRICES REDUCED

Reduced prices of additional steel products were disclosed yesterday. Tin plate was quoted at $5.25 per base box in Gary and Pittsburgh. The reduction at Gary was $4 a ton and at Pittsburgh it was $2 a ton. The other price cut was a $3 a ton reduction for light rails. The new price is $40 a ton. Light rails are used in mines and by small carriers.

Officials of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation said yesterday that although persons in the steel business were discussing the prices yesterday as if they were new, actually they have been in effect since steel prices generally were cut on June 24.

Tin plate is used in large amounts by the canning companies. The base box contains 112 sheets of tin plate, each measuring 14x20 inches. This is the base size. The standard size rail price remains unchanged at $42.50 a ton.

ADD TWO CARS TO LOS ANGELES 'STREAMLINER'

One of the North Western-Union Pacific streamliners, the City of Los Angeles, is being increased by two cars, the North Western announced yesterday. One of the cars is a new observation lounge car, to be called "The Copper King," and the other is a new all-room sleeping car. The Copper King is said to be the first railroad car in which copper has been used extensively for interior decoration, finishing, and appointment.

Another feature will be "light conditioned windows." These windows will admit sunlight, it is said, through the "use of Polaroid discs." The passenger will be able to control the amount of sunlight by turning a window handle.

CHICAGO, AURORA AND ELGIN WAGE FIGHT IN COURT

A. A. Sprague, receiver for the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad, yesterday asked Federal Judge William H. Holly what he should do about a wage controversy with 350 union employés of the line. Sprague explained that because of financial difficulties he had proposed a 10 per cent reduction in wages when the work contract expired on May 31.

Sprague offered a sliding scale whereby 1½ per cent of the proposed wage cut would be restored if the average daily income for a month reaches $5,650. For each additional $150 of daily income 1½ per cent would be restored. The average for June was $5,287 and for the first six months of 1938 it was $5,466. The men, members of the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America, refused the scale.

Judge Holly referred the case to Jacob I. Grossman, master in chancery, for a recommendation.

Wage Debate Gets Nowhere in Two Weeks

Railroad managements and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen yesterday closed the second week of debate on a 15 per cent wage cut just where they had started on July 18. Each side declares it will not budge from its original position. Railroad management, represented by H. A. Enochs, insists it will cut wages 15 per cent. The trainmen, represented by A. F. Whitney, say they will not accept a cut.

At yesterday's meeting at the Stevens hotel arguments between the carriers' joint conference committee, of which Enochs is chairman, and Whitney grew a little more heated.

Says Mediator Is Needed.

Enochs, declaring that the managements will not give in, asked Whitney how much longer he needed to present his arguments. And he indicated that he does not see why a federal mediator should not now be called.

Whitney answered by saying that he is obeying the law with respect to the manner in which negotiations between railroad management and labor shall be conducted.

Whitney disclosed that he had written a letter to the heads of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Order of Railway Conductors, and the Switchmen's Union of North America in which he urged them to deny reports that they were considering a compromise with the managements.

Trainmen Act Separately.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen has been carrying on its negotiations with the railroads alone. It withdrew from the Railway Labor Executives' association because of differences over railroad retirement legislation. The other operating unions are being represented in the association.

Railroad expenditures on "propaganda" continued to be the subject of debate yesterday. Enochs contended that the amount spent annually on certain activities of the Association of American Railroads, even if $10,000,000 as alleged, would be a small amount for an industry valued at 26 billion dollars to spend to tell its story to the public.

Whitney contended that money spent for "educational purposes" ought properly to be applied to the employés' wages.

The meeting was adjourned until 10 Monday morning. Enoch's comment as he left the lobby outside the meeting room was "We are still spinning the plate." The Enochs committee will meet today with the Harrison group at the Palmer house.

WHEAT AND CORN MOVE LOWER IN QUIET SESSION

Speculative interest in the grain markets was small yesterday. For the seventh successive day wheat and corn futures held within a range of about 1 cent a bushel. The markets showed an easy undertone. Al deliveries of rye dipped to new seasonal lows.

Wheat turned slightly upward early in sympathy with unexpected strength in Liverpool, but pressure increased later. Closing trades were unchanged to ⅛ cent a bushel lower on the Chicago Board of Trade. Corn was ⅛ to ¼ cent lower, and rye, 1¼ to 1¾ cents lower.

Purchases of about 500,000 bushels of September wheat futures were attributed to export interests.

Pronounced weakness developed in the lard market. Futures and cash prices fell 20 cents per 100 pounds. Brokers reported commission houses which frequently act for eastern interests had been heavy sellers.

STOCK EXCHANGE TO LIMIT TRADE OF SPECIALISTS

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—The first move by the New York Stock exchange to segregate broker and dealer functions of its members will be made within a few days, when the exchange is expected to start an actual floor test of a system whereby specialists in a number of selected stocks will act only as specialists executing orders, it was declared today.

At the same time the specialists would be restricted from transacting any business for their own account. Such a move would be in line with the current discussions between the officials of the exchange and representatives of the Securities and Exchange commission.

GASOLINE JOBBERS MOVE TO END PRICE WAR OF RETAILERS

A move was made yesterday to end the gasoline price war which is reported to be threatening some retail dealers with ruin. Meeting at the Stevens hotel, the Chicago Gasoline Jobbers' association voted to send to each of the 2,400 retail dealers in the city a questionnaire asking his opinion on plans to correct the situation.

Oscar L. Peterson, chairman of the meeting, said that several plans are to be sent to the retailers. One provides for a uniform posting of a 3 cents a gallon discount to be placed at all stations on regular gasoline.

The results of the questionnaire will be announced at the next meeting of the jobbers' association. The meeting will be held as soon as most of the dealers reply.

Since the "price war" started about five weeks ago, motorists have been buying gasoline at from 2 to 6 cents under the generally accepted price of 19½ cents a gallon.

N. Y. BANKS CUT BUSINESS LOANS; CHICAGO'S GAIN

Commercial banks in New York yesterday reported a decline in loans and investments in the week ended Wednesday. Chicago banks reported a moderate expansion in commercial loans but no change in their aggregate loans and investments.

A week ago Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, addressed a warning to all banks in the country to expand loans or face new lending competition from the government. So far at least, the warning has had little effect, yesterday's statements indicated.

New York banks cut loans to brokers and dealers 17 millions. Commercial loans were off 1 million from a week earlier. Chicago banks increased commercial loans 2 millions but cut other loans and investments by an equal amount. Details of the report follow:

United States Gold Stocks Continue Rise

The treasury yesterday reported that gold stocks of the United States reached $13,000,839,653 on July 26, an increase of $500,200 over the preceding day. The total passed the $13,000,000,000 mark July 25. No new engagements of gold were reported yesterday. Major foreign currencies closed slightly lower in relation to the dollar, the British pound falling ⅛ cent to $4.91⅞.

157 Companies Profits Fall 62 Per Cent

New York, July 28.—(AP)—Second quarter profits of the first 157 companies to report earnings were 62 per cent below the comparable period last year, a compilation by the Associated Press today indicated.

The business recession slashed aggregate income of this group from $346,584,400 in the quarter ended June 30, 1937 to $131,783,400 for the latest quarter.

The most drastic slumps occurred in the so-called heavy or capital goods industries. Concerns supplying the wants of the ultimate consumer fared better.

Important Groups Show Losses.

A number of important groups had aggregate net losses. Steel manufacturers, railroads, railroad equipment, and automobile accessory firms were among important industries unable to show a profit at the low level of activity prevailing during the second quarter.

Small manufacturers and producers falling in the "miscellaneous" category were hard hit.

Building equipment firms, normally among the most severely affected, reported a below average slump of only 53 per cent from the second quarter last year. This resulted mainly from the relatively high level of residential building activity throughout the country between March 31 and June 30, comparing favorably with last year.

Oil companies reported a decline in net profits of only slightly more than one-third. Utilities and food concerns saw income dip 14 and 12 per cent, respectively.

Decline by Industries.

The following tabulations shows second period earnings of major industries, the number of companies reporting, and the percentage decline in profits compared with the second quarter of 1937:

560 INVESTING TRUSTS' ASSETS OFF 35% IN YEAR

SEC Report Shows Market Losses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 28.—[Special.]—Reflecting the sharp decline in stock values during the year, assets of approximately 560 investing trusts and companies in 1937 fell 1½ billion dollars. This was a drop of 35 per cent from the 1936 level to a total of 2 billion 800 million, according to information furnished today by the Securities and Exchange commission.

Assets of such companies at the end of the year were about the level of 1933. This shrinkage in market value of assets, said the SEC, in a report to congress today as part of its program leading to regulatory legislation, was due mainly to the decline in value of stock assets rather than liquidations, repurchases, or excess dividends.

In Report to Congress.

Today's report consisted of the first two chapters of the second part of a report on a three year investigation of investment trusts and companies. The first part was filed with congress on June 13. Specific recommendations will not be made by the SEC until congress next convenes.

The total estimated assets at the end of 1937 were principally those of management investment companies. This type had total assets of 1 billion 100 million at that date, a drop of 700 million for the year. At the close of 1936 these companies had 79 per cent of their assets in common stocks. No figure was given for 1937.

In contrast to the total at the close of 1937 assets of approximately 680 investment trusts and companies at the close of 1929 amounted to 6 billion 300 million dollars.

Trusts Have Fixed Assets.

The distinction between investment trusts and investment companies is that the first has its assets fixed by the terms of the trust, while the second has various degrees of management in the selection of investments.

"An important factor in the fluctuations in the total assets of the investment companies," the report said, "was the shrinkage in total assets of the investment trusts and companies which were ultimately to form part of the Atlas corporation and the Equity corporation groups."

These companies had assets with a market value of 985 million dollars at the close of 1929 and 201 millions at the end of 1936, or a decline of 784 millions.

Losses Before Consolidation.

"Substantially all of this dollar amount of shrinkage occurred prior to the time when these companies came under the Atlas corporation and the Equity corporation management and approximately 60 per cent reflected the experience of the Goldman Sachs Trading corporation and the United Founders corporation with its subsidiary and affiliated companies," the report continued.

The report indicates that greater fluctuations occurred in total assets of investment trusts and companies than the year-end data used for purposes of the study showed.

8 Billion Before Crash.

While the year-end figure showed assets of 6 billion 300 million dollars in 1929 for all companies studied, it is estimated that total assets reached a market value of 8 billion in the fall of 1929 just prior to the market break. They fell to below two billion in the middle of 1932, compared with a year-end figure for that year of 2½ billion.

The groups, other than investment companies, covered by the study accounted for only a relatively small part of total funds in the industry. These types included fixed and semi-fixed investment trade, installment investment plans, face amount installment certificate companies and common trust funds.

BANK CLEARINGS 14.6 PCT. LOWER THAN YEAR AGO

New York, July 28.—(AP)—Bank clearings in twenty-two leading cities for the week ended July 27 dropped below the corresponding volume a year earlier for, with one exception, the thirty-seventh consecutive time, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

Turnover in the latest period totaled $4,651,240,000, or 14.6 per cent under $5,446,318,000 in the like week last year, and was $714,421,000 under the preceding week.

New York volume contracted to $2,853,828,000 from $3,321,633,000 in 1937, a drop of 14.1 per cent. Outside cities reported a total of $1,797,412,000, a decline of 15.4 per cent under $2,124,685,000 last year.

Except for a 4.5 per cent increase in New Orleans, all outside centers showed percentage declines from a year earlier. Clearings at Chicago totaled $258,800,000, a dip of 19.2 per cent from $320,300,000 in 1937.

Motor Issues Show Stocks the Way Back

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—Stock market prices closed fractions to two points higher today. Automobile issues led the upturn. Most of the advance was made in the last hour, when a sudden buying spurt broke the list out of a narrow trading range.

Turnover was the smallest in two weeks, only 1,065,630 shares changing hands.

Opening prices were slightly easier as a result of an accumulation of overnight selling orders. Part of this supply was said to have come from traders fearing margin calls in view of the severe shakeout Wednesday.

Many Close Near Top.

However, a better tone soon became manifest and the list edged fractionally higher. The late rally pushed most issues to the best levels of the day.

Several favorable news developments aided sentiment. Chief factors were the better than expected second quarter earnings reports made public after the close yesterday by Chrysler and General Motors.

Motor and truck shares were conspicuously buoyant. Yellow Truck, General Motors, and Chrysler, in that order, were the most active issues of the day. They added 1¼, 2, and 2⅜ points, respectively. In the low priced division, Studebaker, also active, Packard, Greyhound, and Omnibus worked fractionally higher.

Coppers were another strong group. Anaconda, which advanced 1¼ points in good demand, was the leader. Similar gains were scored by American Smelting, Kennecott, and International Nickel. Easing export copper prices had little influence on shares.

U. S. Steel Gains 1½.

United States Steel and Bethlehem Steel were volume leaders in their group. The first was 1½ higher and Betlehem closed up ¼. Inland Steel spurted nearly 3 points and National Steel made 2¼ points.

Carrier shares closed irregularly higher. New York Central, up 1¼, and Southern Pacific, up ¾, attracted attention.

Douglas, Boeing, Glenn Martin, and North American Aviation registered substantial fractional gains. Bendix Aviation again was a highlight, spurting 1⅛ points.

Heavy machinery shares, notably General Electric, Westinghouse, International Harvester, Allis Chalmers, Deere, and Case made gains reaching three points.

MASONITE CORP. ORDERS 50 CENT EXTRA DIVIDEND

A year ago the company paid an extra of 75 cents on the common. Directors also declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 cents on the preferred stock yesterday.

SOARING TAXES DIVERT CAPITAL FROM BUSINESS

Investors Have Less Money, Incentive.

(This is the fifth of a series of articles on the factors hindering genuine business recovery. The sixth will appear tomorrow.)

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Rising taxes and government deficits promising still higher taxes in the future have a deadening effect on enterprise for two reasons:

1. The higher the individual's tax bill the less money he is able to save out of his annual earnings to invest in new ventures. Only such investment can restore jobs to idle workers.

2. The higher the tax on corporations the less incentive there is for private investors to buy the stocks and bonds of such corporations. Nobody wants to pay a good price for a company's securities if the tax collectors are going to levy so much taxes on that company that only the scraps of earnings are left to cover the bondholders' interest and the stockholders' dividends.

Taxes Climb During War.

High taxes are not the invention of the present administration. The big bulge came late in the Wilson administration, when federal levies were greatly increased to cover the heavy wartime expenditures.

The bulge at that time, however, was not regarded with so much discouragement by business men and investors. The war was recognized as a just reason for ballooning government expenditures. The emergency was regarded as a temporary thing. It was generally realized that once the war was over these large temporary expenditures could be quickly curtailed. Hence, taxes could be—and were—reduced.

Total tax bills of the leading mail order companies have risen eight fold in the last five years. This diagram is based on figures compiled by the American Federation of Investors. Sales taxes not included.

The present "emergency" is a depression. Its termination is uncertain because in the opinion of many people the very spending with which the administration is attempting to cure it seems to be making it longer.

Little Gain in Employment.

There are about as many people unemployed now as there were in 1933. Many industries are operating at about the same low rate of activity as they were in 1933. This situation exists despite the expenditure of 39 billion dollars by the federal government since March, 1933.

Because of any lack of assurance that the "emergency" expenditures and high taxes will be reduced as they were after the war the present rates of taxation are a greater deterrent to enterprise.

A study recently made by the Illinois Manufacturers' association shows that indirect taxes—taxes paid by some one else and passed along to the consumer in higher prices—take about six dollars weekly out of the pay check of the worker earning $25 per week. That tells the story of reduced purchasing power and impaired standard of living.

But what about the impact of direct taxes on the individual with a large income? It is the latter who must do much toward making jobs for the $25 per week workers through reinvestment of income.

Take the federal income tax alone,

New York Bonds.

New York, July 28.—(AP)—A demand for railroad issues gave the bond market a recovery tinge today. News that the Baltimore & Ohio railroad would meet its August 1 interest payments was greeted at the opening of trading with a lively interest in these liens, spreading to most of the carrier list in later trading.

B. & O. Convertible 4½s gained 1⅝ and the 5s were up 1¾. New York Central 5s were among the widest gainers, up 2¼. Southern Railway 5½s were up 2¾ and Southern Pacific refunding 4s advanced 2¼.

Utilities and industrials were steady. Trading in these groups, however, was light.

U. S. treasury loans were slightly higher, gains ranging from 1-32 to 3-32ds in active issues.

PLAN FOR R-K-O TO REORGANIZE FILED IN COURT

Provides for Exchange of Bonds and Stock.

New York, July 28.—(AP)—Special Master George W. Alger today filed in the United States District court with his approval the amended plan for reorganization of Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation, under section 77-B of the bankruptcy act.

Today's step is one in a series begun in 1934. The plan requires approval by the court to be effective. Some of its provisions were:

Common Stock Offer.

Holders of $12,718,500 of outstanding old debentures, with $4,200,000 accrued interest, will receive one share of new preferred voting stock and five shares of common stock for each $100 due.

Holders of old common stock will receive 1-6 of a share of new stock for each share of old, together with a 10 year option to buy one share of new common at $15 or ⅓ share of new common at $10 for each old share held.

Alger estimated $1,500,000 would be made available through the sale of new stock, which would bring the company's cash to $2,100,000; that R. K. O. Radio Pictures corporation has sufficient operating cash of $1,500,000; and that subsidiary theater operating companies have cash balances of $3,500,000, not available for general uses of the parent company.

To safeguard the new preferred stock the plan provides that no funded debt in excess of $3,000,000 shall be issued while this stock is outstanding if objection is made within 45 days after notice by holders of a majority of the new preferred stock.

Claims Are Scaled Down.

Rockefeller Center's $8,000,000 claim, scaled down to $5,000,000, will be met under the plan by 500,000 shares of new common. Other unsecured claims allowed to the extent of $8,000,000 will be liquidated on the basis of ten shares of new common for each $100.

Total assets of R. K. O. corporation if the plan becomes effective were estimated at $72,279,075.15.

Creditors and attorneys met in court later today and H. C. Rickaby, counsel for the Atlas corporation and other proponents of the reorganization plan moved for a dismissal to show cause why the plan should not be adopted in the form approved by the special master. Federal District Judge H. C. Goddard granted the motion, returnable Sept. 8.
